Big Three Leaders Discuss Atom Issue

Defense Plan For NATO Predicted

PARIS, Dec. 16 (AP)—Foreign policy chiefs of the United States, Britain and France talked over today the issue of who should give the word to use atomic weapons in event of an attack by the Soviet Union.

An authoritative source who declined to be identified by name predicted the Big Three would come up with an atomic defense plan that would be okayed by the other NATO members. But this informant did not disclose what the plan was.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden, and French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, who serves as his own foreign minister, tackled the atomic and other problems in a three-hour meeting at the French Foreign Ministry.

Will Have Bearing

The thinking of the Big Three will have a big bearing on the decision of the entire North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council when it takes up the atomic subject tomorrow.

The United States made its position clear here today. An authoritative spokesman said the United States takes the stand that no surefire system can be set up in advance to determine how the big decision on use of atomic weapons can be made. In the American view, a surprise attack from Russia might wipe out any machinery set up by NATO to make such a decision.

The United States plans to oppose any attempt to put stringent restrictions on use of atomic weapons, on the ground this would reduce their effectiveness as a deterrent to aggression.

Basically the United States believes Western Europe must decide if it wants to be defended from Communist attack or liberated from an occupation later.

NATO's military leaders will present their "new look" plan for European defense, which includes use of atomic weapons against any attack by the 300 or more Communist divisions of the Soviet bloc.

Want To Have Say

Both the British and French would like to have some way of making sure they would have their say in a crisis. Some Europeans have expressed fear the United States might be "trigger happy" in a touchy situation. The British want the military commanders bound by a requirement to consult civilian governments before using a nuclear weapon. The French have suggested a Big Three "standing group" with power to act in event of an emergency.

Recommendations of NATO's military leaders will be accepted or rejected by the 14 ministers of NATO's Council, which will also review last year's progress and chart future plans.

West Germany is not yet a NATO member, pending ratification of the Paris agreements to rearm the Germans and restore their sovereignty. The French National Assembly is scheduled to begin its ratification debate next Monday.

Soft Coal Pay Level To Be Set By Government

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The government announced today it is starting proceedings to fix a government contract minimum wage in the soft coal industry as asked by union and industry leaders.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said he was initiating steps "at once" to establish a minimum pay level which coal mines would have to meet in order to be eligible for government contracts exceeding $10,000. He did not say what the minimum would be.

Mitchell acted fast after receiving the request in a personal call at his office yesterday from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers Union (UMW), and two leading industry spokesmen, George Love, president of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., and A. R. Matthews, president of the Pocahontas Fuel Co.

They requested that firms filling government coal orders be required, under Mitchell's powers in the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act, to pay the same $18.25 a day basic pay as required by union contract.

It was understood that the union and industry leaders hope such a minimum wage will serve to deprive a growing number of small, nonunion mines of government contracts, leaving the federal business to the unionized part of the industry. About 20 per cent of production is estimated to be nonunion.

"Because of the deterioration which has taken place in the coal industry during the past few years," Mitchell said, "it is necesary at this time, in the interest of preventing further weakening of the coal industry, to see that the fair minimum wage standards required by the act are applied to government purchases of coal."

The Walsh-Healey Act has been in effect since 1936, but no minimum wage has ever been set up for the coal industry. The law permits the secretary of labor to establish minimum wage levels for industries equal to the "prevailing wage" for non-government work.

Woman Freed In Murder Case

LAKE ANDES, S. D., Dec. 16 (AP)—A jury of 10 men and 2 women today found a 36-year-old farm wife, the mother of 10 children, innocent of a charge of murdering her husband.

Mrs. Blanche Conzemius testified during her brief trial that she shot her husband early on the morning of last Sept. 9 when he attempted to attack their oldest daughter, 13.

In his instructions to the jury, Circuit Judge James R. Bandy said what when a father makes an attack on a daughter he is a trespasser in his own home, forfeits his right to be in the house and is subject to the consequences any trespasser might expect.

"It is not to her to prove she was justified," the judge said, "but the state must prove she was not justified."

The 13-year-old daughter wept during her mother's 40-minute testimony.

Ike To Extend Season's Greetings To Nation Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower will extend season's greetings to the nation by radio and television tomorrow afternoon and then light a giant community Christmas tree near the White House.

The President will speak about five minutes during a half hour program starting at 5 p.m. EST. All major radio and TV networks plan to carry the talk.

When the President presses a button to light the 67-foot tree, he will set in motion a three-week Pageant of Peace celebration of religious worship, entertainment and thanksgiving.

Million Immigrants Have Entered Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 16 (AP) — More than a million immigrants have come to Canada since World War II, swelling the population past the 15 million mark.

Figures available today indicate a 1954 influx of 155,000, down slightly from last year. Most of the new Canadians come from Britain, Holland, Germany and Italy. Virtually all have found employment in Canada's booming economy.

Doctor Denies Prediction World Will End On Tuesday

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (AP)—Dr. Charles Laughead denied today he predicted the end of the world next Tuesday but said he believes there may be "violent upheavals" on the earth's surface then.

The president of Michigan State college, Dr. John A. Hannah, said yesterday that Dr. Laughead resigned as a staff physician at the school because of his belief the world would end Dec. 21.

Dr. Hannah said the physician preached the theory at student meetings.

But Dr. Laughead denied that he resigned voluntarily. He said he was asked to resign. He also denied the end of the world prediction.

However, he said, he has been serving as a "reporter" for individuals who he believes have been receiving communication from outer space telling of the coming "cataclysms".

He did not identify the individuals.

"These communications show," he said, "there will be certain cataclysmic effects Tuesday in certain localities. One of them is in the Midwest around Lake Michigan and others are off the Eastern and Western Seaboards."

He said they may cause the legendary continents of Atlantis and Mu, the "birthplace of humanity," to rise from the floor of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

(Several hours before the interview with Dr. Laughead an intense earthquake shook Nevada, Oregon, Idaho and California. The quake was described as the heaviest of three that have jarred the area since July.)

The doctor said the persons with whom he is in contact receive their communications by various means, some as a spiritual medium would by code tappings, some through voices and others "through actual contact with men in flying saucers".

Pontiff Suffers From Hernia

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 16 (AP)—X-ray plates show Pope Pius XII is suffering from a hernia of the esophagus—of "small importance"—as well as gastritis, his personal physician said tonight.

This means there is an abnormal bulge in the tube which carries food from the throat to the stomach and that the stomach is inflamed.

Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi told of the results of an exhaustive study of 36 plates used in the first X-ray examination of the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church, conducted in the Pope's Vatican apartment this morning. Fears that he had an ulcer were set at rest. And the idea immediate surgery might be needed was ruled out.

Additional X-rays of the lower intestinal tract were made in the late afternoon. Doctors said they showed nothing abnormal.

Announcement of the readings brought relief to both Vatican officials and physicians concerned over the slow recovery of the pontiff from his collapse two weeks ago.

LITTLE ROCK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Fred L. Morrison, who has been selling and renovating men's hats for 35 years, is closing up his shop after Dec. 31.

West Germany Lower House OKs Treaties

BONN, Germany, Dec. 16 (AP) — West Germany's lower House of Parliament tonight approved the first reading of the Paris treaties to arm 500,000 German soldiers in Western Europe's defense.

There was no recorded vote as the Bundestag (lower house) agreed to send the treaties to committees for further study.

Earlier the house had rejected, 236-153 with 3 abstentions, a Socialist motion to postpone further treaty action until Big-Power talks are held with Russia on unification of Germany.

The house also sent to committees for further study two Socialist motions calling for new talks with France on the future of the Saar and for immediate Big Four talks.

Many anti-rearmament socialists, who put their hopes of eventually blocking the treaties on the second and third readings in January, voted with the government tonight.

After the Bundestag takes final action on the treaties they must be approved by the Bundesrat (upper house).

The vote came after two days of debate in which Socialists assailed German rearmament under present conditions as "idiotic." Socialist Leader Erich Ollenhauer, charged the government is dodging requests for information on the cost of rearmament.

In turn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer accused Socialists of "saying no to everything" and never coming forward with constructive proposals of their own.

Winding up the argument for the treaties, Adenauer declared West Germany's rearmament was necessary "to prevent all of Germany from being delivered into hopeless slavery."

Third Heavy Quake Hits Nevada Area

RENO, Nev., Dec. 16 (AP)—The third and heaviest earthquake since July rocked Nevada and rumbled into four other Western states early today. Almost miraculously, it caused only minor scattered damage.

The severe quake centered its jarring force in the bleak and sparsely-populated desert about 70 miles northeast of this gambling town. Light aftershocks jiggled western Nevada through the day.

Its rolling waves shook the length of California and Nevada and also reached into Idaho, Oregon and Utah. Shocks were felt from San Diego to Boise, 800 miles apart; and San Francisco to Salt Lake City, 700 miles.

Separated 33 Years, Woman Seeks Divorce

ATLANTA, Dec. 16 (AP)—A 46-year-old Atlanta woman is seeking a divorce after a separation she says has lasted nearly 33 years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tapley Webb in a petition filed in Superior Court said she married Gustus T. Webb in January 1919 when she was 11 years old and separated from him in February 1922, just after her 14th birthday.

Britain Is Concerned Over Planes' Delay

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today a delay in delivery of new fighter planes is causing his government anxiety.

He refused, however, to set up a government commission to probe the priority building systems and said there are "important lessons to be learned from experience."

That suggestion was made today by the group which put the big safety show—Safe Driving Day—on the road yesterday.

An Associated Press survey, including several delayed reports, showed that 49 traffic deaths occurred yesterday.

The National Safety Council figures that for each fatality there are 35 cases of injury and 225 accidents. That ratio indicates there were 11,025 accidents and injuries to 1,715 persons on S-D Day.

An AP survey, made to provide a yardstick, showed there were 64 traffic deaths on Dec. 1. Last year traffic accidents averaged about 27,000 a day.

There were 15 fewer traffic deaths reported on S-D Day than on Dec. 1. And the S-D Day toll was far under the average of 97 deaths for the first 10 months of this year.

Both the S-D Day and Dec. 1 surveys were made on a "spot" basis, counting only the deaths occurred on those days. The fatality average for the first 10 months of this year included deaths that occurred a day or more after the victim was injured.

President Eisenhower's Action Committee for Traffic Safety, which sponsored S-D Day, hailed it as a success. The committee director, Rear Adm. H. B. Miller (ret.), stated:

"We wish, of course, that the actual saving in lives on S-D Day could have been greater but, if this saving could have prevailed throughout the entire year of 1954, more than 6,000 lives would have been saved. . ."

There were no deaths in 24 states.

Deaths by states in the final tabulation included:

California, 3, Florida 3, Georgia 2, Illinois 3, Indiana 5, Iowa 1, Kentucky 2, Louisiana 1, Massachusetts 2, Mississippi 3, New Jersey 1, New York 3, New Mexico 4, North Carolina 1, North Dakota 1, Ohio 2, Oklahoma 1, Pennsylvania 3, South Carolina 1, Texas 1, Vermont 1, Virginia 2, Washington 2, Wisconsin 1.

Dr. Sheppard Trial Goes To Jurors Today

Osteopath Remains Calm As The State Finishes Arguments

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16 (AP) — Dr. Samuel Sheppard placed his life in a jury's hands today with an avowal of innocence—and a calm, unvengeful, fearless faith in God.

The case of the 30-year-old osteopath accused of the July 4 murder of his wife, Marilyn, goes tomorrow to a jury that holds the power to put him in the electric chair.

Defense attorney William J. Corrigan read into the court record in his closing argument a portion of a letter he said Dr. Sheppard wrote from his jail cell. The date was not specified.

Doesn't Seek Revenge

"Finally, I am completely free of any desire for revenge," the passage read. "I find that I have no anger in my heart toward those who pressed for my arrest.

"There is only one judge that any of us should truly fear and I face Him without hesitation or apprehension."

Without mentioning the death penalty in so many words, Asst. Prosecutor John J. Mahon in the final argument of the nine weeks trial went all out for a first-degree murder verdict. And he told the jury:

"In your hands I rest a life, the life of this defendant."

Mahon repeatedly pointed to Dr. Sheppard as the killer of his wife. He suggested the osteopath dashed out of his house after the slaying "maybe with the thought in mind of ending his life in the waters of Lake Erie."

"But the cold water changed his mind," said the tall, white-haired state attorney, shouting at a pitch higher than any he has reached before during the long trial.

Mahon pounded hard on the theme that if Sheppard surprised his wife's murderer in the act with the weapon still at hand the osteopath—"the only possible living witness"—would not have escaped with a single blow to the neck. Sheppard said the killer struck him on the back of the neck and knocked him out in Marilyn's bedroom.

Corrigan made an impassioned two-hour plea as he wound up the defense case for Dr. Sheppard. The defendant was moved to quiet tears more than once as he listened attentively.

The state says he killed Marilyn in a quarrel over his illicit love affair with pretty Susan Hayes. She is a former laboratory technician in his osteopathic hospital.

Corrigan refused to accept that as a motive. Time and again he demanded an explanation from the prosecution of Marilyn's death, shouting "For what, for why and with what. No weapon ever has been produced."

Target Of Forces

The defense lawyer also suggested Sheppard's profession made him the target of oppressive forces.

"Maybe there are undertones here," he told the jury of seven men and five women. "Osteopaths and osteopathic hospitals, the Sheppard family as doctors. Are there some undertones that started this thing against the family?"

"The stories that went around this town and the tales that were told, some of them vile and dirty. The lurid headlines and misleading headlines."

President Names Rockefeller As Special Adviser

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP) — President Eisenhower today named Nelson A. Rockefeller as a special adviser on how to win allies and friends in this time of cold war and uneasy truce.

The White House made public an exchange of letters between the President and Rockefeller. Included was his appointment as as special assistant to the President and his resignation as undersecretary of health, education and welfare.

Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty told Newsmen Rockefeller's tasks were "much broader" than those faced by Jackson. He explained that, while Jackson wrestled with psychological warfare in the cold war, Rockefeller would add to that job consideration of how to coordinate th work of all government agencies toward the President's program for peace.

Rockefeller was busy today winding up his work as top assistant to Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby and preparing to move into the executive office building next door to the White House.

No full clarification of Rockefeller's duties was immediately forthcoming. However, Eisenhower said in his letter that Rockefeller would attend meetings of the Cabinet, the National Security Council, the Council on Foreign Economic policy, and the Operations Coordinating Board.

Brothers Sentenced For Holding Slaves

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 16 (AP)—Two Sumter County, Ala., brothers today were sentenced to 18 months in federal prison for holding Negroes in slavery.

U. S. District Judge Sybourne H. Lynne imposed sentence on Oscar Edwin Dial, 34, and Fred Dial, 25, prosperous white farmers of west central Alabama.

Federal peonage indictments originally were returned against seven brothers and cousins in Alabama and Mississippi, but U. S. Atty. Frank M. Johnson Jr., had asked dismissal of the other cases.

Oldest Labor Union In U. S. To Observe 140th Birthday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The nation's oldest labor union—and it will fight anyone who disputes its claim — announced today everything is set for its 140th birthday party.

The Columbia Typographical Union, made up of 3,500 printers in the nation's print-loving capital, will hold a ball on Jan. 8. And they will look fondly at a history that dates back to the time when James Madison was in the White House.

Nineteen Washington printers met on Dec. 10, 1814, to form "one body for the mutual benefit of each, binding ourselves one to the other." On Jan. 7, 1815, the job was complete, with a constitution and bylaws.

"There were other unions in the country before ours," President Jesse B. Manbeck said, "but they'd come into existence for a particular purpose. Once they had won—or lost—their point, they'd disappear. We've stayed here right along, and we've got the records to prove it."

These records show that in the early days, instead of prolonged negotiations, the printers merely sent around a "scale of prices" to their employers.

The printers were firm with Congress from the start. The scale then was $9 for a 60-hour week, or 15 cents an hour. But if Congress were in town, the union price was $10 a week.

Well, times have changed. The government Printing Office, begun so modestly by Abraham Lincoln, now has 1,500 printers. Add to this the monthly magazines of unions and trade associations, and you see why printing is one of this city's biggest businesses. Only New York and Chicago have more printers.

Minimum wages for printers here now range from $2.87 to $3.15 an hour. On the other hand, no longer do they get a bonus for putting a congressman's hot words into cold type.

Kremlin Note Threatens To Cancel Treaty

Moscow Bluntly Says Paris Must Not OK West German Arming

MOSCOW, Dec. 16 (AP)—In a blunt note to the French, the Kremlin threatened today to cancel the French-Soviet mutual aid pact if Paris ratifies the agreements to arm West Germany. It said France would bear full responsibility in this event.

The French National Assembly begins debate on ratification Monday.

In a simultaneous move underscoring Soviet Global policy, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov directed a statement to Japan expressing "a positive attitude" toward normalizing relations with Tokyo. The Soviet Union has never signed a peace treaty with Japan, whose new government is under strong pressure to open up avenues of trade to the huge Communist-held market.

Note Is Formal Warning

The Soviet note to France, announced at a specially called Foreign Office news conference, appeared designed for its impact on next week's French deliberations. The note was a formalization of previous Soviet warnings and a climax to a number of maneuvers against France, considered the keystone country of the projected Western European Union. The intention was indicated by the note's reference to previous French rejection of "proposals of the Soviet Union and its friendly warnings."

By ratifying the Paris agreements, the note said, France would show a desire not to abide by the 20-year French-Soviet pact of alliance and mutual assistance signed in 1944. Ratification would "fundamentally contradict the obligations assumed by France" under the treaty, it added. The treaty pledged mutual assistance in the event of a rebirth of German aggression.

Will Annul Treaty

"Under such curcumstances, the Soviet government considers it its duty to state that the act of ratification of the Paris agreement will annul the Soviet-French treaty. The entire responsibility for this will rest upon the French government."

The Soviet Union has previously threatened to abrogate the treaty, notably during the recent "security conference" of Communist nations in Moscow. That conference also threatened to set up a combined military command to mobilize against the Western coalition.

For the French, abrogation of the 1944 treaty would mean Moscow no longer was committed on paper to go to the aid of France in the event a remilitarized Germany should attack the French.

Hunters Shoot Own Mistletoe

MOUNT VERNON, Ind., Dec. 16 (AP)—You can buy mistletoe for Christmas kiss bait at a shop or you can get it the way gallant hunters do here — shoot it down yourself out of the treetops.

The parasite green grows so high in elm, black walnut and shellbark hickory trees in the nearby river bottoms that shooting it down is easier than climbing after it.

The sharper-eyed hunters use hollow-point bullets in a .22 caliber rifle, aiming a line of shots that will cut off a limb on which the mistletoe is growing.

The archers are trying their own method. They attach a trailing cord to an arrow, arc it over the tree branch, then pull on the two ends to dislodge the mistletoe from the limb.

More Lie Tests Scheduled For Leads In Murder

BALTIMORE, Dec. 16 (AP)—Police investigating the fatal beating of 14-year-old Carolyn Wasilewski continued to look to the lie detector today for leads in the 5-week-old slaying.

Police declined to identify those who have volunteered to submit the lie detector. They also gave no indication whether any new leads had been turned up.

Fears that he had an ulcer were set at rest. And the idea immediate surgery might be needed was ruled out.

Additional X-rays of the lower intestinal tract were made in the late afternoon. Doctors said they showed nothing abnormal.

Announcement of the readings brought relief to both Vatican officials and physicians concerned over the slow recovery of the pontiff from his collapse two weeks ago.

Million Immigrants Have Entered Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 16 (AP)—More than a million immigrants have come to Canada since World War II, swelling the population past the 15 million mark.

Figures available today indicate a 1954 influx of 155,000, down slightly from last year. Most of the new Canadians come from Britain, Holland, Germany and Italy. Virtually all have found employment in Canada's booming economy.

That suggestion was made today by the group which put the big safety show—Safe Driving Day—on the road yesterday.

An Associated Press survey, including several delayed reports, showed that 49 traffic deaths occurred yesterday.

The National Safety Council figures that for each fatality there are 35 cases of injury and 225 accidents. That ratio indicates there were 11,025 accidents and injuries to 1,715 persons on S-D Day.

An AP survey, made to provide a yardstick, showed there were 64 traffic deaths on Dec. 1. Last year traffic accidents averaged about 27,000 a day.

There were 15 fewer traffic deaths reported on S-D Day than on Dec. 1. And the S-D Day toll was far under the average of 97 deaths for the first 10 months of this year.

Both the S-D Day and Dec. 1 surveys were made on a "spot" basis, counting only the deaths occurred on those days. The fatality average for the first 10 months of this year included deaths that occurred a day or more after the victim was injured.

President Eisenhower's Action Committee for Traffic Safety, which sponsored S-D Day, hailed it as a success. The committee director, Rear Adm. H. B. Miller (ret.), stated:

"We wish, of course, that the actual saving in lives on S-D Day could have been greater but, if this saving could have prevailed throughout the entire year of 1954, more than 6,000 lives would have been saved. . ."

There were no deaths in 24 states.

Deaths by states in the final tabulation included:

California, 3, Florida 3, Georgia 2, Illinois 3, Indiana 5, Iowa 1, Kentucky 2, Louisiana 1, Massachusetts 2, Mississippi 3, New Jersey 1, New York 3, New Mexico 4, North Carolina 1, North Dakota 1, Ohio 2, Oklahoma 1, Pennsylvania 3, South Carolina 1, Texas 1, Vermont 1, Virginia 2, Washington 2, Wisconsin 1.

West Germany Lower House OKs Treaties

BONN, Germany, Dec. 16 (AP)—West Germany's lower House of Parliament tonight approved the first reading of the Paris treaties to arm 500,000 German soldiers in Western Europe's defense.

There was no recorded vote as the Bundestag (lower house) agreed to send the treaties to committees for further study.

Earlier the house had rejected, 236-153 with 3 abstentions, a Socialist motion to postpone further treaty action until Big-Power talks are held with Russia on unification of Germany.

The house also sent to committees for further study two Socialist motions calling for new talks with France on the future of the Saar and for immediate Big Four talks.

Many anti-rearmament socialists, who put their hopes of eventually blocking the treaties on the second and third readings in January, voted with the government tonight.

After the Bundestag takes final action on the treaties they must be approved by the Bundesrat (upper house).

The vote came after two days of debate in which Socialists assailed German rearmament under present conditions as "idiotic." Socialist Leader Erich Ollenhauer, charged the government is dodging requests for information on the cost of rearmament.

In turn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer accused Socialists of "saying no to everything" and never coming forward with constructive proposals of their own.

Winding up the argument for the treaties, Adenauer declared West Germany's rearmament was necessary "to prevent all of Germany from being delivered into hopeless slavery."

Third Heavy Quake Hits Nevada Area

RENO, Nev., Dec. 16 (AP)—The third and heaviest earthquake since July rocked Nevada and rumbled into four other Western states early today. Almost miraculously, it caused only minor scattered damage.

The severe quake centered its jarring force in the bleak and sparsely-populated desert about 70 miles northeast of this gambling town. Light aftershocks jiggled western Nevada through the day.

Its rolling waves shook the length of California and Nevada and also reached into Idaho, Oregon and Utah. Shocks were felt from San Diego to Boise, 800 miles apart; and San Francisco to Salt Lake City, 700 miles.

Engrossed In S-D Talk, Has Mishap

PORT HURON, Mich., Dec. 16 (AP)—Charles Shepard was the only Port Huron resident injured in traffic on S-D Day.

He told police: "I was driving along with a friend earnestly discussing what a wonderful idea Safe-Driving Day was when I became so engrossed I accidentally ran a red light and hit a car." Shepard, 52, fractured his right arm.

Dr. Sheppard Trial Goes To Jurors Today

Osteopath Remains Calm As The State Finishes Arguments

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16 (AP) — Dr. Samuel Sheppard placed his life in a jury's hands today with an avowal of innocence—and a calm, unvengeful, fearless faith in God.

The case of the 30-year-old osteopath accused of the July 4 murder of his wife, Marilyn, goes tomorrow to a jury that holds the power to put him in the electric chair.

Defense attorney William J. Corrigan read into the court record in his closing argument a portion of a letter he said Dr. Sheppard wrote from his jail cell. The date was not specified.

Doesn't Seek Revenge

"Finally, I am completely free of any desire for revenge," the passage read. "I find that I have no anger in my heart toward those who pressed for my arrest.

"There is only one judge that any of us should truly fear and I face Him without hesitation or apprehension."

Without mentioning the death penalty in so many words, Asst. Prosecutor John J. Mahon in the final argument of the nine weeks trial went all out for a first-degree murder verdict. And he told the jury:

"In your hands I rest a life, the life of this defendant."

Mahon repeatedly pointed to Dr. Sheppard as the killer of his wife. He suggested the osteopath dashed out of his house after the slaying "maybe with the thought in mind of ending his life in the waters of Lake Erie."

"But the cold water changed his mind," said the tall, white-haired state attorney, shouting at a pitch higher than any he has reached before during the long trial.

Mahon pounded hard on the theme that if Sheppard surprised his wife's murderer in the act with the weapon still at hand the osteopath—"the only possible living witness"—would not have escaped with a single blow to the neck. Sheppard said the killer struck him on the back of the neck and knocked him out in Marilyn's bedroom.

Corrigan made an impassioned two-hour plea as he wound up the defense case for Dr. Sheppard. The defendant was moved to quiet tears more than once as he listened attentively.

The state says he killed Marilyn in a quarrel over his illicit love affair with pretty Susan Hayes. She is a former laboratory technician in his osteopathic hospital.

Corrigan refused to accept that as a motive. Time and again he demanded an explanation from the prosecution of Marilyn's death, shouting "For what, for why and with what. No weapon ever has been produced."

Target Of Forces

The defense lawyer also suggested Sheppard's profession made him the target of oppressive forces.

"Maybe there are undertones here," he told the jury of seven men and five women. "Osteopaths and osteopathic hospitals, the Sheppard family as doctors. Are there some undertones that started this thing against the family?"

"The stories that went around this town and the tales that were told, some of them vile and dirty. The lurid headlines and misleading headlines."

Separated 33 Years, Woman Seeks Divorce

ATLANTA, Dec. 16 (AP)—A 46-year-old Atlanta woman is seeking a divorce after a separation she says has lasted nearly 33 years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tapley Webb in a petition filed in Superior Court said she married Gustus T. Webb in January 1919 when she was 11 years old and separated from him in February 1922, just after her 14th birthday.

Britain Is Concerned Over Planes' Delay

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today a delay in delivery of new fighter planes is causing his government anxiety.

He refused, however, to set up a government commission to probe the priority building systems and said there are "important lessons to be learned from experience."

GETS NEW JOB — Nelson A. Rockefeller yesterday was appointed by President Eisenhower to the post of a special adviser on how to win allies and friends in this time of cold war and uneasy truce.

President Names Rockefeller As Special Adviser

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP) — President Eisenhower today named Nelson A. Rockefeller as a special adviser on how to win allies and friends in this time of cold war and uneasy truce.

The White House made public an exchange of letters between the President and Rockefeller. Included was his appointment as as special assistant to the President and his resignation as undersecretary of health, education and welfare.

Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty told Newsmen Rockefeller's tasks were "much broader" than those faced by Jackson. He explained that, while Jackson wrestled with psychological warfare in the cold war, Rockefeller would add to that job consideration of how to coordinate th work of all government agencies toward the President's program for peace.

Rockefeller was busy today winding up his work as top assistant to Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby and preparing to move into the executive office building next door to the White House.

No full clarification of Rockefeller's duties was immediately forthcoming. However, Eisenhower said in his letter that Rockefeller would attend meetings of the Cabinet, the National Security Council, the Council on Foreign Economic policy, and the Operations Coordinating Board.

Brothers Sentenced For Holding Slaves

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 16 (AP)—Two Sumter County, Ala., brothers today were sentenced to 18 months in federal prison for holding Negroes in slavery.

U. S. District Judge Sybourne H. Lynne imposed sentence on Oscar Edwin Dial, 34, and Fred Dial, 25, prosperous white farmers of west central Alabama.

Federal peonage indictments originally were returned against seven brothers and cousins in Alabama and Mississippi, but U. S. Atty. Frank M. Johnson Jr., had asked dismissal of the other cases.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The nation's oldest labor union—and it will fight anyone who disputes its claim — announced today everything is set for its 140th birthday party.

The Columbia Typographical Union, made up of 3,500 printers in the nation's print-loving capital, will hold a ball on Jan. 8. And they will look fondly at a history that dates back to the time when James Madison was in the White House.

Nineteen Washington printers met on Dec. 10, 1814, to form "one body for the mutual benefit of each, binding ourselves one to the other." On Jan. 7, 1815, the job was complete, with a constitution and bylaws.

"There were other unions in the country before ours," President Jesse B. Manbeck said, "but they'd come into existence for a particular purpose. Once they had won—or lost—their point, they'd disappear. We've stayed here right along, and we've got the records to prove it."

These records show that in the early days, instead of prolonged negotiations, the printers merely sent around a "scale of prices" to their employers.

The printers were firm with Congress from the start. The scale then was $9 for a 60-hour week, or 15 cents an hour. But if Congress were in town, the union price was $10 a week.

Well, times have changed. The government Printing Office, begun so modestly by Abraham Lincoln, now has 1,500 printers. Add to this the monthly magazines of unions and trade associations, and you see why printing is one of this city's biggest businesses. Only New York and Chicago have more printers.

Minimum wages for printers here now range from $2.87 to $3.15 an hour. On the other hand, no longer do they get a bonus for putting a congressman's hot words into cold type.

Kremlin Note Threatens To Cancel Treaty

Moscow Bluntly Says Paris Must Not OK West German Arming

MOSCOW, Dec. 16 (AP)—In a blunt note to the French, the Kremlin threatened today to cancel the French-Soviet mutual aid pact if Paris ratifies the agreements to arm West Germany. It said France would bear full responsibility in this event.

The French National Assembly begins debate on ratification Monday.

In a simultaneous move underscoring Soviet Global policy, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov directed a statement to Japan expressing "a positive attitude" toward normalizing relations with Tokyo. The Soviet Union has never signed a peace treaty with Japan, whose new government is under strong pressure to open up avenues of trade to the huge Communist-held market.

Note Is Formal Warning

The Soviet note to France, announced at a specially called Foreign Office news conference, appeared designed for its impact on next week's French deliberations. The note was a formalization of previous Soviet warnings and a climax to a number of maneuvers against France, considered the keystone country of the projected Western European Union. The intention was indicated by the note's reference to previous French rejection of "proposals of the Soviet Union and its friendly warnings."

By ratifying the Paris agreements, the note said, France would show a desire not to abide by the 20-year French-Soviet pact of alliance and mutual assistance signed in 1944. Ratification would "fundamentally contradict the obligations assumed by France" under the treaty, it added. The treaty pledged mutual assistance in the event of a rebirth of German aggression.

Will Annul Treaty

"Under such curcumstances, the Soviet government considers it its duty to state that the act of ratification of the Paris agreement will annul the Soviet-French treaty. The entire responsibility for this will rest upon the French government."

The Soviet Union has previously threatened to abrogate the treaty, notably during the recent "security conference" of Communist nations in Moscow. That conference also threatened to set up a combined military command to mobilize against the Western coalition.

For the French, abrogation of the 1944 treaty would mean Moscow no longer was committed on paper to go to the aid of France in the event a remilitarized Germany should attack the French.

Hunters Shoot Own Mistletoe

MOUNT VERNON, Ind., Dec. 16 (AP)—You can buy mistletoe for Christmas kiss bait at a shop or you can get it the way gallant hunters do here — shoot it down yourself out of the treetops.

The parasite green grows so high in elm, black walnut and shellbark hickory trees in the nearby river bottoms that shooting it down is easier than climbing after it.

The sharper-eyed hunters use hollow-point bullets in a .22 caliber rifle, aiming a line of shots that will cut off a limb on which the mistletoe is growing.

The archers are trying their own method. They attach a trailing cord to an arrow, arc it over the tree branch, then pull on the two ends to dislodge the mistletoe from the limb.

More Lie Tests Scheduled For Leads In Murder

Police declined to identify those who have volunteered to submit the lie detector. They also gave no indication whether any new leads had been turned up.

Soldier To Explain Reasons For Failure To Salute Flag

EDGEWOOD, Md., Dec. 16 (AP)—A 24-year-old graduate in mechanical engineering, serving in the Army as a buck private, is due to explain to the commanding general at the Army chemical center here why he failed to salute the flag.

His father says he was only "woolgathering" at the time.

The private is Bruce A. Wallace of Ridgewood, N. J., drafted last February.

He faces the possibility of trial by court martial on three specifications of failing to salute and making "derogatory statements."

Brig. Gen. John R. Burns said today he would decide what action is to be taken after a talk with the soldier. No time was set for it immediately.

Burns lifted the order which has kept Wallace restricted to the post here since mid-November, when an investigation started.

A Chemical Center spokesman confirmed a version of the incident given by the private's father, Dwight Wallace, at Ridgewood.

Pvt. Wallace failed to stand at attention and salute when the retreat gun sounded on a rainy afternoon early in November. His father said he understood the retreat ceremony, at which the flag is lowered, was cancelled because of the rain.

"So when the retreat gun sounded," said the father, "Bruce was wool-gathering and he failed to stand at attention and salute."

U. S. Watching For Next Move In Flier Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The United States went back today to its watchful waiting attitude toward seeking the release of Americans held by Red China.

And it returned the U. S. government to the silent back seat it chose after the United Nations General Assembly assumed responsibility last Friday.

After the 47-5 U. N. vote to seek release of 11 U. S. airmen imprisoned by Red China as "spies," American officials let it be known they were keeping hands off. They gave U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold a free hand at least until his Dec. 31 deadline for filing a report.

Hammarskjold promptly cabled Peiping. He asked for a meeting with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai sometime after Dec. 26, and he offered to go to Peiping if need be. So far, no reply.

Hammarskjold is to be in his native Sweden this weekend, and it was reported today at the U. N. he has asked for a meeting with Red China's ambassador at Stockholm. It was considered likely that he would get a reply from Chou whether he would receive him in Peiping or whether the ambassador would be authorized to talk.

Provoo's Defense Attorneys Appointed

BALTIMORE, Dec. 16 (AP)—Frederick J. Green Jr., and Theodore C. Waters Jr., were appointed today to defend John David Provoo, former Army sergeant facing his second trial on charges of treason.

Two leading members of the Baltimore bar, Hilary Gans and Reuben Oppenheimer, appointed by Federal Court to the case on Nov. 26, were granted a request to resign.

Nude Magazines Ban Overruled

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today overruled 2-1 Post Office Department orders which denied the use of the mails to three nudist magazines.

The magazines are Sunshine & Health; Solaire Universelle de Nudisme, also known as Sun; and Natural Herald. The appellate court decision said they carry photographs of nude men, women and children.

Postmaster General Summerfield had issued orders which, among other things, prohibited payment of any money orders made out to the magazines and required that any mail addressed to them should be stamped "unlawful" and returned to the senders.

The majority opinion, representing the views of Judges George T. Washington and Henry W. Edgerton, said that the postmaster general lacks authority "to authorize the indefinite suppression of periodical publications because one or another issue may contain obscene matter."

It said Summerfield's orders, if allowed to stand, would permit him to prevent the continued publication of a magazine "without any advance knowledge that its future issues will be in violation of law."

It said orders must be limited "to materials already published, and duly found unlawful." It said it would not pass on whether such a limitation was practical or possible.

U. S. Shrugs Off Russian Demand

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—State Department officials today shrugged off Russia's demand, backing Red China, that the United States get out of Formosa.

The Department had no formal comment but informants said privately the Russian position appeared to be about the only one an ally of Red China could take.

Among U. S. states, Pennsylvania has the largest capacity to produce raw steel and the largest blast furnace capacity with Ohio, Indiana and Illinois following in that order.

Catholic Press Says Cardinal Mindszenty Free

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 16 (AP)—The Catholic press agency Kathpress today distributed a rumor that the Hungarian regime had released Josef Cardinal Mindszenty. There was no confirmation from any source.

The ailing 62-year old cardinal was sentenced by the Reds in 1949 to life imprisonment on treason and sabotage charges. The Rev. Jacob Fried, chief of Catholic publications here, said the Kathpress report came from a French businessman journeying from Budapest. Father Fried said the Frenchman was reliable but picked up the reports "from rumors only and not from any official source."

The Kathpress dispatch, datelined Budapest, said it was reported yesterday in "usually well informed circles in the Hungarian capital" that the cardinal had been released a week ago and gone to his diocese. But it added diplomatic quarters in Budapest knew nothing about the release and that the cardinal's palace at his diocese in Esztergom said he was not there.

In Budapest, spokesmen for the Hungarian Foreign Ministry declined to comment. There have been rumors in the Hungarian capital for some time the Communist regime was negotiating with the Roman Catholic Church.

Vatican sources said rumors of the cardinal's release had been heard "for the past two months," without confirmation. The U. S. State Department also said it had no information the prelate had been freed.

The cardinal and six codefendants were convicted Feb. 8, 1949, after a trial that shocked the free world and brought denunications from many Western leaders. The prelate, stripped of the church robes of his rank and wearing only the cassock of a priest, appeared under great strain.

Five Children Die In Blaze

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 16 (AP)—Fire whipped through a small farm house near here early today and snuffed out the lives of five sleeping children whose ages ranged from 1 to 9 years.

Four girls and a boy — the children of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Grogan—perished in the flames that engulfed the old, 1½-story dwelling at Walloomsac, a hamlet about six miles northeast of here near the Vermont state line.

They were Sonja, 9; Lois, 5; Allen, 4; Carol, 3, and Annamarie, 1. The Grogans had no other children.

Grogan, a laborer in a box factory near his home, was at work at the time of the fire. Mrs. Grogan was pulled to safety by a neighbor, Arthur Baldwin, 55. She was not injured but suffered shock.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Nonvirulent Form Of Polio Virus Is Believed To Exist

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Dr. Albert B. Sabin, one of the nation's leading virus investigators, said tonight there now is evidence suggesting that a nonvirulent form of polio virus may exist in nature.

And, he said, this may be an important factor in explaining the fact that the vast majority of human beings develop immunity to polio without suffering paralysis. Dr. Sabin, a University of Cincinnati scientist, discussed his findings in a paper prepared for a lecture at the National Institute of Health.

In the past, a major concept has been that differences in people themselves, rather than differences in polio virus, could help account for the fact that most people develop a natural immunity without getting a paralytic infection.

Dr. Sabin told about laboratory development of strains of nonvirulent, or "tamed" polio virus, from virus that was originally highly paralytic to test animals. These tamed strains, he added, have been found capable of producing signs of polio immunity in chimpanzees and a few human volunteers.

The evidence that a nonvirulent form of polio virus may also exist in nature, he said, is as follows:

During the summer of 1953, material was obtained from the intestinal tract of approximately 1,500 healthy Cincinnati children who had no known contact with any case of polio. When this material was placed in a culturing medium, Sabin and his associates recovered five strains of polio virus. Later, when the virus was injected into the spinal cords of monkeys, it was shown that the strains behaved similarly to the nonvirulent strains previously segregated in the laboratory.

He said that eventually it may be possible to develop an antipolio vaccine employing the laboratory developed nonvirulent virus.

Some scientists believe that a vaccine made of living, but modified-for-safety virus, could produce more potent immunity than a vaccine made of chemically killed virus.

The vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh, and now undergoing nationwide appraisal, is of the latter type.

But Dr. Salk declared only last week that he couldn't agree with the idea that a vaccine containing living, but modified, virus would be more potent. Salk also reported new blood-study evidence suggesting that his own vaccine can create powerful, long lasting protection against polio.

Wable Loses Bid For Trial

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16 (AP)—John Wesley Wable, 25-year-old convicted slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, lost his fight today for a new trial.

Westmoreland County Judge Edward G. Bauer in an opinion handed down today said the Ohiopyle, Pa., man is not entitled to a new trial.

Wable was convicted March 13 of the slaying of Harry F. Pitts, Bowling Green, Va. truck driver. He also is under indictment for the slaying of Lester B. Woodward of Duncannon, Pa.

The bodies of the two truckers were found within three days of each other on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in July, 1953. They had parked their trucks to sleep and were shot in the head.

Wable's counsel asked for a new trial on grounds evidence used at the trial referred to other crimes of which he has not been convicted. Judge Bauer said:

"Testimony admitted at the trial . . . relating to other crimes is linked with events and the commonwealth had to show all evidence and facts necessary to prove the matter at issue."

The conviction carries a mandatory death penalty. Sentence will be pronounced later.

U. S. Watching For Next Move In Flier Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The United States went back today to its watchful waiting attitude toward seeking the release of Americans held by Red China.

And it returned the U. S. government to the silent back seat it chose after the United Nations General Assembly assumed responsibility last Friday.

After the 47-5 U. N. vote to seek release of 11 U. S. airmen imprisoned by Red China as "spies," American officials let it be known they were keeping hands off. They gave U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold a free hand at least until his Dec. 31 deadline for filing a report.

Hammarskjold promptly cabled Peiping. He asked for a meeting with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai sometime after Dec. 26, and he offered to go to Peiping if need be. So far, no reply.

Hammarskjold is to be in his native Sweden this weekend, and it was reported today at the U. N. he has asked for a meeting with Red China's ambassador at Stockholm. It was considered likely that he would get a reply from Chou whether he would receive him in Peiping or whether the ambassador would be authorized to talk.

Crane Operator Killed In Mishap

GREAT MILLS, Md., Dec. 15 (AP)—A 30-year-old crane operator was killed today when his clothing caught in a moving cable and pulled him against the cable drum.

John Chauncey Bennett, Negro, of Valley Lee, near here, was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Julian S. Lane, St. Marys County medical examiner.

Provoo's Defense Attorneys Appointed

BALTIMORE, Dec. 16 (AP)—Frederick J. Green Jr., and Theodore C. Waters Jr., were appointed today to defend John David Provoo, former Army sergeant facing his second trial on charges of treason.

Two leading members of the Baltimore bar, Hilary Gans and Reuben Oppenheimer, appointed by Federal Court to the case on Nov. 26, were granted a request to resign.

Nude Magazines Ban Overruled

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today overruled 2-1 Post Office Department orders which denied the use of the mails to three nudist magazines.

The magazines are Sunshine & Health; Solaire Universelle de Nudisme, also known as Sun; and Natural Herald. The appellate court decision said they carry photographs of nude men, women and children.

Postmaster General Summerfield had issued orders which, among other things, prohibited payment of any money orders made out to the magazines and required that any mail addressed to them should be stamped "unlawful" and returned to the senders.

The majority opinion, representing the views of Judges George T. Washington and Henry W. Edgerton, said that the postmaster general lacks authority "to authorize the indefinite suppression of periodical publications because one or another issue may contain obscene matter."

It said Summerfield's orders, if allowed to stand, would permit him to prevent the continued publication of a magazine "without any advance knowledge that its future issues will be in violation of law."

It said orders must be limited "to materials already published, and duly found unlawful." It said it would not pass on whether such a limitation was practical or possible.

Seoul To Have 600 New Street Lights

SEOUL, Friday, Dec. 17 (AP)—As of tomorrow, this war-battered city will have 600 street lights.

That's not many—but it's 600 more than the city of more than one million population has had for 4½ years.

U. S. Shrugs Off Russian Demand

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—State Department officials today shrugged off Russia's demand, backing Red China, that the United States get out of Formosa.

The Department had no formal comment but informants said privately the Russian position appeared to be about the only one an ally of Red China could take.

Among U. S. states, Pennsylvania has the largest capacity to produce raw steel and the largest blast furnace capacity with Ohio, Indiana and Illinois following in that order.

Catholic Press Says Cardinal Mindszenty Free

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 16 (AP)—The Catholic press agency Kathpress today distributed a rumor that the Hungarian regime had released Josef Cardinal Mindszenty. There was no confirmation from any source.

The ailing 62-year old cardinal was sentenced by the Reds in 1949 to life imprisonment on treason and sabotage charges. The Rev. Jacob Fried, chief of Catholic publications here, said the Kathpress report came from a French businessman journeying from Budapest. Father Fried said the Frenchman was reliable but picked up the reports "from rumors only and not from any official source."

The Kathpress dispatch, datelined Budapest, said it was reported yesterday in "usually well informed circles in the Hungarian capital" that the cardinal had been released a week ago and gone to his diocese. But it added diplomatic quarters in Budapest knew nothing about the release and that the cardinal's palace at his diocese in Esztergom said he was not there.

In Budapest, spokesmen for the Hungarian Foreign Ministry declined to comment. There have been rumors in the Hungarian capital for some time the Communist regime was negotiating with the Roman Catholic Church.

Vatican sources said rumors of the cardinal's release had been heard "for the past two months," without confirmation. The U. S. State Department also said it had no information the prelate had been freed.

The cardinal and six codefendants were convicted Feb. 8, 1949, after a trial that shocked the free world and brought denunications from many Western leaders. The prelate, stripped of the church robes of his rank and wearing only the cassock of a priest, appeared under great strain.

Five Children Die In Blaze

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 16 (AP)—Fire whipped through a small farm house near here early today and snuffed out the lives of five sleeping children whose ages ranged from 1 to 9 years.

Four girls and a boy — the children of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Grogan—perished in the flames that engulfed the old, 1½-story dwelling at Walloomsac, a hamlet about six miles northeast of here near the Vermont state line.

They were Sonja, 9; Lois, 5; Allen, 4; Carol, 3, and Annamarie, 1. The Grogans had no other children.

Grogan, a laborer in a box factory near his home, was at work at the time of the fire. Mrs. Grogan was pulled to safety by a neighbor, Arthur Baldwin, 55. She was not injured but suffered shock.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Nonvirulent Form Of Polio Virus Is Believed To Exist

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Dr. Albert B. Sabin, one of the nation's leading virus investigators, said tonight there now is evidence suggesting that a nonvirulent form of polio virus may exist in nature.

And, he said, this may be an important factor in explaining the fact that the vast majority of human beings develop immunity to polio without suffering paralysis. Dr. Sabin, a University of Cincinnati scientist, discussed his findings in a paper prepared for a lecture at the National Institute of Health.

In the past, a major concept has been that differences in people themselves, rather than differences in polio virus, could help account for the fact that most people develop a natural immunity without getting a paralytic infection.

Dr. Sabin told about laboratory development of strains of nonvirulent, or "tamed" polio virus, from virus that was originally highly paralytic to test animals. These tamed strains, he added, have been found capable of producing signs of polio immunity in chimpanzees and a few human volunteers.

The evidence that a nonvirulent form of polio virus may also exist in nature, he said, is as follows:

During the summer of 1953, material was obtained from the intestinal tract of approximately 1,500 healthy Cincinnati children who had no known contact with any case of polio. When this material was placed in a culturing medium, Sabin and his associates recovered five strains of polio virus. Later, when the virus was injected into the spinal cords of monkeys, it was shown that the strains behaved similarly to the nonvirulent strains previously segregated in the laboratory.

He said that eventually it may be possible to develop an antipolio vaccine employing the laboratory developed nonvirulent virus.

Some scientists believe that a vaccine made of living, but modified-for-safety virus, could produce more potent immunity than a vaccine made of chemically killed virus.

The vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh, and now undergoing nationwide appraisal, is of the latter type.

But Dr. Salk declared only last week that he couldn't agree with the idea that a vaccine containing living, but modified, virus would be more potent. Salk also reported new blood-study evidence suggesting that his own vaccine can create powerful, long lasting protection against polio.

Wable Loses Bid For Trial

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16 (AP)—John Wesley Wable, 25-year-old convicted slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, lost his fight today for a new trial.

Westmoreland County Judge Edward G. Bauer in an opinion handed down today said the Ohiopyle, Pa., man is not entitled to a new trial.

Wable was convicted March 13 of the slaying of Harry F. Pitts, Bowling Green, Va. truck driver. He also is under indictment for the slaying of Lester B. Woodward of Duncannon, Pa.

The bodies of the two truckers were found within three days of each other on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in July, 1953. They had parked their trucks to sleep and were shot in the head.

Wable's counsel asked for a new trial on grounds evidence used at the trial referred to other crimes of which he has not been convicted. Judge Bauer said:

"Testimony admitted at the trial . . . relating to other crimes is linked with events and the commonwealth had to show all evidence and facts necessary to prove the matter at issue."

The conviction carries a mandatory death penalty. Sentence will be pronounced later.

Christmas Retail Business Definitely Better Than Year Ago, Survey Notes

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Christmas retail business is definitely better than a year ago, an Associated Press survey of nearly 90 key cities from coast to coast showed today.

Cash registers are hammering home a theme economists have been repeating for months: business and industry are out of the recession woods and going to town.

Retailers in 62 big and medium-sized cities report better December sales than a year ago. Merchants in another 16 centers say business is about on a par with 1953. Only six cities report a decline.

And in Detroit, biggest metropolitan area to report a slump, the setback is only temporary. All-out production of 1955 cars heralds a return of boom business to Detroit stores but not in time for the Christmas shopping season.

A Commerce Department spot check of 25 cities last week indicated an average increase of 5 per cent in yule business this year over last.

That could turn out to be the national increase but stores in many communities are exceeding that rate by substantial margins, the AP survey shows.

Allied Stores Corp., the nation's biggest department store chain, anticipates a 16 per cent increase in Christmas business. That adds up to a 100-million-dollar total for its 75 outlets.

Sears Roebuck reports its national mail order and retail store business exceptionally strong and running "well ahead" of 1953 Christmas totals.

Last year there were 24 shopping days in the period between Thanksgiving and Christmas; this year there are 25. The extra day is a personal gift from Santa to merchants.

The key factor in getting the year's biggest selling season off to a booming start unquestionably is a return of public confidence.

National employment is nearing peacetime highs. The stock market is up. Construction is booming. Christmas club savings poured out a record $1,080,000,000 to nearly 12¼ million members.

"Buyers are out of the doldrums," said Leonard Goldman, president of the Phoenix, Ariz., Retail Trade Bureau.

"People were scared to death a few months ago but not any more," is the word from Denver.

"Los Angeles can easily beat last year when we were in the slide," said Conrad C. Jamison, vice president and director research for the Security First National Bank, L.A. He reported business hit bottom in the first quarter of 1954, rebounded in the second and now "may surpass the record high fourth quarter of 1952."

Weather, of course, can make or break a shopping season. A cold snap spurs demand for overcoats, furs and winter lines but a blizzard snows in potential shoppers at home.

Buffalo, for instance, expects record December business because of pentup demand from a disastrous November when rain or snow on every peak shopping day cut last month's sales 10 per cent from the November 1953 total.

Late fall rains have boosted rancher income and store sales in New Mexico but drought still plagues farm areas around Wichita Kan., where annual rainfall is half of normal.

Oklahoma City sales are up 8 to 10 per cent over a year ago. Aggressive promotion, including heavy newspaper advertising and a $1,000 prize given every week to a downtown shopper are primary reasons for the spurt, says the Oklahoma City Retail Merchants Assn.

In the big metropolitan centers, particularly New York, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and San Francisco, downtown stores are getting stiff competition from suburban shopping centers. Many new suburban stores are cutting drastically into sales of traditional markets.

Price cutting, particularly on big ticket items like refrigerators, stoves and laundry items, is widespread near big cities where discount houses are clustered.

Wesley Williams, executive secretary of the Raleigh, N.C., Merchants Bureau, reports soft lines moving faster than the hard, big-ticket items. "People have their refrigerators and automatic washers," he said, "but you can't saturate the clothing field."

Fashions are among the traditional Christmas shopping leaders. Many merchants credit the "new look" in women's modes and charcoal tones in men's wear for boosting clothing sales anywhere from 8 to 10 per cent above a year ago.

Women's sportswear, especially nylon and orlon sweaters, are selling well from coast to coast. Furs are a favorite item too now that excise taxes have been cut.

Many merchants note, however, the woman shopper is becoming more selective. A Dallas specialty store operator still held a coat marked down $35 for a special sale. Several women said they really would like it but finally decided not to buy because its extreme cut might not be in style next winter, he explained.

Toys in Chicago, Milwaukee and Minneapolis-St. Paul are selling 10 per cent slower than a year ago. On the other hand, Topeka, Kan., reports it probably will break its toy sales records "if we can get the merchandise."

Cities reporting lower christmas business than last year all have been hit by unemployment. In addition to Detroit, they include Schenectady, N.Y.; Indianapolis; San Diego, Calif.; Follansbee, W. Va.; Lewiston, Idaho.

Ireland Isn't Looking For A White Christmas

DUBLIN, Dec. 16 (AP) — Ireland, trying to recover from two major floods, is dreaming of a dry Christmas.

Even a white Christmas would not be welcome. On Ireland's green sod snow changes to water swiftly and adds to the burden of the swollen rivers.

But the Christmas spirit manages to survive the damp and the gloom.

In Dublin's City Center, at College Green, a 40-foot Christmas tree glows as a gesture of good will from the German Republic. The plane trees along broad O'Connell street in downtown Dublin have been decorated with lighte.

For the shoppers there is everything to make a festive Christmas. There are so many turkeys that for the first time since the war no export license is needed to send some abroad. Thousands go to England.

Ireland gives emphasis to the religious aspects of Christmas. It is a festival of the home and church. The single candle, glowing in the window of a country house, is more of a symbol of the Irish Christmas than the tree with lights and tinsel. The Irish, returning home from midnight Mass on the eve of the feast, like to think of the pinpoints of lights shining from mountain and glen as beacons of faith in a troubled world. The weary traveler is welcome, and folks are more than ever neighborly.

U.S. Needs Bargaining Agent To Offer Communists In Exchange For 11 Fliers

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

What the United States needs to get those imprisoned fliers out of Red China is to find something which the Communists want and which can be granted.

The Peiping reaction to United Nations action is just what was expected. It's always been the same when foreigners are imprisoned behind the Iron Curtain. The Reds claim the right to determine who is a criminal and what the punishment shall be, and any interference from outside is impudence.

There never has been much hope that the Reds, if they could ignore a United Nations resolution branding them as aggressors, would pay any attention to anything less.

That does not mean, necessarily, that they will refuse to talk to Secretary General Hammarskjold, or that the fliers will not be released. There is a certain amount of Oriental "face" to be made out of having the Secretary General come to Peiping to beg.

In addition, the very nature of the U.N. action puts Peiping in a position to use the fliers to create a new ruckus among the Western Allies over admitting Red China to the world organization.

Although they haven't shown much real interest in membership, beyond using the issue to irritate relations between the United States and her allies, its attainment might be used to advantage by the Communists in their efforts to influence the rest of Asia.

"Look," they could say, "the United States opposes us. But the majority of the nations accept us as the rulers of China. When we fought, we fought with all means. When they seek peaceful arrangements, we are eager to cooperate."

For that position, which is much more in line with the present international Communist line of sweetness and light, they might be willing to pay by return of the fliers.

The United Nations, however, cannot award membership or bargain with it. That is a matter within the control of member nations, and one on which the United States is not prepared to negotiate.

The U.N. as an entity does not, as a matter of fact, have anything with which to bargain except moral pressure, a commodity of small value in Communist eyes.

The United States, on the other hand, has things which Peiping wants, though she may not find it feasible to barter with them. Export and import arrangements, for instance, have more than once proved the key to Iron Curtain prisons in Europe.

No matter what happens, nor who is the agent, there are only two alternatives. Either Russia will cause Peiping to release the fliers because they interfere too much with the "coexistence" campaign, or a ransom bill of some sort will eventually be passed on to the United States.

Mrs. Sarah Hetzel Twigg Celebrates 95th Anniversary

Celebrating her 95th birthday, Mrs. Sarah Hetzel Twigg, 118 South Centre Street, gave her formula for living so long:

She said, "I am not old-fashioned, don't indulge freely, never lose my temper and have spent my life doing kind deeds for others—that's my life. My good health is my wealth and I hope to be wealthy enough to vote for Dwight D. Eisenhower again."

A daughter of the late Christian Frederick and Margaret James Hetzel, Mrs. Twigg was born in Rainsburg, Pa., December 15, 1859. The family came to Cumberland when their daughter was five years old, and resided on Charles Street. Mrs. Twigg recalls her first recollections are of watching the trains.

Except for the four years she was in Baltimore at Women's College, now Goucher, Mrs. Twigg has spent ninety years in Cumberland. When she became the bride of Dr. William F. Twigg March 14, 1889, she made her home at 37 North Centre Street, moving to her present home about 35 years ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Twigg were the parents of three children, Marian Catherine Twigg, who died about 1915; Dr. Nial Frankiln Twigg, who died of influenza during World War I, and Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, member of the City Park Board. One grandchild, William Franklin Findlay, died in 1948.

Mrs. Twigg, who enjoys life, received callers who dropped in to visit her all during the day Wednesday. Other days she reads, knits and entertains friends who visit her.

Norwood Edmonson sang two selections, "Go Tell it on the Mountain," and "O Holy Night," accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Robb.

A meditation, "Keeping Christmas," was given by 16 members. Two hymns, "We've a Story to Tell," and "We Belong to a World Church," were sung by Mrs. John Burkhart.

The prayer period was conducted for the Church Universal, "in the community," "our own church," and for "ourselves as individual Christians." The closing hymn was "The Church's One Foundation."

A jingle party followed and gifts were exchanged, after which refreshments were served by the Social committee.

Radio And Television

Change Of Climate

Walt Disney blew through town the other day to pick up an award, and I collared him long enough to ask him about television, something he's been interested in for years. I'd talked to him about this some five years ago and it was interesting to note how times and opinions have changed.

Five years ago, Disney said he'd eventually get into television but in what way he didn't know. He felt sure that he couldn't use his famed characters—Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Pluto and the rest of them—on television because the movie exhibitors would raise the roof at Disney competing with them in the home.

Well, along — five years later — comes "Disneyland" peopled with Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and the rest of them. As I say, opinions change, and now television is regarded—by some movie people but by no means all—not so much as competition but as a great method of exploitation. And in the forefront of these thinkers is Disney.

"Back in 1948 I came to New York and spent a week looking at television. I looked at everything —day and night shows. I felt it was a natural extension of what we were doing in the movies and that the audience was basically the same. I said then that I thought television would be the greatest medium yet to exploit motion pictures. I still believe it. I'm still in the picture business."

Just how he plans to exploit his pictures by means of television was shown a week ago on "Disneyland." This was really just an hour-long commercial for his forthcoming movie "20,000 Leagues under the Sea" but, brother, if you can make a commercial this interesting, I'll watch all of them.

What Disney did in this one was to show how he shot the picture five fathoms deep in the Caribbean, the problems his staff encountered and how they licked them. To illustrate the age-old problem of working underwater, there was a very cute animated cartoon. The cartoon hero, Homo Sapiens, carries on a centuries-long flirtation with a mermaid but this courtship is constantly frustrated by his difficulty in breathing. Through the ages he progresses from holding his breath, to breathing through a three-foot reed, to the diving bell and at long last the aqua-lung. In the end, Homo Sapiens is happily pursuing his mermaid all over the ocean floor.

Then Disney showed us some marvelous pictures of the wonders of the deep—its plant life, sharks, octopi, moray eels, sting rays and manta rays. And then, in a series filmed by a team of behind-the scenes cameramen, came a documentary of the perils and rewards of shooting a feature length picture underwater. It was just great, every bit of it.

Disney frankly admits that his series has not yet got into stride (though I imagine children of all ages would dispute that), that he's still feeling his way along. "So far we've been improvising. But I think TV is a stimulus to the whole organization. It's going to develop new talent for me and it's going to give me more latitude. I can try out things I couldn't try in movies because there were too many restrictions."

The format of the show will remain elastic. "I don't like to get stuck with a rigid thing and be forced to come out with a show that isn't ready," he says. He's a perfectionist. For his Davy Crockett series, he's had a crew in Tennessee for nine weeks, shooting two hour-long shows.

This season "Disneyland" will be composed largely of familiar material—Mickey Mouse, Pluto, Donald Duck and so forth. Next season, he'll introduce lots of new stuff. Among the things on the drawing board are "The Story of Space," "The Atom Era," which will be about the constructive uses of atomic energy and will involve a tremendous amount of research, "The Human Animal" about our bodies and minds. Those are just a few.

"There's an unending source of material," said Disney. "There's always some angle where you can hit home. Make people laugh and still teach them something. I don't want to preach. If it's not entertaining, I won't do it."

Chinese Tots Arrive For Yule Visit

Four Chinese children have arrived to spend the Christmas holidays until December 29 with families of this area who are members of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

The Chinese-Americans are from the parish of Rev. John Moore in New York's Chinatown. Father Moore is a native of Cumberland. A group of the children were also given a vacation last summer here with families of the local parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cumiskey Jr., 418 Holland Street, will entertain Kinma Chui, a little Chinese girl. Two of the Cumiskey children, Alice and James, were at the Queen City Station to greet the four Chinese children when they arrived on a B&O passenger train from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hinkle, of Flintstone, will entertain Dorie Chui. Another Chinese, Pete Ming, will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Drumm, 1805 Bedford Street. Mr. and Mrs. William Hinkle, of Artemus, nearby Pennsylvania, will have as their guest, Anna Fee Soo Walk.

The children are only four of several hundreds Chinese-American children who will spend the Christmas holidays in "Friendly Towns" in the eastern states. The program is conducted by the New York Herald-Tribune "fresh air" fund.

Tourist Caravan Plans Six-Weeks Junket Across Border Into Mexico In January

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—The biggest invasion of Mexico since Gen. John Pershing's cavalry went chasing Pancho Villa in 1916 will start on Jan. 7. A caravan of 500 auto-drawn trailers and 1,000 American tourists will cross the frontier at Nogales, Ariz., for a six-week junket.

Last year, Wally Byam, a middle-aged Los Angeles trailer manufacturer, led a group in 103 cars and trailers on a similar high-class, low-cost tour of Mexico, but this winter's trip is just about the biggest thing ever undertaken in this specialized type of travel.

Byam's tourists, drawn from all over the United States and Canada, are primarily well-heeled travel bugs whose small trailers are drawn by expensive, late-model cars.

"They aren't all rich people," explained his assistant, ex-newsman Pat Terry, "but they are the kind of people who can afford to take six week vacations in winter and who don't have to worry much about money."

Terry pulled out a little notebook.

"We estimate we'll spend about $3,000 a day in groceries, buy 7,000 gallons of gasoline each day. And we'll certainly spend $100,000 on trinkets during the trip."

Pat looked dreamy.

"What an impression we'll make," he said. "Five hundred trailers—a line 30 miles long but of course not bumper-to-bumper, which takes about two hours to pass a given point. It takes an area of about 30 acres for us to park. We park in a big circle, like the old pioneer wagons, and light up the center at night with headlights."

Byam's junket is carefully planned. A couple of weeks ahead of time, his "advance man," an ex-whaling captain who travels by jeep and trailer, goes out to check routes, road conditions and make arrangements for overnight stops. After the adventurers have assembled at Nogales to jump off as a party across the border, they hold a general conclave. Committees are elected. There is a medical committee—"There are always some doctors along, mostly retired, and a few nurses"—an automotive committee to handle any problems which might arise about the cars, and a greeter committee of members who drop in on the mayor or province governors.

They stay two days to a week in each place, and at some point the whole caravan holds an "open house" for the whole village, usually serving tea but sometimes stronger refreshment.

"We think," said Terry, "that these things do more good in promoting international understanding, both ways, than any other kind of travel. We really get to see people and they get to see us. And besides, last year my wife and I figured our expenses—after the cost of car and trailer—and we found two months in Mexico had cost us $175."

'Open Sesame Pie' Recipe

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP) — This is the recipe for "open sesame pie," which won the $25,000 grand prize for Mrs. Bernard A. Koteen, of Washington, D. C., in the Pillsbury bake-off contest:

Pie shell—2 to 4 tablespoons sesame seeds.

One cup sifted Pillsbury's Best flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening, 3 to 4 tablespoons cold water.

1. Toast sesame seeds in nine-inch pie pan at 325 degrees F. for eight to 10 minutes until light golden brown. Remove seeds, then turn oven to 450 degrees F.

2. Sift together flour and salt into mixing bowl. Add the toasted sesame seeds.

3. Cut in shortening until particles are the size of small peas.

4. Sprinkle water over mixture, a little at a time, while tossing and stirring lightly with fork. Add water to driest particles, pushing lumps to side, until dough is just moist enough to hold together.

5. Form into a ball. Flatten to about ½ inch thickness. Smooth dough at edges. Roll out on floured pastry cloth, or board, to a circle 1½ inches larger than inverted nine-inch pie pan.

7. Bake at 450 degrees F. for 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown. Cool.

Date chiffon filling—

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1¼ cups milk, 2 egg yolks, ¼ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup pitted dates chopped very fine, ¾ cup whipping cream beaten very thick, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar, nutmeg.

1. Soften gelatin in cold water.

2. Beat together milk, egg yolks, the ¼ cup sugar and salt in top of double boiler until well blended. Cook over hot water (or directly over low heat, stirring constantly) until mixture will coat a metal spoon.

3. Add the softened gelatin; stir until dissolved. Chill until almost set, stirring occasionally. Fold in the whipped cream, vanilla and dates.

4. Beat egg whites until slight mounds form when beater is raised. Add two tablespoons sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Continue beating to make a meringue which stands in still glossy peaks when beater is raised. Fold into the date mixture.

5. Spoon into cooled baked pie shell, heaping into fluffy mounds. Chill until firm. If desired, sprinkle lightly with nutmeg before serving.

Arizona Couple Dies In Auto Accident

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 16 (AP)—Victor Minichello, 74, and his wife Concetta, 63, of Glendale, Ariz., were killed this afternoon near here when their car went off U. S. 11, plunged over a bank and crashed into a stone wall.

State Police said both Minichello and his wife were dead when they arrived on the scene.

The troopers said Minichello was driving. The couple was alone in the car and investigators said they have not determined the cause of the crash.

Joan of Arc was seventeen when she led the French army to the relief of Orleans.

"We estimate we'll spend about $3,000 a day in groceries, buy 7,000 gallons of gasoline each day. And we'll certainly spend $100,000 on trinkets during the trip."

Pat looked dreamy.

"What an impression we'll make," he said. "Five hundred trailers—a line 30 miles long but of course not bumper-to-bumper, which takes about two hours to pass a given point. It takes an area of about 30 acres for us to park. We park in a big circle, like the old pioneer wagons, and light up the center at night with headlights."

Byam's junket is carefully planned. A couple of weeks ahead of time, his "advance man," an ex-whaling captain who travels by jeep and trailer, goes out to check routes, road conditions and make arrangements for overnight stops. After the adventurers have assembled at Nogales to jump off as a party across the border, they hold a general conclave. Committees are elected. There is a medical committee—"There are always some doctors along, mostly retired, and a few nurses"—an automotive committee to handle any problems which might arise about the cars, and a greeter committee of members who drop in on the mayor or province governors.

They stay two days to a week in each place, and at some point the whole caravan holds an "open house" for the whole village, usually serving tea but sometimes stronger refreshment.

"We think," said Terry, "that these things do more good in promoting international understanding, both ways, than any other kind of travel. We really get to see people and they get to see us. And besides, last year my wife and I figured our expenses—after the cost of car and trailer—and we found two months in Mexico had cost us $175."

'Open Sesame Pie' Recipe

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP) — This is the recipe for "open sesame pie," which won the $25,000 grand prize for Mrs. Bernard A. Koteen, of Washington, D. C., in the Pillsbury bake-off contest:

Pie shell—2 to 4 tablespoons sesame seeds.

One cup sifted Pillsbury's Best flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening, 3 to 4 tablespoons cold water.

1. Toast sesame seeds in nine-inch pie pan at 325 degrees F. for eight to 10 minutes until light golden brown. Remove seeds, then turn oven to 450 degrees F.

2. Sift together flour and salt into mixing bowl. Add the toasted sesame seeds.

3. Cut in shortening until particles are the size of small peas.

4. Sprinkle water over mixture, a little at a time, while tossing and stirring lightly with fork. Add water to driest particles, pushing lumps to side, until dough is just moist enough to hold together.

5. Form into a ball. Flatten to about ½ inch thickness. Smooth dough at edges. Roll out on floured pastry cloth, or board, to a circle 1½ inches larger than inverted nine-inch pie pan.

7. Bake at 450 degrees F. for 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown. Cool.

Date chiffon filling—

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1¼ cups milk, 2 egg yolks, ¼ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup pitted dates chopped very fine, ¾ cup whipping cream beaten very thick, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar, nutmeg.

1. Soften gelatin in cold water.

2. Beat together milk, egg yolks, the ¼ cup sugar and salt in top of double boiler until well blended. Cook over hot water (or directly over low heat, stirring constantly) until mixture will coat a metal spoon.

3. Add the softened gelatin; stir until dissolved. Chill until almost set, stirring occasionally. Fold in the whipped cream, vanilla and dates.

4. Beat egg whites until slight mounds form when beater is raised. Add two tablespoons sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Continue beating to make a meringue which stands in still glossy peaks when beater is raised. Fold into the date mixture.

5. Spoon into cooled baked pie shell, heaping into fluffy mounds. Chill until firm. If desired, sprinkle lightly with nutmeg before serving.

Roche Noted Having Poison But Denies Murder Of Wife

BALTIMORE, Dec. 16 (AP) — A police officer testified at the murder trail of 28-year-old David Eugene Roche today that the defendant said he brought home some deadly cyanide poison but denied giving it to his wife.

Lieut. James T. Middleton testified from his original notes of last August when the woman died.

Other witnesses had shown that Roche bought capsules from a druggist shortly before his wife's death and that the dead woman, about three months before her death, had taken other capsules to a hospital because, she told a doctor, she was afraid of poisoning.

One part of Middleton's notes quotes Roche as saying he had his wife committed to a mental hospital "because she made me nervous ... she kept yelling at me."

Asked if he gave her capsules and she became "afraid to the point that she took them down to the University Hospital and had them checked?" Roche was listed as answering:

"I don't know anything about it."

The questioning continued: "What would you say if I was to tell you that when she took the capsules to the hospital she told them that you kept making her take them, but she would keep them between her teeth or under her tongue and when you left the room she would spit them out."

Roche was quoted: "She could have done it, but she took them herself, I didn't give them to her."

Roche according to the notes also denied giving his wife any quinine capsules to, as the questioner put it, "make her lose the baby" she was carrying at the time she died.

The notes showed Roche acknowledging that he discussed the effects of cyanide poison with a chemist and took some cyanide from a municipal laboratory.

His answer, according to the notes: "Yes, I forgot it was in my pocket and I didn't throw it away as I intended to."

Roche also was quoted as saying he got some empty capsules at a store at his wife's request.

State witnesses testified that the woman was killed by enough cyanide to fill two of the capsules.

Roche is on trial charged with first degree murder in the death last Aug. 14 of his wife who was about to bear him a second child.

The defense has contended the city employe didn't kill his wife but procured poison with the idea of some time killing himself.

Dr. Edward I. Sapperstein a pharmacist identified Roche as the man who purchased a dozen empty gelantin capsules one morning last summer.

Dr. Henry C. Freimuth, state toxicologist, testified that the amount of cyanide found in Mrs. Roche's body was equivalent to what would have been contained in two "double-zero" capsules.

The toxicologist said death could be caused by as little as .6 grams of cyanide, or about half the amount found in the woman's body.

County Roads Dept. Furloughs 15 Men Effective Dec. 31

Fifteen workers on the Allegany County Roads Department will be "furloughed" effective December 31, according to reliable information obtained yesterday.

A notice on the bulletin board at the county garage on Franklin Street lists the names of the workers who are being retained. There are about 70 employes of the department, including salaried workers, and the men to be furloughed are believed to be hourly paid workers such as laborers and truck drivers.

When contacted yesterday, Commissioner James Orr said the workers are being laid off because there is not enough work for them and it is an economy move. Orr said that the department does not have much work during the winter months and employment will not pick up until spring.

Orr said the furlough of the 15 men is "not a political move" but he could not say whether or not the men involved would be the ones hired when work does pick up in the spring.

One part of Middleton's notes quotes Roche as saying he had his wife committed to a mental hospital "because she made me nervous . . . she kept yelling at me."

Asked if he gave her capsules and she became "afraid to the point that she took them down to the University Hospital and had them checked?" Roche was listed as answering:

"I don't know anything about it."

The questioning continued: "What would you say if I was to tell you that when she took the capsules to the hospital she told them that you kept making her take them, but she would keep them between her teeth or under her tongue and when you left the room she would spit them out."

Roche was quoted: "She could have done it, but she took them herself, I didn't give them to her."

Roche according to the notes also denied giving his wife any quinine capsules to, as the questioner put it, "make her lose the baby" she was carrying at the time she died.

The notes showed Roche acknowledging that he discussed the effects of cyanide poison with a chemist and took some cyanide from a municipal laboratory.

His answer, according to the notes: "Yes, I forgot it was in my pocket and I didn't throw it away as I intended to."

Roche also was quoted as saying he got some empty capsules at a store at his wife's request.

State witnesses testified that the woman was killed by enough cyanide to fill two of the capsules.

Roche is on trial charged with first degree murder in the death last Aug. 14 of his wife who was about to bear him a second child.

The defense has contended the city employe didn't kill his wife but procured poison with the idea of some time killing himself.

Dr. Edward I. Sapperstein a pharmacist identified Roche as the man who purchased a dozen empty gelantin capsules one morning last summer.

Dr. Henry C. Freimuth, state toxicologist, testified that the amount of cyanide found in Mrs. Roche's body was equivalent to what would have been contained in two "double-zero" capsules.

The toxicologist said death could be caused by as little as .6 grams of cyanide, or about half the amount found in the woman's body.

Topples To Death

County Roads Dept. Furloughs 15 Men Effective Dec. 31

Fifteen workers on the Allegany County Roads Department will be "furloughed" effective December 31, according to reliable information obtained yesterday.

A notice on the bulletin board at the county garage on Franklin Street lists the names of the workers who are being retained. There are about 70 employes of the department, including salaried workers, and the men to be furloughed are believed to be hourly paid workers such as laborers and truck drivers.

When contacted yesterday, Commissioner James Orr said the workers are being laid off because there is not enough work for them and it is an economy move. Orr said that the department does not have much work during the winter months and employment will not pick up until spring.

Orr said the furlough of the 15 men is "not a political move" but he could not say whether or not the men involved would be the ones hired when work does pick up in the spring.

Upcoming NATO Meetings Puts U.S. On Spot In Use Of Atomic Weapons

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The forthcoming argument in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization over civilian vs military control of the use of atomic weapons in a European war puts the United States on quite a spot.

Secretary Dulles undoubtedly knows that the American public will not stand hitched to any war or any alliance where American troops might be used in a "wall of flesh," deprived of the use of their most effective weapons.

And, as General Gruenther has put it, that's just the position his forces might be put in if European governments, fearful of strategic retaliation, voted against the tactical use of atomic weapons in event of an outbreak.

For a year now the NATO military command has gone ahead with a plan of organization based on use of atomic "small" weapons. There are but a few of them in Europe, and they are American-made and American-manned, but there will be more.

The military men are convinced that the first days—the first day and a very few thereafter—will be vital. They don't like the idea of a round-robin discussion between governments of what they shall then do.

The Council originally approved in principle the "new look," also adopted by Britain and the United States for their own forces.

But the British and some other European governments are now saying that use of even tactical atomic weapons falls into the field of strategy where control must be kept in civilian hands.

The issue arises at a time, too, when individual European governments are cutting back one of the principles the military men consider vital for NATO—the establishment of large and quickly mobilizable reserves to back up the small standing forces.

This is being done through reduction in the length of draft terms, so that the men are not sufficiently trained to come together in effective units after they have been in reserve status.

It is an open secret, too, that some supposedly active divisions are not being kept up to full strength.

Gen. Gruenther has warned that the only alternative to the "new look" and the capability of putting it into immediate effect in event of attack, is a "wall of flesh" which would demand greater and greater standing armies.

This has been emphasized in recent days by the Russian threat to intensify the arming of the Soviet bloc if Europe goes through with Western European Union. To deprive the Allied command of atomic weapons, or to make its members unsure they would be permitted to use them, would require an effort to meet Russian manpower. A point where the West is weakest.

Mapleside Club Hears Schedules

The Mapleside Homemakers Club held its annual Christmas dinner and party, with announcements made at a short business session with Mrs. Glenn Diehl presiding. Mrs. Diehl announced that January 1 the Homemakers radio broadcast at 1:45 p. m. over a local station will be "New Ideas for Desserts"; January 7 a training meeting will be held for Food and Nutrition chairmen on Economy Meals with Herbs"; January 12, a training meeting for officers on "Parliamentary Procedure"; and January 20, the regular meeting at Bethany church. There will be speakers on Mental Health and Social Security.

The party was held earlier in the week at Central YMCA. Table decorations included pine boughs and red candles with a silver sled and reindeer as the centerpiece. The favors were red napkins in the shape of trees, miniature white trees, and candy and nuts in red cellophane.

Miss Maude Bean read a letter from Mrs. M. H. Burgess, expressing her appreciation for the club's cooperation during the year. She also installed Mrs. Joseph Kuhlman as secretary for 1955.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Harry Brotemarkle and Mrs. Emory Showman will audit the treasurer's books. Mrs. John Cook gave her report as delegate to the National Council of Homemakers convention at the Statler Hotel, Washington.

The program consisted of a reading, "Go Tell" by Mrs. Shoemaker; and a skit, "What Christmas Means to me," by Mrs. Showman, narrator; Mrs. Kuhlman,, Mrs. Ruth Hare, Mrs. John Breakiron and Mrs. Ruth Taschenberger. Mrs. Paul Shircliff had charge of the secret sister gifts, which were distributed at the close of the program.

Each member brought a personal gift for a man or woman, to be taken to the County Home in place of the usual jingle. Also canned foods were brought for a needy family basket. A collection was taken to buy meat and fresh produce.

Upcoming NATO Meetings Puts U.S. On Spot In Use Of Atomic Weapons

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The forthcoming argument in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization over civilian vs military control of the use of atomic weapons in a European war puts the United States on quite a spot.

Secretary Dulles undoubtedly knows that the American public will not stand hitched to any war or any alliance where American troops might be used in a "wall of flesh," deprived of the use of their most effective weapons.

And, as General Gruenther has put it, that's just the position his forces might be put in if European governments, fearful of strategic retaliation, voted against the tactical use of atomic weapons in event of an outbreak.

For a year now the NATO military command has gone ahead with a plan of organization based on use of atomic "small" weapons. There are but a few of them in Europe, and they are American-made and American-manned, but there will be more.

The military men are convinced that the first days—the first day and a very few thereafter—will be vital. They don't like the idea of a round-robin discussion between governments of what they shall then do.

The Council originally approved in principle the "new look," also adopted by Britain and the United States for their own forces.

But the British and some other European governments are now saying that use of even tactical atomic weapons falls into the field of strategy where control must be kept in civilian hands.

The issue arises at a time, too, when individual European governments are cutting back one of the principles the military men consider vital for NATO—the establishment of large and quickly mobilizable reserves to back up the small standing forces.

This is being done through reduction in the length of draft terms, so that the men are not sufficiently trained to come together in effective units after they have been in reserve status.

It is an open secret, too, that some supposedly active divisions are not being kept up to full strength.

Gen. Gruenther has warned that the only alternative to the "new look" and the capability of putting it into immediate effect in event of attack, is a "wall of flesh" which would demand greater and greater standing armies.

This has been emphasized in recent days by the Russian threat to intensify the arming of the Soviet bloc if Europe goes through with Western European Union. Deer And Buffalo Get Into General's Hair On Army's New Arizona Proving Grounds

By JACK LEFLER

FT. HUACHUCA, Ariz., Dec. 16 (AP)—The Army ran into a brand new problem when it moved its electronic proving ground out here where the buffalo roam and the deer and the antelope play.

And the general's ideas about handling the animals are galling Arizona sportsmen.

The trouble started after the Electronic Research Center was moved from Ft. Monmouth, N.J., to this historic southern Arizona military post last February.

What's more, the state-owned buffalo herd of 275 animals occupies part of the 40,000-acre military reservation.

It was dry in the mountains last summer and the deer moved down looking for food.

Newly arrived families on the post were planting lawns and shrubs and the base golf course was being put back into condition after lying untended since the end of World War II.

That's when the deer got into the electronic picture.

Post residents complained that they swarmed into the residential areas, trampling lawns and devouring flowers and plants.

"Why, this is the best feeding grounds for 40 miles around," exclaimed a dismayed officer.

One of the boldest of the deer knocked a child down.

"Every time you drove your car around a corner at night your headlights would pick up a herd of feasting deer," the public information officer reported. "About 100 came into the residential area every night."

Recently Brig. Gen. Emil Lenzner decided something drastic had to be done about the deer.

He assigned five marksmen to shoot deer invading housing areas and issued hunting permits to 103 residents of the post.

This brought bitter protests from the Arizona Game Protective Assn.

The sportsmen said wild game was the property of all of the people and that the problem should be handled in a manner prescribed by state law. They said state game technicians should be sent onto the military reservation to determine the number of deer and the seriousness of the situation. Then the state could issue special hunting permits if necessary.

The State Game Commission protested to 6th Army headquarters and to Washington about Gen. Lenzner's actions.

Max Layton, executive secretary of the game association, charged that Gen. Lenzner had failed to show "proper respect for the laws of the State of Arizona that is demanded of ordinary citizens."

Col. Earle F. Cook, deputy post commander, said the hunt was ordered as "a matter of reduction of wildlife" to prevent damage to personnel and property.

Sportsmen are worried about the Army's dealings with the buffalo herd, too. They said the general keeps ordering the buffalo moved from one section of the military reservation to another to make way for Army activities, and that upsets the buffalo.

At the moment, a conference between Army officers, State Game Commission officials and representatives of the Game Protective Assn. has brought an armistice in the war of words.

Each of the three groups is to appoint representatives to get together and decide just how much the electronic age should restrict the roaming buffalo and playing deer.

Yuletide Mail Not Too Heavy

SANTA CLAUS, Ind., Dec. 16 (AP) — The Christmas mail isn't running quite so heavy this year in the postoffice that takes advantage of its Santa Claus name, but the kiddies are writing as faithfully as ever.

This should be the biggest week of the Christmas rush in Elbert S. Reinke's postoffice, but he said today he's getting only 80 bags of mail a day, instead of the 100 to 125-bag peak of other years.

Reinke blamed most of the decline on the loss of one commercial customer who formerly sent in huge shipments of letters to get the legendary postmark.

But there's no slump in the letters children write to Santa from far and near. Reinke predicted these letters, totaling about 35,000 last year, will hit 40,000.

Whenever there's a return address on these letters, Reineke turns them over to fellow members of the American Legion Post in this village. The post sends back a letter in red ink, signed Santa. If there seems to be a real need for Christmas gifts, the matter is referred to the Legion post nearest the child's home.

When ripe apples are stored with potatoes, the potatoes will not sprout, the effect being stronger when storage is in airtight containers.

Each of the three groups is to appoint representatives to get together and decide just how much the electronic age should restrict the roaming buffalo and playing deer.

Yuletide Mail Not Too Heavy

SANTA CLAUS, Ind., Dec. 16 (AP) — The Christmas mail isn't running quite so heavy this year in the postoffice that takes advantage of its Santa Claus name, but the kiddies are writing as faithfully as ever.

This should be the biggest week of the Christmas rush in Elbert S. Reinke's postoffice, but he said today he's getting only 80 bags of mail a day, instead of the 100 to 125-bag peak of other years.

Reinke blamed most of the decline on the loss of one commercial customer who formerly sent in huge shipments of letters to get the legendary postmark.

But there's no slump in the letters children write to Santa from far and near. Reinke predicted these letters, totaling about 35,000 last year, will hit 40,000.

Whenever there's a return address on these letters, Reineke turns them over to fellow members of the American Legion Post in this village. The post sends back a letter in red ink, signed Santa. If there seems to be a real need for Christmas gifts, the matter is referred to the Legion post nearest the child's home.

When ripe apples are stored with potatoes, the potatoes will not sprout, the effect being stronger when storage is in airtight containers.

Water Buffalo Will Have Private Entrances In New Dwellings For Egyptians

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO, Dec. 16 (AP)—The family water buffalo will have privacy and a separate entrance to the house in new dwellings planned for Egyptian peasants in the Nile Delta.

The gamoosa, or water buffalo, acts as work animal, gives milk for the family's food, and once a year the female bears a calf which, when sold, gives a little rare ready cash to the farmer.

Mud huts house the vast majority of Egypt's peasants, and the gamoosa lives inside the house with the family. The animal is too valuable to risk outside.

The separate gamoosa room will be a feature of new peasant houses in villages of Behera province, near Alexandria. A joint Egyptian-American project there involves drainage of 20,000 acres of marshy land to be distributed to landless peasants in 11 new villages.

An Egyptian-American rural improvement service is sponsoring the Behera project. Egypt is providing three-fifths and Point Four two-fifths of the 25 million dollars being spent.

Peasants will move out of mud huts which have housed them and their ancestors since the Pharoahs. In the new villages, they will have baked-brick houses with concrete roofs, with electricity and pure drinking water available.

Landless families will be brought from overcrowded villages to live in the new area. Each will get a house and six acres of land. The peasant has 33 years to pay for them at 40 Egyptian pounds ($112) a year. Officials estimate the six acres should yield approximately 120 pounds yearly. A peasant with six acres in Egypt is considered lucky.

A public water faucet will be set up in every street. The peasant will be encouraged to save enough money to pipe water to his house. The same will be true of electricity.

A village manager will supervise a small experimental farm, where new crops will be tried. If the peasants see these succeed, they may try them on their own land.

"If we tried to force them to grow strange crops, these peasants would go on a sitdown strike," an official explained.

If the peasant needs anything, such as a new gamoosa, the village cooperative can advance him the money on a long-term basis.

The first of the 11 villages will be ready in January or February.

Congressional Record Shows Senators Still Most Talkative

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The Congressional Record issued its final report card yesterday, proving statistically what everyone has suspected right along:

For real stemwinding, Katy-bar-the-door oratory, it's hard to beat a U.S. senator.

Not that the 435 House members did so bad, conversationally, during the 83rd Congress. They met on 240 days and talked away for 1,032 hours and 43 minutes.

Ah, but the 96 senators! They met on 294 days and batted the oratorical ball around for 1,961 hours and 52 minutes.

One reason for the Senate's gabbiness can be explained in a couple of words: Joe McCarthy. The junior senator from Wisconsin had a special session all to himself, and was the subject of numerous other speeches, pro and con.

Yet even without McCarthy the 96 senators could have taken on the 435 representatives and won in a talkaway.

For the House has strong rules on how long a member can talk and what he can talk about. Generally speaking, the length of a senator's speech is determined only by his sense of restraint, which often appears to be negligible, and by his power of endurance, which usually appears to be remarkable.

And now, at this point, a point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The statistics related here deal only with the time spent in the Senate and House chambers. They do not include the many hours of committee work. The widely advertised Army-McCarthy hearings, for example, weren't counted in the total.

Still the boys (and girls) got considerable work done as they chomped their way through 26,710 pages of the Congressional Record. Cost to the taxpayer is around $80 a page.

It seems incredible, but 14,181 proposals were tossed at them for their consideration, and this does not include the joint resolutions, the concurrent resolutions and the simple resolutions.

From this wide selection, the legislators chose 781 public bills, which concern all of us, and 1,002 private bills, which deal with only a few individuals. They now are a part of the law that governs your life, or hadn't you noticed?

There would have been more except for President Eisenhower. He vetoed 52 ideas sent around to him, and the Congress, so evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats, couldn't summon a two-thirds vote to override him on a single one of them.

There's a tendency to think things are getting worse, so let's make it clear the 83rd Congress didn't set any talking records. Only recently have accurate statistics been kept on this, but a look at the 81st Congress for a comparison shows the Senate in session 2,410 hours and 2 minutes.

Whether the speeches were important can't be evaluated here, but there's no doubting the importance of one subject then under debate: The outbreak and the prosecution, of the Korean War.

Mitchell Is Par For Course, Everybody's Mad At Him

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Big, genial Jim Mitchell has just about completed the circuit: he's had business mad at him, then labor unions, and now he seems to have a difference with the White House.

Close associates say the explanation is that the 54-year-old secretary of labor in President Eisenhower's Cabinet just barges along speaking his mind regardless of what others may think.

Mitchell, a huge - shouldered, bristly-haired Irishman, is in trouble right now with business groups and some people within his own Republican party for a speech he made last week to the CIO convention in Los Angeles. He came out "categorically" against state "right-to-work" laws which prohibit compulsory union membership arrangements between unions and employers. This pleased the unions but irked employer organizations.

The next day Eisenhower said his labor secretary was speaking only for himself and not for the administration. CIO President Walter Reuther then asserted Eisenhower had repudiated Mitchell.

Replying, President Press Secretary James C. Hagerty praised Mitchell as one of the greatest labor secretaries in history and said Eisenhower respects a Cabinet member's right to have his own opinions — in other words, doesn't want "a rubber stamp or yes man."

Hagerty didn't dispute, though, that Jim Mitchell had veered away from the administration line on the "right-to-work" laws.

The incident recalled the row between Eisenhower and his first secretary of labor, AFL leader Martin P. Durkin. A Democrat, Durkin quit the Cabinet in a dispute with the President over amendments to the Taft-Hartley law. Durkin said Eisenhower ran out on a pledge to support certain changes, but Ike denied breaking his word.

Mitchell, who became Durkin's successor with the reported endorsement of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, has given no hint, however, that he will resign as Durkin did.

The "right-to-work" issue is one of the hottest questions in the labor relations field. Employers contend workers should be free to make their own choice, but not be compelled to be union members. Unions say all workers benefitting from union bargaining should be required to give their support by membership and payment of dues.

The position taken by Mitchell is that employers and unions should have the right to decide this for themselves. He said the 17 states which have laws banning "union security" arrangements in labor contracts should reconsider them.

This appeared out of step with the administration's general policy, as stressed particularly by Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, to let states have a free hand in handling labor relations problems.

Weeks and Mitchell have often been at odds on forming administration labor policies, but both say they support policy decisions once they are worked out by Eisenhower.

Mitchell received his first labor relations experience in personnel work with the Western Electric Co. and during World War II got to know many employers and union men as one of the government's main labor trouble shooters in defense plants.

After the war he became labor relations executive for first Macy's, then Bloomingdale's, department stores in New York. He was named an assistant secretary of the Army early in Eisenhower's administration, before becoming secretary of labor.

One of the first things done by Mitchell as secretary stirred first the ire of business, then of organized labor. This developed from his promise to get Eisenhower to support an increase in the 75-cent hourly federal minimum wage and removal of many present exemptions.

This has been a long-time union goal, but many businessmen including retail store associations oppose it. Mitchell had been prominent in the retail trade groups for years, yet he proposed including now-exempt retail workers under the law.

But instead of accepting Mitchell's minimum wage proposals, Eisenhower counselled Congress against changing the law for the time being. When unions charged Mitchell had run out on a promise, the labor secretary bluntly told them in effect: "Well, you union boys don't always get what you start out after either."

Mitchell stirred up a tempest within the AFL last September when, as an AFL convention speaker, he accused the federation of bias toward the Democratic party.

During the congressional campaign last fall he spoke frequently for the GOP, probably oftener than any other Cabinet member. He carried the brunt of the administration argument that unemployment conditions were not nearly so bad as union leaders tried to paint them.

It all added up to a stormy year as secretary of labor.

These tidbits taste extra-special along with tomato juice for a first course. Make up a package of pie mix and roll into a square about ⅛-inch thick. Cut into 2-inch squares, fill with deviled ham or grated cheddar cheese, pinch together and bake in a hot oven until golden-brown. Serve hot to an admiring audience!

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Big, genial Jim Mitchell has just about completed the circuit: he's had business mad at him, then labor unions, and now he seems to have a difference with the White House.

Close associates say the explanation is that the 54-year-old secretary of labor in President Eisenhower's Cabinet just barges along speaking his mind regardless of what others may think.

Mitchell, a huge - shouldered, bristly-haired Irishman, is in trouble right now with business groups and some people within his own Republican party for a speech he made last week to the CIO convention in Los Angeles. He came out "categorically" against state "right-to-work" laws which prohibit compulsory union membership arrangements between unions and employers. This pleased the unions but irked employer organizations.

The next day Eisenhower said his labor secretary was speaking only for himself and not for the administration. CIO President Walter Reuther then asserted Eisenhower had repudiated Mitchell.

Replying, President Press Secretary James C. Hagerty praised Mitchell as one of the greatest labor secretaries in history and said Eisenhower respects a Cabinet member's right to have his own opinions — in other words, doesn't want "a rubber stamp or yes man."

Hagerty didn't dispute, though, that Jim Mitchell had veered away from the administration line on the "right-to-work" laws.

The incident recalled the row between Eisenhower and his first secretary of labor, AFL leader Martin P. Durkin. A Democrat, Durkin quit the Cabinet in a dispute with the President over amendments to the Taft-Hartley law. Durkin said Eisenhower ran out on a pledge to support certain changes, but Ike denied breaking his word.

Mitchell, who became Durkin's successor with the reported endorsement of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, has given no hint, however, that he will resign as Durkin did.

The "right-to-work" issue is one of the hottest questions in the labor relations field. Employers contend workers should be free to make their own choice, but not be compelled to be union members. Unions say all workers benefitting from union bargaining should be required to give their support by membership and payment of dues.

The position taken by Mitchell is that employers and unions should have the right to decide this for themselves. He said the 17 states which have laws banning "union security" arrangements in labor contracts should reconsider them.

This appeared out of step with the administration's general policy, as stressed particularly by Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, to let states have a free hand in handling labor relations problems.

Weeks and Mitchell have often been at odds on forming administration labor policies, but both say they support policy decisions once they are worked out by Eisenhower.

Mitchell received his first labor relations experience in personnel work with the Western Electric Co. and during World War II got to know many employers and union men as one of the government's main labor trouble shooters in defense plants.

After the war he became labor relations executive for first Macy's, then Bloomingdale's, department stores in New York. He was named an assistant secretary of the Army early in Eisenhower's administration, before becoming secretary of labor.

One of the first things done by Mitchell as secretary stirred first the ire of business, then of organized labor. This developed from his promise to get Eisenhower to support an increase in the 75-cent hourly federal minimum wage and removal of many present exemptions.

This has been a long-time union goal, but many businessmen including retail store associations oppose it. Mitchell had been prominent in the retail trade groups for years, yet he proposed including now-exempt retail workers under the law.

But instead of accepting Mitchell's minimum wage proposals, Eisenhower counselled Congress against changing the law for the time being. When unions charged Mitchell had run out on a promise, the labor secretary bluntly told them in effect: "Well, you union boys don't always get what you start out after either."

Mitchell stirred up a tempest within the AFL last September when, as an AFL convention speaker, he accused the federation of bias toward the Democratic party.

During the congressional campaign last fall he spoke frequently for the GOP, probably oftener than any other Cabinet member. He carried the brunt of the administration argument that unemployment conditions were not nearly so bad as union leaders tried to paint them.

It all added up to a stormy year as secretary of labor.

These tidbits taste extra-special along with tomato juice for a first course. Make up a package of pie mix and roll into a square about ¼-inch thick. Cut into 2-inch squares, fill with deviled ham or grated cheddar cheese, pinch together and bake in a hot oven until golden-brown. Serve hot to an admiring audience!

Letter On Expressway Is Filed By Finan

Pursuant to an agreement made at the pre-trial conference October 27 with Judge George Henderson and attorneys on both sides of a dispute between the City of Cumberland and W. Wallace McKaig involving the proposed crosstown expressway, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, has filed a letter with Circuit Court from Russell McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission.

The letter follows:

"The commission understands that in the pending case before the Circuit Court brought by W. Wallace McKaig, in which he seeks to enjoin the city from entering into a contract with the State Roads Commission, relative to a crosstown expressway in Cumberland, that the issue has been raised to the effect that the location of the crosstown expressway as shown on the strip maps forwarded to the city engineer is too indefinite and vague as to be the subject matter of a contract.

"Please be advised that the location of the crosstown expressway from Lindnerville in the easterly part of Cumberland to its westerly terminus on Braddock Road, as shown on the strip maps forwarded to the city engineer's office, is substantially correct and it is not intended by the State Roads Commission, nor anticipated by the commission, that the location of the crosstown expressway, or the Industrial Boulevard through South Cumberland, will be changed in subsequent plans. There may be places where slight relocations are warranted to avoid costly acquisition, or to prevent the relocation of a utility, but these changes would not be more than are absolutely necessary. Also, the location of the ramps as shown on said strip maps are substantially correct with the exception of the ramp joining the crosstown expressway with U. S. Route 220 (McMullen Boulevard). This last mentioned ramp has not as yet been definitely located, although we have indicated a general location for the same which will not be varied by a distance more than is absolutely necessary to connect the crosstown alignment with U.S. Route 220 in the least costly and most feasible manner.

"In this instance the State Roads Commission has followed its usual procedure in preparing a plan of the general location of the proposed project so that the parties may know where they stand with regard to property acquisition. We do reserve the right, for the best interests of all concerned, to have some slight leeway to change certain location lines to meet engineering contingencies which may arise, and we believe that such a policy is certainly compatible with sensible standards of performance and we believe such practices to be universal."

Dinner Held By Engineers

The Engineers Club of Cumberland installed Nelson H. Sellers, section engineer in charge of instrumentation at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation, as president Wednesday night at its annual Christmas dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Other new officers include William E. Toms, vice president; B. J. Paladino, secretary, and A. E Chenowith, treasurer. This year's officers were Elmer J. Hite, district engineer for the C & P Telephone Company, president; Sellers, vice president; James C. Duff, secretary, and Walter L. Shack, treasurer.

Sellers introduced the officers who will serve with him and announced the appointment of H. R. Aldridge as program chairman for 1955.

In addition to the officers, the executive committee for 1955 includes Hite, John H. Deakin, Schack; Joseph H. Duckworth, Vernon E. Wade, Paul G. Angle, John L. Baggett and Carl S. Vandegrift.

Engle Selected Secretary For Sanitary Group

The LaVale Sanitary Commission Wednesday night selected a secretary-treasurer to succeed Carl A. Sander who died several weeks ago.

The successor is Willard R. Engle, 38, a master plumber who resides in Homewood Addition, according to William D. Claus, commission chairman.

Claus explained the secretary-treasurer is the administrative officer of the district and is responsible for collection of semi-annual charges, all minor installations lower than those required to be let on bids, and for the actual operation of the water system.

Engle, a past governor of Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, has been a licensed master plumber in Maryland for 11 years.

For several years he has operated his own plumbing business, but upon taking over the duties of his new position will devote full time to being secretary-treasurer.

He is a resident of District 29 which is the special taxing district in which the sanitary commission operates.

The commission, through the special taxes, laid a main from Cumberland to supply the lower half of LaVale with city water.

The upper half of the suburb is supplied from the reservoirs and wells of the LaVale Water Company which the commission purchased.

When the commission began to supply water to the rapidly growing community in 1950 there were 600 subscribers. Today there are over 1,000, Claus pointed out. Sander was secretary-treasurer since the beginning.

Claus said 28 applicants for the position were screened carefully by the commission which has as members Chester A. Fisher and Harry A. Kauffman.

Take care of your teeth . . . . they're as precious as jewels!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Neglecting your teeth is like neglecting your skin. Damage once done may be costly or difficult to correct.

Don't shudder when you hear that very sensible advice: "Brush your teeth after every meal." Obey it! Or what others see when you smile would be better kept hidden.

If you are susceptible to tooth decay, brush your teeth after between-meal snacks, too. Or at least rinse your mouth out with clear water. Concentrated sweets, particularly, cause acids to form on the teeth within a few moments after eating. These react quickly to ruin what should be a sparkling part of your smile.

Proper Brushing

Ask your dentist to show you how to give your teeth the best possible brushing. In general, brush down on the upper teeth, up on the lower teeth. (This sweeps food particles away from the gums.) Brush both the inner and outer surfaces. The grinding surfaces, too.

Not all teeth are snow white, any more than all complexions are peaches-and-cream. Tooth shades are determined by your natural complexion, so they vary with individuals. Think of your teeth as warm white, if they aren't pure white, and select your lipsticks accordingly. If teeth are warm white, for example, a purple lipstick won't improve your beauty!

While a dark but healthy tooth cannot be bleached it can be lightened by cleaning. Tartar on teeth has a discoloring effect, for it picks up stains. This can be removed by your dentist or dental hygienist, who can also rid your teeth of the unattractive stain which results from smoking.

So don't laugh, either, at that second familiar phrase: "See your dentist twice a year." In fact, you might see him more often, if your smile is to dazzle all who behold it.

Good Treatment

If dental irregularities are the reason you seldom smile, you should know this: while adolescence is the best time for orthodontia (the science of correcting these irregularities), great improvement can be made at any age. And at any age, your diet should include fruits and vegetables high in vitamin C, and milk rich in calcium.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow—The thought behind your gifts.

Take care of your teeth . . . . they're as precious as jewels!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Neglecting your teeth is like neglecting your skin. Damage once done may be costly or difficult to correct.

Don't shudder when you hear that very sensible advice: "Brush your teeth after every meal." Obey it! Or what others see when you smile would be better kept hidden.

If you are susceptible to tooth decay, brush your teeth after between-meal snacks, too. Or at least rinse your mouth out with clear water. Concentrated sweets, particularly, cause acids to form on the teeth within a few moments after eating. These react quickly to ruin what should be a sparkling part of your smile.

Proper Brushing

Ask your dentist to show you how to give your teeth the best possible brushing. In general, brush down on the upper teeth, up on the lower teeth. (This sweeps food particles away from the gums.) Brush both the inner and outer surfaces. The grinding surfaces, too.

Not all teeth are snow white, any more than all complexions are peaches-and-cream. Tooth shades are determined by your natural complexion, so they vary with individuals. Think of your teeth as warm white, if they aren't pure white, and select your lipsticks accordingly. If teeth are warm white, for example, a purple lipstick won't improve your beauty!

While a dark but healthy tooth cannot be bleached it can be lightened by cleaning. Tartar on teeth has a discoloring effect, for it picks up stains. This can be removed by your dentist or dental hygienist, who can also rid your teeth of the unattractive stain which results from smoking.

So don't laugh, either, at that second familiar phrase: "See your dentist twice a year." In fact, you might see him more often, if your smile is to dazzle all who behold it.

Good Treatment

If dental irregularities are the reason you seldom smile, you should know this: while adolescence is the best time for orthodontia (the science of correcting these irregularities), great improvement can be made at any age. And at any age, your diet should include fruits and vegetables high in vitamin C, and milk rich in calcium.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow—The thought behind your gifts.

Communism And War Go Hand In Hand

Prime Minister Nehru of India said in an interview he is convinced Red China and Russia do not want war. Perhaps Nehru is convinced that it is good policy to make flattering remarks about the nations with the world's two largest land armies, both of which are on India's frontier.

Nehru knows that the only two nations that threaten his India are Russia and China. On his recent return from China he let some of his disappointment show through after he failed to get Chou En-lai to agree to deeds showing his peaceful intentions.

Russia and China do not want war—if they can achieve all their ambitions without war. But when the practical choice is between getting what they want by war, or losing what they want by being peaceful, they "reluctantly" accept war. Hitler loved peace in exactly the same way, and was bitter when the "insane and criminal" resistance of the Poles "forced' 'him to bomb Warsaw.

There is still another sense in which Malenkov and Mao do not want war—if they can get the natives of the country they want to take over to do all the fighting for them. They tried that in Korea.

Nehru waxed lyrical in his approbation of the rejection of preventive war by Washington and the West. He should note, however, that the Soviet Union has never abandoned the idea of preventive war. The Americans who advocate preventive war argue that war is inevitable and this country should get in the first punch. The inevitability of war is the only premise on which to advocate preventive war.

It is an axiom of Marxist doctrine, repeatedly stressed by Soviet leaders, that war with capitalism is inevitable. So Russia and China are conditioned by a dialectic which makes it seem a waste of time to try to avoid war or to wait for the other side to strike first.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Curse Of Conformity

Those university professors who make such a fuss about academic freedom often fail to grasp the essential fact that under our Constitution no citizen possesses more rights than any other citizen. What they seem to claim is that because a man teaches in a college, his freedoms are increased by his manner of earning his living.

The Constitution makes a specific provision for freedom of the press; yet this newspaper in which these words appear is not utterly free. It can be sued for libel; it can be deprived of the use of the mails if it publishes what the Post Office regards as a salacious article, say, the photograph of a completely nude woman; it can get itself into contempt of court if it flouts the obiter dicta of a judge. Senator Joe McCarthy was condemned, despite senatorial privileges, for calling senators unpleasant names but he remains uncondemned for speaking harshly to a general.

On this subject of freedom of expression, I came across the weekly bulletin of the Blessed Sacrament Church of Wichita, Kas. It contains a charming recital of a great stupidity and I want to give it to you in full:

"An unknown painter, in the employ of the City of Wichita, passed by our school last spring as the school term ended. He touched up, with the painter's art, our 'Safety Sal' traffic signs. We do not know his identity nor did we see him at work.

"In his zeal he painted out the 'Thanks' on the reverse of the sign, and in its place he lettered 'God Bless You', which every Catholic knows is a prayer, that says 'Thank You', in a manner par excellence.

"When the janitor stored the signs in our school for the summer vacation, we noted the change and gave it our fervent approval. All summer long, when we passed 'Safety Sal' in the eighth grade room she said, 'God Bless You'. We returned the salutation: 'And you too, Safety Sal'.

"Then came Registration Day, August 30, 1954. The signs were marched into the heavy traffic of Douglas Avenue, to remind drivers that they should slow up because school children were around. She gave out her salutation to each and every passerby. 'God Bless You', she said. The very atmosphere of Douglas Avenue seemed changed by her cheery greeting.

"The Wichita Eagle, the Wichita Beacon and even the Hutchinson News, heard about it and made their comments. Hutchinson's television station mentioned it in the 10 o'clock news one night.

"Then came the H-Bomb. Mr. Rankin of the Department of Street Signs telephoned: 'You have changed the wording on your 'Safety Sal' signs. That must be corrected'. We assured him that we changed no such wording and that we had no intention of changing it now. It was not our fault and we did not do it. Furthermore it was done without our knowledge or consent, Mr. Rankin: 'It must be changed and I will do it in the morning'. We told him that we liked it better this way. Mr. Rankin: 'You must conform. The street is no place for those words anyway. We will get complaints'. We asked why not wait for the complaints. Mr. Rankin: 'We must forestall complaints and you must conform. I will change it in the morning'.

"We went our way wondering about the mentality of people who would complain about a 'God Bless You' sign in front of a Catholic school and church.

"In the morning we were made to conform. 'Safety Sal' says, 'Thanks', in a detached and formal manner, when she might be saying 'God Bless You', to warm the hearts of the passersby.

"The inspiration of the unknown and unsung painter, who really had a fine sense of the fitness of things, was buried in the blast of the H-Bomb from the City Building."

To this, one can only say, "God Bless You."

This thought is particularly directed to Senator Mike Mansfield, a so-called liberal, who would require former Army and Navy officers to conform to his way of thinking because they had once earned their livelihood in the employ of the Government of the United States.

Secret, Out-Of-Washington Air Raid Shelter Is Assigned To Eisenhower

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Civil Defense has now decided the President's air-raid shelter, built for FDR during World War II, is not completely safe. It is no secret to anyone that this is buried on the White House grounds; so it's feared that a direct H-bomb hit would scoop the vaultlike shelter right out of the earth.

As a result, President Eisenhower has been assigned a secret, out-of-town cave, where he will be whisked, along with his top aides and cabinet officers, in case of an air raid. This gigantic, bombproof cave is equipped with tons of supplies and rations, special electronics and radio gear, air filters and water purifiers — everything necessary to run the nation from an emergency headquarters.

The President's exodus from Washington, of course, depends on adequate warning. The Air Force hopes our radar screen in Northern Canada will give Washington four hours' notice of an enemy attack. If the warning is too short, Ike will have to take his chances in the White House shelter.

This is a small, compact, subterranean shelter, encased in four feet of solid concrete, reinforced with steel. It is equipped with its own heating system, power plant, communications network and water supply—all independent of the city overhead.

Chief problem is that the White House shelter will accommodate only 20 to 25 persons. No list has yet been drawn up as to who in the White House would go with the President and who would have to take their chances with the outside populace.

Civil Defense has held several practice "dry runs" to determine how long it would take to evacuate the President and his cabinet to their secret hideaway, together with 3,000 other top officials to scattered relocation centers.

During one rehearsal, it was discovered that a master file containing essential data was still back in Washington. As a result, photostatic copies were made of all important working files and stored in the emergency headquarters.

Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, also discovered that high-heel shoes weren't the best fashion for air raids. The rough cement floors of the presidential hideout scraped up her heels, gave her trouble with her feet.

Correction: The Public Accounts subcommittee of the House Government Operations subcommittee which planned a study of European merchant marine costs did not take its planned trip to Europe as previously reported in this column. Staff members state that the committee has received a report from the General Accounting Office that European shipbuilding costs are estimated at too low a figure, because of which the U. S. Government is paying U. S. shipping concerns too high a subsidy, and the House subcommittee had planned to send seven members abroad to study the matter: Bender of Ohio, Osmers of N. J., McDonough, Calif., Hillelson, Mo., Republicans; with Karsten, Mo., Mollohan, W. Va., and Fountain, N. C. Though the committee still plans to make the subsidy study, the trip has been called off . . . . Senator Watkins of Utah got the second biggest hand at the Gridiron Club dinner . . . . The man who probably has the longest recollection of Gridiron dinners is Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post and Times-Herald. He recalls a Gridiron speech by Secretary of State Elihu Root in 1908 which made a big hit. William Jennings Bryan was invited to answer Root for the Democrats. He arrived one hour late with rumpled shirt, not in formal evening dress. Despite this, he outrooted Root. His speech brought down the house.

Who Promoted Van Fleet?

Gen. George Marshall, who was given a long overdue testimonial dinner the other day, tells friends privately how Queen Frederika of Greece came to see him secretly in London some years ago and asked him to do something to save Greece.

Marshall told her she was very naughty to approach him direct, since it is improper for the head of a government to make a formal request of a U. S. military man. However, he acted anyway, and later sent Gen. James Van Fleet to reorganize the then demoralized Greek army.

Van Fleet had been the victim of an Army red-tape snafu. Just as someone went wrong and promoted Peress, someone also went wrong and got Van Fleet confused with another Van Fleet, considered too unstable for high rank. General Marshall finally got the two Van Fleets straightened out and sent the right Van Fleet to Greece, where he did a fine job, later went to Korea.

More recently, Van Fleet, retired from Korea by Eisenhower, joined the ten million Americans for McCarthy. But when McCarthy blasted Ike, Van Fleet publicly withdrew.

However, what old military comrades noted was that Van Fleet said nothing about McCarthy's charge against General Marshall, the man who promoted him, gave him his big opportunity in Greece and whom McCarthy charged with "a conspiracy so immense and an infamy so black as to dwarf any previous such venture in the history of man."

Big Issue At Paris Relates To Using Atomic Weapons

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — If war should come as suddenly as it did at Pearl Harbor 13 years ago, will the United States consult Britain and France before deciding to use atomic weapons? Will parliaments have to debate the issue while the enemy is destroying city after city?

This is the big question up for settlement in Paris as Secretary Dulles and the heads of other governments meet with the North Atlantic Treaty Council.

Until now it has been agreed between America and Britain that, if any atomic bombs are to be loaded on American planes from bases in England, there should first be a consultation between the London and Washington governments. But now the problem has become more specific. What can the generals who command the North Atlantic Treaty forces, whose headquarters are in Paris, do about using atomic bombs in defending Europe against possible attack.

Eisenhower Keeps Quiet

The military men, including European generals, want authority to retaliate at once. The civilian governments, on the other hand, mindful of the political effects of letting any such decision rest with the military, are insistent that the deciding word shall be given only by the respective cabinets.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower, aware of the delicacy of the situation, declined to tell his press conference Wednesday what the American government plans to do about it if the British and French governments do not permit the military officers of NATO to use atomic weapons unless given permission after the fighting has started.

Mr. Eisenhower pointed out that, under a law passed by Congress, nobody can order atomic weapons used except himself. This is an impractical situation. For the President might be on the golf links or on a motor trip or in an airplane and, while communication might be established, it would not mean the instantaneous relay of all the information necessary for a decision.

The probability is that the President will have to delegate to the commander-in-chief of NATO forces and to the Strategic Air Command in this country some form of contingent instructions that will enable immediate retaliation without waiting for a presidential order.

Nothing like this particular dilemma has ever arisen before. An interval of one hour may make a lot of difference if an order to destroy enemy cities is delayed after American or possibly European cities have been destroyed.

The British and French governments are under pressure from pacifist elements not to let their bases be used by Americans or anybody else until the atomic question is decided by the cabinet after a crisis arises. This is an unrealistic situation and will call for careful examination of all possible contingencies.

Points Of Discussion

American law, moreover, does not allow atomic materials or weapons to be placed in the hands of any other military forces abroad but our own for the present. Will that law have to be amended, or can all military planning for use of the atomic weapons be carried on without letting the troops of other countries get actual possession of bombs and artillery missiles in the atomic category? These are points of discussion in the conference at Paris this week.

More and more the issue is shaping up as to whether the free countries are going to allow the first blow to be delivered by the enemy as was the case in World War II. The usual objection to any other course is that it is called "preventive war." But another view is emerging among military men—namely, that if atomic weapons are distributed at strategic spots and the enemy knows that there is authority for instant retaliation, the attack itself might be forestalled.

Certainly the whole program of NATO is based on the theory that Allied defense forces, plus adequate armament and a plentiful supply of atomic bombs, will be sufficient to deter an aggressor. But if, on the other hand, the aggressor is given the advantage of several hours and a cumbersome machinery of debate is necessary in some parliament before reprisals can be authorized, then the Allied governments may themselves be responsible for the initial defeat. The question is one that needs clearing up in advance so as to warn an aggressor that his attack will not pay.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Many congressmen going home for the holidays will find their laundry frank has been cancelled by UNIVAC.

With Morse of Oregon opting his nod the Democrats will have the operating leverage of a coffee grinder cracking door-knobs.

From now on the investigations will have the gentle probing of a chef testing a rack of lamb with an oyster fork.

This is the season of peace on government reservations and goodwill to the incumbents.

Let's forget we are Democrats and Republicans and just be our good old impossible selves.

Stop just short of the intangible seam where a handshake sagways into the twist of the arm.

We are asking all senators and congressmen to go home as individuals and not as committees.

We are imploring them to don the white whiskers and shaggy wig of Santa without leaving one ear out for a telephone call.

We are polling the solo posses to return with the open mind of a tomahawked Pilgrim, the impartiality of smog and the laudable determination to meet the Constitution half-way.

There are times when justice over-steps the bounds of curiosity. We are asking the committees not to let their personal spites corrode their natural meanness.

We still have two weeks residue left of the holiday season. Next Friday night will be Christmas Eve throughout the land.

Dream And Reality

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower's legislative program, unveiled in broad outline this week, poses again a mystifying question. Why are so many conservative Republicans honestly convinced that the President is not a "real Republican," but some sort of New Dealer in disguise?

Anyone who traveled widely during the recent campaign can testify that this is what a great many old line Republicans do really believe. And this conviction in turn has stimulated the bitter division in the Republican party. And yet, if you examine the Eisenhower program with an open mind, you can only reach one conclusion. The program may, as the President insists, represent "progressive moderation." But it is also a basically conservative program, by any reasonable tests.

Some anti-Eisenhower Republicans (who are almost to a man former supporters of the late Sen. Taft) claim to detect a rank New Dealish smell in the administration's welfare policies. It is true that last Monday the President told Republican leaders that he still favors his heatlh reinsurance plan and "continued public housing." Yet the fact is that Sen. Taft himself publicly expressed far more New Dealish ideas on health and housing than any the administration has put forward.

Humphrey A Conservative

Again, there has been muttering because the current program calls for postponing a scheduled reduction of some $3,000,000,000 in corporation and excise taxes. Yet the man who insisted on the postponement was Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, a pre-1952 Taft man, and a conservative if there ever was one. Moreover, if the President's program is really hostile to business in any way, the stock market is clearly blissfully unaware of this fact.

All in all, it is difficult to see where Sen. Taft could have differed seriously with the Eisenhower domestic program. Is it, then, the Eisenhower foreign policy which accounts for the anger of the conservative Republicans? From all the clamor, one might think so. But again, consider the facts.

All economic aid to Europe is to be eliminated this year, which Sen. Taft would certainly have applauded. The size of the still disputed aid program for Asia is to be determined by former Budget Director Joseph Dodge, another Taft man.

And on the other hand, it cannot seriously be maintained that the conservative Republicans have reason for anger because the President has not gone far enough in Asia. Sen. Knowland's call for a blockade of China has been a resounding dud. And after all, it was the conservative Republicans who most vociferously opposed American intervention in Indochina.

Of course there are some real policy differences, as on the tariff issue. But such differences cannot really account for the angry muttering about the Eisenhower administration in country clubs and in the cloak rooms of Capitol Hill.

Not even Sen. McCarthy really accounts for the internal bitterness in the Republican party. He has been, in fact, more a symptom than a cause of this bitterness. Many conservative Republicans supported McCarthy less because they admired McCarthy than because they distrusted the administration. But if the administration is demonstrably conservative by any rational measure, why do so many conservatives distrust it?

Had Dream Image

There are all sorts of answers, of course, from patronage trouble to the still raw memories of the 1952 convention. But the basic answer seems to be that many of the businessmen and others who make up the backbone of the Republican party conceived, during the 20 Democratic years, a sort of ideal dream image of a Republican administration. The Eisenhower administration does not live up to this image—because it can't.

Take one example. A great many Republicans honestly believe that Republican efficiency would make it possible to reduce taxes sharply, balance the budget, and put the Russians firmly in their place, all at the same time. One suspects that Secretary Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Wilson largely shared this belief. Yet only a few days ago Secretary Wilson announced a $5,000,000,000 increase in defense spending, while Secretary Humphrey simultaneously announced that the budget would have to remain unbalanced for yet another year.

Both announcements were dictated by the realities of the situation, the which Secretaries Wilson and Humphrey have been uncomfortably exposed for two long years. But to Republicans who have not been similarly exposed, it is no doubt natural to suppose that Wilson, Humphrey—and Eisenhower—have somehow been infected by New Dealism or some kindred disease.

This conflict between dream and reality has been the real cause of much of the trouble in the Republican party. Fortunately, there are increasing signs that the dream is wearing off, and that the reality is at last being accepted, thanks to time, responsibility, and the party's political dependence on the President.

Christmas Seal Money Helps To Fight Tuberculosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The money collected through the sale of Christmas seals is used by the National Tuberculosis Association to wage war against tuberculosis. The strategy of this organization is simple, well planned, and easy to understand. It revolves about early discovery, diagnosis, reporting, and treatment in an attempt to break the chain of the infection.

The Christmas seal idea originated in 1904 with a Danish postal clerk, Einar Holboell, who thought of collecting funds in this way to help tuberculous children. The idea gained momentum in 1907, when Miss Emily B. Bissell of Delaware read a story about the project in Outlook. She decided to organize a Christmas stamp program for her own community and, with the help of a Philadelphia newspaper, collected $3,000. By the next year the campagin became nation-wide.

Most of the money collected by the National Tuberculosis Association (94 per cent) is used to support local and state projects. The NTA is a strong believer in annual chest X-rays and is out to uncover every case of tuberculosis in the country. It conducts X-ray surveys among groups of adults, particularly those living in areas where the tuberculosis rate is high. The association also is encouraging hospitals to X-ray the chest of every patient admitted in much the same way as the urinalysis and blood tests are done.

The rationale behind this part of the program is: Earlier diagnosis means quicker recovery. Furthermore, every person with tuberculosis is capable of spreading the bacilli and each case uncovered takes out of circulation a potential carrier.

NTA also wants to build up resistance against the disease. It is supporting research on vaccines and other preventive measures and advocates education designed to improve the general nutrition and healthful surroundings of the population. It is cognizant of the adverse effects of poverty and poor hygiene.

Another aspect is rehabilitation of the victim. Relapses mean rehospitalizations. In the past, these repeaters constituted five to 30 per cent of admissions to our sanatariums. The majority of these reactivated cases worked and lived under unfavorable conditions.

Many institutions now have a well planned rehabilitation program encompassing all phases of tuberculosis. The patient is educated thoroughly on the kind of disease he has and learns an occupation or trade while recuperating from his illness. He often is taught an entirely new job and when ready to leave the sanatorium, is well schooled in an occupation best suited to his physical condition.

CURES AS CAUSES

F. D. writes: Can certain drugs given for the relief of asthma also cause asthma?

REPLY

Yes, but this is the exception to the rule. The list includes ACTH, cortisone, the iodides, and the antihistiminnics. Sensitivity to these products leads to spasm of the bronchi and wheezing.

INVESTIGATE

M. T. writes: What is the cause of blood in the urine.

REPLY

There are numerous causes and since some are serious, the symptom ought to be investigated without delay.

INDEFINITE INFECTION

N. Z. writes: What is a low grade virus infection?

REPLY

Low grade infection from any cause usually is considered mild and indefinite. Several decades ago, the individual who was tired and without appetite for no apparent cause was told that symptoms resulted from a low grade streptococcal or staphylococcal infection. Nowadays, a virus gets the blame.

CERVICAL DISK

H. W. writes: Can a disk in the neck slip?

REPLY

Yes. The cushioning material (disk) between the vertebrae of the neck are just as vulnerable to injury as are those of the lower spine. Symptoms also are the same except that distress is noted in the neck, shoulders, and arms instead of in the lower spine and legs.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Neil Morgan, San Diego columnist, is a neighbor of Ted ("Dr. Seuss") Geisel, distinguished author and helicopter authority. Whenever a youngster Neil knows celebrates a birthday, he presents him with a copy of Ted's "Scrambled Eggs Super."

One recipient's imagination was so fired by Geisel's text that he marched out to the kitchen and whipped up some scrambled eggs of his own. Known ingredients were four eggs, a box of stale marshmallows, a bowl of prunes, a bottle of cola, and a dash of about everything potable he could find in the icebox.

The concoction finished, the young chef marched straight over to Geisel's house with it, and presented it with a flourish. Ted, furthermore, was not the man to disappoint a youngster so obviously bent on doing him homage.

"This wonderful dish is too rich for my blood," said "Dr. Seuss." "We'll just save it as a treat for my publisher."

Communism And War Go Hand In Hand

Prime Minister Nehru of India said in an interview he is convinced Red China and Russia do not want war. Perhaps Nehru is convinced that it is good policy to make flattering remarks about the nations with the world's two largest land armies, both of which are on India's frontier.

Nehru knows that the only two nations that threaten his India are Russia and China. On his recent return from China he let some of his disappointment show through after he failed to get Chou En-lai to agree to deeds showing his peaceful intentions.

Russia and China do not want war—if they can achieve all their ambitions without war. But when the practical choice is between getting what they want by war, or losing what they want by being peaceful, they "reluctantly" accept war. Hitler loved peace in exactly the same way, and was bitter when the "insane and criminal" resistance of the Poles "forced' 'him to bomb Warsaw.

There is still another sense in which Malenkov and Mao do not want war—if they can get the natives of the country they want to take over to do all the fighting for them. They tried that in Korea.

Nehru waxed lyrical in his approbation of the rejection of preventive war by Washington and the West. He should note, however, that the Soviet Union has never abandoned the idea of preventive war. The Americans who advocate preventive war argue that war is inevitable and this country should get in the first punch. The inevitability of war is the only premise on which to advocate preventive war.

It is an axiom of Marxist doctrine, repeatedly stressed by Soviet leaders, that war with capitalism is inevitable. So Russia and China are conditioned by a dialectic which makes it seem a waste of time to try to avoid war or to wait for the other side to strike first.

These Days

The Curse Of Conformity

Those university professors who make such a fuss about academic freedom often fail to grasp the essential fact that under our Constitution no citizen possesses more rights than any other citizen. What they seem to claim is that because a man teaches in a college, his freedoms are increased by his manner of earning his living.

The Constitution makes a specific provision for freedom of the press; yet this newspaper in which these words appear is not utterly free. It can be sued for libel; it can be deprived of the use of the mails if it publishes what the Post Office regards as a salacious article, say, the photograph of a completely nude woman; it can get itself into contempt of court if it flouts the obiter dicta of a judge. Senator Joe McCarthy was condemned, despite senatorial privileges, for calling senators unpleasant names but he remains uncondemned for speaking harshly to a general.

On this subject of freedom of expression, I came across the weekly bulletin of the Blessed Sacrament Church of Wichita, Kas. It contains a charming recital of a great stupidity and I want to give it to you in full:

"An unknown painter, in the employ of the City of Wichita, passed by our school last spring as the school term ended. He touched up, with the painter's art, our 'Safety Sal' traffic signs. We do not know his identity nor did we see him at work.

"In his zeal he painted out the 'Thanks' on the reverse of the sign, and in its place he lettered 'God Bless You', which every Catholic knows is a prayer, that says 'Thank You', in a manner par excellence.

"When the janitor stored the signs in our school for the summer vacation, we noted the change and gave it our fervent approval. All summer long, when we passed 'Safety Sal' in the eighth grade room she said, 'God Bless You'. We returned the salutation: 'And you too, Safety Sal'.

"Then came Registration Day, August 30, 1954. The signs were marched into the heavy traffic of Douglas Avenue, to remind drivers that they should slow up because school children were around. She gave out her salutation to each and every passerby. 'God Bless You', she said. The very atmosphere of Douglas Avenue seemed changed by her cheery greeting.

"The Wichita Eagle, the Wichita Beacon and even the Hutchinson News, heard about it and made their comments. Hutchinson's television station mentioned it in the 10 o'clock news one night.

"Then came the H-Bomb. Mr. Rankin of the Department of Street Signs telephoned: 'You have changed the wording on your 'Safety Sal' signs. That must be corrected'. We assured him that we changed no such wording and that we had no intention of changing it now. It was not our fault and we did not do it. Furthermore it was done without our knowledge or consent, Mr. Rankin: 'It must be changed and I will do it in the morning'. We told him that we liked it better this way. Mr. Rankin: 'You must conform. The street is no place for those words anyway. We will get complaints'. We asked why not wait for the complaints. Mr. Rankin: 'We must forestall complaints and you must conform. I will change it in the morning'.

"We went our way wondering about the mentality of people who would complain about a 'God Bless You' sign in front of a Catholic school and church.

"In the morning we were made to conform. 'Safety Sal' says, 'Thanks', in a detached and formal manner, when she might be saying 'God Bless You', to warm the hearts of the passersby.

"The inspiration of the unknown and unsung painter, who really had a fine sense of the fitness of things, was buried in the blast of the H-Bomb from the City Building."

To this, one can only say, "God Bless You."

This thought is particularly directed to Senator Mike Mansfield, a so-called liberal, who would require former Army and Navy officers to conform to his way of thinking because they had once earned their livelihood in the employ of the Government of the United States.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Civil Defense has now decided the President's air-raid shelter, built for FDR during World War II, is not completely safe. It is no secret to anyone that this is buried on the White House grounds; so it's feared that a direct H-bomb hit would scoop the vaultlike shelter right out of the earth.

As a result, President Eisenhower has been assigned a secret, out-of-town cave, where he will be whisked, along with his top aides and cabinet officers, in case of an air raid. This gigantic, bombproof cave is equipped with tons of supplies and rations, special electronics and radio gear, air filters and water purifiers — everything necessary to run the nation from an emergency headquarters.

The President's exodus from Washington, of course, depends on adequate warning. The Air Force hopes our radar screen in Northern Canada will give Washington four hours' notice of an enemy attack. If the warning is too short, Ike will have to take his chances in the White House shelter.

This is a small, compact, subterranean shelter, encased in four feet of solid concrete, reinforced with steel. It is equipped with its own heating system, power plant, communications network and water supply—all independent of the city overhead.

Chief problem is that the White House shelter will accommodate only 20 to 25 persons. No list has yet been drawn up as to who in the White House would go with the President and who would have to take their chances with the outside populace.

Civil Defense has held several practice "dry runs" to determine how long it would take to evacuate the President and his cabinet to their secret hideaway, together with 3,000 other top officials to scattered relocation centers.

During one rehearsal, it was discovered that a master file containing essential data was still back in Washington. As a result, photostatic copies were made of all important working files and stored in the emergency headquarters.

Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, also discovered that high-heel shoes weren't the best fashion for air raids. The rough cement floors of the presidential hideout scraped up her heels, gave her trouble with her feet.

Correction: The Public Accounts subcommittee of the House Government Operations subcommittee which planned a study of European merchant marine costs did not take its planned trip to Europe as previously reported in this column. Staff members state that the committee has received a report from the General Accounting Office that European shipbuilding costs are estimated at too low a figure, because of which the U. S. Government is paying U. S. shipping concerns too high a subsidy, and the House subcommittee had planned to send seven members abroad to study the matter: Bender of Ohio, Osmers of N. J., McDonough, Calif., Hillelson, Mo., Republicans; with Karsten, Mo., Mollohan, W. Va., and Fountain, N. C. Though the committee still plans to make the subsidy study, the trip has been called off . . . . Senator Watkins of Utah got the second biggest hand at the Gridiron Club dinner . . . . The man who probably has the longest recollection of Gridiron dinners is Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post and Times-Herald. He recalls a Gridiron speech by Secretary of State Elihu Root in 1908 which made a big hit. William Jennings Bryan was invited to answer Root for the Democrats. He arrived one hour late with rumpled shirt, not in formal evening dress. Despite this, he outrooted Root. His speech brought down the house.

Who Promoted Van Fleet?

Gen. George Marshall, who was given a long overdue testimonial dinner the other day, tells friends privately how Queen Frederika of Greece came to see him secretly in London some years ago and asked him to do something to save Greece.

Marshall told her she was very naughty to approach him direct, since it is improper for the head of a government to make a formal request of a U. S. military man. However, he acted anyway, and later sent Gen. James Van Fleet to reorganize the then demoralized Greek army.

Van Fleet had been the victim of an Army red-tape snafu. Just as someone went wrong and promoted Peress, someone also went wrong and got Van Fleet confused with another Van Fleet, considered too unstable for high rank. General Marshall finally got the two Van Fleets straightened out and sent the right Van Fleet to Greece, where he did a fine job, later went to Korea.

More recently, Van Fleet, retired from Korea by Eisenhower, joined the ten million Americans for McCarthy. But when McCarthy blasted Ike, Van Fleet publicly withdrew.

However, what old military comrades noted was that Van Fleet said nothing about McCarthy's charge against General Marshall, the man who promoted him, gave him his big opportunity in Greece and whom McCarthy charged with "a conspiracy so immense and an infamy so black as to dwarf any previous such venture in the history of man."

Big Issue At Paris Relates To Using Atomic Weapons

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — If war should come as suddenly as it did at Pearl Harbor 13 years ago, will the United States consult Britain and France before deciding to use atomic weapons? Will parliaments have to debate the issue while the enemy is destroying city after city?

This is the big question up for settlement in Paris as Secretary Dulles and the heads of other governments meet with the North Atlantic Treaty Council.

Until now it has been agreed between America and Britain that, if any atomic bombs are to be loaded on American planes from bases in England, there should first be a consultation between the London and Washington governments. But now the problem has become more specific. What can the generals who command the North Atlantic Treaty forces, whose headquarters are in Paris, do about using atomic bombs in defending Europe against possible attack.

Eisenhower Keeps Quiet

The military men, including European generals, want authority to retaliate at once. The civilian governments, on the other hand, mindful of the political effects of letting any such decision rest with the military, are insistent that the deciding word shall be given only by the respective cabinets.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower, aware of the delicacy of the situation, declined to tell his press conference Wednesday what the American government plans to do about it if the British and French governments do not permit the military officers of NATO to use atomic weapons unless given permission after the fighting has started.

Mr. Eisenhower pointed out that, under a law passed by Congress, nobody can order atomic weapons used except himself. This is an impractical situation. For the President might be on the golf links or on a motor trip or in an airplane and, while communication might be established, it would not mean the instantaneous relay of all the information necessary for a decision.

The probability is that the President will have to delegate to the commander-in-chief of NATO forces and to the Strategic Air Command in this country some form of contingent instructions that will enable immediate retaliation without waiting for a presidential order.

Nothing like this particular dilemma has ever arisen before. An interval of one hour may make a lot of difference if an order to destroy enemy cities is delayed after American or possibly European cities have been destroyed.

The British and French governments are under pressure from pacifist elements not to let their bases be used by Americans or anybody else until the atomic question is decided by the cabinet after a crisis arises. This is an unrealistic situation and will call for careful examination of all possible contingencies.

Points Of Discussion

American law, moreover, does not allow atomic materials or weapons to be placed in the hands of any other military forces abroad but our own for the present. Will that law have to be amended, or can all military planning for use of the atomic weapons be carried on without letting the troops of other countries get actual possession of bombs and artillery missiles in the atomic category? These are points of discussion in the conference at Paris this week.

More and more the issue is shaping up as to whether the free countries are going to allow the first blow to be delivered by the enemy as was the case in World War II. The usual objection to any other course is that it is called "preventive war." But another view is emerging among military men—namely, that if atomic weapons are distributed at strategic spots and the enemy knows that there is authority for instant retaliation, the attack itself might be forestalled.

Certainly the whole program of NATO is based on the theory that Allied defense forces, plus adequate armament and a plentiful supply of atomic bombs, will be sufficient to deter an aggressor. But if, on the other hand, the aggressor is given the advantage of several hours and a cumbersome machinery of debate is necessary in some parliament before reprisals can be authorized, then the Allied governments may themselves be responsible for the initial defeat. The question is one that needs clearing up in advance so as to warn an aggressor that his attack will not pay.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Many congressmen going home for the holidays will find their laundry frank has been cancelled by UNIVAC.

With Morse of Oregon opting his nod the Democrats will have the operating leverage of a coffee grinder cracking door-knobs.

From now on the investigations will have the gentle probing of a chef testing a rack of lamb with an oyster fork.

This is the season of peace on government reservations and goodwill to the incumbents.

Let's forget we are Democrats and Republicans and just be our good old impossible selves.

Stop just short of the intangible seam where a handshake sagways into the twist of the arm.

We are asking all senators and congressmen to go home as individuals and not as committees.

We are imploring them to don the white whiskers and shaggy wig of Santa without leaving one ear out for a telephone call.

We are polling the solo posses to return with the open mind of a tomahawked Pilgrim, the impartiality of smog and the laudable determination to meet the Constitution half-way.

There are times when justice over-steps the bounds of curiosity. We are asking the committees not to let their personal spites corrode their natural meanness.

We still have two weeks residue left of the holiday season. Next Friday night will be Christmas Eve throughout the land.

Dream And Reality

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower's legislative program, unveiled in broad outline this week, poses again a mystifying question. Why are so many conservative Republicans honestly convinced that the President is not a "real Republican," but some sort of New Dealer in disguise?

Anyone who traveled widely during the recent campaign can testify that this is what a great many old line Republicans do really believe. And this conviction in turn has stimulated the bitter division in the Republican party. And yet, if you examine the Eisenhower program with an open mind, you can only reach one conclusion. The program may, as the President insists, represent "progressive moderation." But it is also a basically conservative program, by any reasonable tests.

Some anti-Eisenhower Republicans (who are almost to a man former supporters of the late Sen. Taft) claim to detect a rank New Dealish smell in the administration's welfare policies. It is true that last Monday the President told Republican leaders that he still favors his heatlh reinsurance plan and "continued public housing." Yet the fact is that Sen. Taft himself publicly expressed far more New Dealish ideas on health and housing than any the administration has put forward.

Humphrey A Conservative

Again, there has been muttering because the current program calls for postponing a scheduled reduction of some $3,000,000,000 in corporation and excise taxes. Yet the man who insisted on the postponement was Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, a pre-1952 Taft man, and a conservative if there ever was one. Moreover, if the President's program is really hostile to business in any way, the stock market is clearly blissfully unaware of this fact.

All in all, it is difficult to see where Sen. Taft could have differed seriously with the Eisenhower domestic program. Is it, then, the Eisenhower foreign policy which accounts for the anger of the conservative Republicans? From all the clamor, one might think so. But again, consider the facts.

All economic aid to Europe is to be eliminated this year, which Sen. Taft would certainly have applauded. The size of the still disputed aid program for Asia is to be determined by former Budget Director Joseph Dodge, another Taft man.

And on the other hand, it cannot seriously be maintained that the conservative Republicans have reason for anger because the President has not gone far enough in Asia. Sen. Knowland's call for a blockade of China has been a resounding dud. And after all, it was the conservative Republicans who most vociferously opposed American intervention in Indochina.

Of course there are some real policy differences, as on the tariff issue. But such differences cannot really account for the angry muttering about the Eisenhower administration in country clubs and in the cloak rooms of Capitol Hill.

Not even Sen. McCarthy really accounts for the internal bitterness in the Republican party. He has been, in fact, more a symptom than a cause of this bitterness. Many conservative Republicans supported McCarthy less because they admired McCarthy than because they distrusted the administration. But if the administration is demonstrably conservative by any rational measure, why do so many conservatives distrust it?

Had Dream Image

There are all sorts of answers, of course, from patronage trouble to the still raw memories of the 1952 convention. But the basic answer seems to be that many of the businessmen and others who make up the backbone of the Republican party conceived, during the 20 Democratic years, a sort of ideal dream image of a Republican administration. The Eisenhower administration does not live up to this image—because it can't.

Take one example. A great many Republicans honestly believe that Republican efficiency would make it possible to reduce taxes sharply, balance the budget, and put the Russians firmly in their place, all at the same time. One suspects that Secretary Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Wilson largely shared this belief. Yet only a few days ago Secretary Wilson announced a $5,000,000,000 increase in defense spending, while Secretary Humphrey simultaneously announced that the budget would have to remain unbalanced for yet another year.

Both announcements were dictated by the realities of the situation, the which Secretaries Wilson and Humphrey have been uncomfortably exposed for two long years. But to Republicans who have not been similarly exposed, it is no doubt natural to suppose that Wilson, Humphrey—and Eisenhower—have somehow been infected by New Dealism or some kindred disease.

This conflict between dream and reality has been the real cause of much of the trouble in the Republican party. Fortunately, there are increasing signs that the dream is wearing off, and that the reality is at last being accepted, thanks to time, responsibility, and the party's political dependence on the President.

Christmas Seal Money Helps To Fight Tuberculosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The money collected through the sale of Christmas seals is used by the National Tuberculosis Association to wage war against tuberculosis. The strategy of this organization is simple, well planned, and easy to understand. It revolves about early discovery, diagnosis, reporting, and treatment in an attempt to break the chain of the infection.

The Christmas seal idea originated in 1904 with a Danish postal clerk, Einar Holboell, who thought of collecting funds in this way to help tuberculous children. The idea gained momentum in 1907, when Miss Emily B. Bissell of Delaware read a story about the project in Outlook. She decided to organize a Christmas stamp program for her own community and, with the help of a Philadelphia newspaper, collected $3,000. By the next year the campaign became nation-wide.

Most of the money collected by the National Tuberculosis Association (94 per cent) is used to support local and state projects. The NTA is a strong believer in annual chest X-rays and is out to uncover every case of tuberculosis in the country. It conducts X-ray surveys among groups of adults, particularly those living in areas where the tuberculosis rate is high. The association also is encouraging hospitals to X-ray the chest of every patient admitted in much the same way as the urinalysis and blood tests are done.

The rationale behind this part of the program is: Earlier diagnosis means quicker recovery. Furthermore, every person with tuberculosis is capable of spreading the bacilli and each case uncovered takes out of circulation a potential carrier.

NTA also wants to build up resistance against the disease. It is supporting research on vaccines and other preventive measures and advocates education designed to improve the general nutrition and healthful surroundings of the population. It is cognizant of the adverse effects of poverty and poor hygiene.

Another aspect is rehabilitation of the victim. Relapses mean rehospitalizations. In the past, these repeaters constituted five to 30 per cent of admissions to our sanatariums. The majority of these reactivated cases worked and lived under unfavorable conditions.

Many institutions now have a well planned rehabilitation program encompassing all phases of tuberculosis. The patient is educated thoroughly on the kind of disease he has and learns an occupation or trade while recuperating from his iliness. He often is taught an entirely new job and when ready to leave the sanatorium, is well schooled in an occupation best suited to his physical condition.

CURES AS CAUSES

F. D. writes: Can certain drugs given for the relief of asthma also cause asthma?

REPLY

Yes, but this is the exception to the rule. The list includes ACTH, cortisone, the iodides, and the antihistiminics. Sensitivity to these products leads to spasm of the bronchi and wheezing.

INVESTIGATE

M. T. writes: What is the cause of blood in the urine.

REPLY

There are numerous causes and since some are serious, the symptom ought to be investigated without delay.

INDEFINITE INFECTION

N. Z. writes: What is a low grade virus infection?

REPLY

Low grade infection from any cause usually is considered mild and indefinite. Several decades ago, the individual who was tired and without appetite for no apparent cause was told that symptoms resulted from a low grade streptococcal or staphylococcal infection. Nowadays, a virus gets the blame.

CERVICAL DISK

H. W. writes: Can a disk in the neck slip?

REPLY

Yes. The cushioning material (disk) between the vertebrae of the neck are just as vulnerable to injury as are those of the lower spine. Symptoms also are the same except that distress is noted in the neck, shoulders, and arms instead of in the lower spine and legs.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

Neil Morgan, San Diego columnist, is a neighbor of Ted ("Dr. Seuss") Geisel, distinguished author and helicopter authority. Whenever a youngster Neil knows celebrates a birthday, he presents him with a copy of Ted's "Scrambled Eggs Super."

One recipient's imagination was so fired by Geisel's text that he marched out to the kitchen and whipped up some scrambled eggs of his own. Known ingredients were four eggs, a box of stale marshmallows, a bowl of prunes, a bottle of cola, and a dash of about everything potable he could find in the icebox.

The concoction finished, the young chef marched straight over to Geisel's house with it, and presented it with a flourish. Ted, furthermore, was not the man to disappoint a youngster so obviously bent on doing him homage.

"This wonderful dish is too rich for my blood," said "Dr. Seuss." "We'll just save it as a treat for my publisher."

On The Line

by Bob Considine

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16 (INS) — What does murder cost to pursue, legally? Journalistically?

The answer is plenty.

Let's start with the defense. It retained colorful old Bill Corrigan, the home-grown Clarence Darrow, for this one. On a case of this length and importance, his fee would be (conservatively) $50,000. Probably more.

Then there is Fred Garmone, who might weigh in for half that much, and other members of the defense staff. The investigators who had to be hired to check up on prospective jurors must have cost what is called, for reasons never properly defined, a pretty penny.

An example of how many there were and how well they worked may be gained from the fact that one prospective juror was dismissed because she accepted a ride from a brother-in-law and 6:19 p. m. on the evening of such and such and engaged in the following conversation, etc., etc., etc.

It costs the defense 75 cents a page for the transcript of the trial. The other day the court stenographer came up to Bill Corrigan during recess and said, apologetically, "you haven't paid for your transcript this week." Or some such. Corrigan lowered his jaw and boomed:

"Will-yum."

William, a real nice fellow and fine lawyer, is his son and a member of the firm.

He reached over and wrote out a check for $538.

As of Wednesday there were 5,400 pages of transcript (1,120,000 words) which costs the defense over $4,000. Atop this is the immobilization of the personal practice and to perhaps some extent the personal income of Dr. Sam, Dr. Steve and Dr. Richard Sheppard.

Sam is, in effect, laid off. He has been making somewhere between $30,000 and $50,000 a year. Steve has been in drydock, as a medical adviser to the defense, and has not been overly available at the family hospital. Dr. Richard Sheppard assures me the family hospital at Bay Village is doing fine, despite the notoriety of the trial.

Dr. Elkins had to be brought in from Tucson, to speak of Sam's nervous system.

Now, as for the state:

It must pay the jurors $5 a day. If there's a long lockup, hotel rooms must be charged against the taxpayers, and food, drink, etc. It had to send people out to California to break down, or up, Susan Hayes, and picked up the tab for Dr. Lester Hoversten.

And what about us?

To tell the story of the Sheppard trial, lousy as it often has been, chemists had to ponder over things that became ink, reporters had to be sent to the scene, stories had to be written, transmitted, edited, reduced to metal, pressed against paper, folded, bound, distributed, sold.

Reporters, spent by these efforts, had to eat, sleep, send things to laundries, buy taxicabs and waiters, and drink. A fine man behind the bar at the Express Grill said only today to me, he said, "I hope Sam gets another trial."

I was touched.

Anyway, murder runs into money. And I hope that one and all will avoid it.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16 (INS) — What does murder cost to pursue, legally? Journalistically?

The answer is plenty.

Let's start with the defense. It retained colorful old Bill Corrigan, the home-grown Clarence Darrow, for this one. On a case of this length and importance, his fee would be (conservatively) $50,000. Probably more.

Then there is Fred Garmone, who might weigh in for half that much, and other members of the defense staff. The investigators who had to be hired to check up on prospective jurors must have cost what is called, for reasons never properly defined, a pretty penny.

An example of how many there were and how well they worked may be gained from the fact that one prospective juror was dismissed because she accepted a ride from a brother-in-law and 6:19 p. m. on the evening of such and such and engaged in the following conversation, etc., etc., etc.

It costs the defense 75 cents a page for the transcript of the trial. The other day the court stenographer came up to Bill Corrigan during recess and said, apologetically, "you haven't paid for your transcript this week." Or some such. Corrigan lowered his jaw and boomed:

"Will-yum."

William, a real nice fellow and fine lawyer, is his son and a member of the firm.

He reached over and wrote out a check for $538.

As of Wednesday there were 5,400 pages of transcript (1,120,000 words) which costs the defense over $4,000. Atop this is the immobilization of the personal practice and to perhaps some extent the personal income of Dr. Sam, Dr. Steve and Dr. Richard Sheppard.

Sam is, in effect, laid off. He has been making somewhere between $30,000 and $50,000 a year. Steve has been in drydock, as a medical adviser to the defense, and has not been overly available at the family hospital. Dr. Richard Sheppard assures me the family hospital at Bay Village is doing fine, despite the notoriety of the trial.

Dr. Elkins had to be brought in from Tucson, to speak of Sam's nervous system.

Now, as for the state:

It must pay the jurors $5 a day. If there's a long lockup, hotel rooms must be charged against the taxpayers, and food, drink, etc. It had to send people out to California to break down, or up, Susan Hayes, and picked up the tab for Dr. Lester Hoversten.

And what about us?

To tell the story of the Sheppard trial, lousy as it often has been, chemists had to ponder over things that became ink, reporters had to be sent to the scene, stories had to be written, transmitted, edited, reduced to metal, pressed against paper, folded, bound, distributed, sold.

Reporters, spent by these efforts, had to eat, sleep, send things to laundries, buy taxicabs and waiters, and drink. A fine man behind the bar at the Express Grill said only today to me, he said, "I hope Sam gets another trial."

I was touched.

Anyway, murder runs into money. And I hope that one and all will avoid it.

OPEN SESAME PIE

Submitted by Mrs. Bernard A. Kotsen
Washington, D. C.

Bake at 450° F. for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 9-inch pie. TOAST 2 to 4 tablespoons sesame seeds in 9-inch pie pan at 325° F. for 8 to 10 minutes until light golden brown. Remove seeds, then turn oven to 450° F. SIFT TOGETHER 1 cup sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour and ½ teaspoon salt into mixing bowl. Add the toasted sesame seeds. CUT IN ⅓ cup shortening until particles are the size of small peas. SPRINKLE 3 to 4 tablespoons cold water over mixture, a little at a time while tossing and stirring lightly with fork. Add water to driest particles, pushing lumps to side, until dough is just moist enough to hold together. FORM into a ball. Flatten to about ½ inch thickness. Smooth dough at edges. ROLL OUT on floured pastry cloth or board to a circle 1½ inches larger than inverted 9-inch pie pan. FIT loosely into pie pan. Gently pat out air pockets. Fold edge to form a standing rim. Flute. Prick generously with fork. BAKE in hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown. Cool.

DATE CHIFFON FILLING

SOFTEN 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. BEAT TOGETHER 1¼ cups milk, 2 egg yolks, ¼ cup sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt in top of double boiler until well blended. COOK over hot water (or directly over low heat, stirring constantly) until mixture will coat a metal spoon. ADD the softened gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Chill until almost set, stirring occasionally. FOLD IN ¾ cup whipping cream, beaten until very thick, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup pitted dates, chopped very fine. BEAT 2 egg whites until slight mounds form when beater is raised. Add 2 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Continue beating to make a meringue which stands in stiff, glossy peaks when beater is raised. Fold into the date mixture. SPOON into cooled, baked pie shell, heaping into fluffy mounds. Chill until firm. If desired, sprinkle lightly with nutmeg before serving.

Holiday Breakfast Buffet

Having a buffet breakfast during the holidays? Here's a menu you can use for at-the-table breakfasting or for a tray meal in front of the Christmas tree, and at many another time throughout the year.

Tomato juice or fruit juice and the Cereal Snack-Mix—a gay medley of crisp ready-to-eat cereals, nuts, pretzel sticks, and intriguing flavor—may be served in the living room. For the main course, have piping hot oatmeal with raisins, milk, coffee cake, butter, with hot chocolate and coffee as beverages.

These nibbles are easy-to-do; economical too, made as they are from ready-to-eat cereals that make breakfast such good eating and easy-getting!

Cereal Snack-Mix

1½ cups ready-to-eat oat cereal
1½ cups bite-size shredded rice
1½ cups bite-size shredded wheat
2 cups slim pretzel sticks
1 cup salted peanuts, skinless
½ cup butter or margarine
4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ to 1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
1 teaspoon celery salt

Mix the dry cereals (the rice and wheat cereals look like doll-size waffles; the oat cereal like baby doughnuts), the pretzel sticks broken in smaller pieces, and the salted peanuts in a large oblong baking pan or a roasting pan.

Heat the butter or margarine until melted; stir in the Worcestershire sauce and seasonings. Pour over the cereal mixture and mix well. Bake in a slow oven (300°F.) stirring every 10 minutes or so, for about a half hour or until lightly browned. One cup of oven-popped rice cereal may be added to the ingredients, if desired. Cool before serving.

Yield: 2 quarts of mighty good nibbling.

Note: If you're in a hurry and want just a bowlful, use half the recipe and put it together in a large heavy skillet. Cook over surface heat, turned very low. Stir constantly for 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned.

You'll like to keep on hand plenty of these appetizing little cereal nibbles. Everyone likes them and they fit into so many occasions all the year 'round—before or after dinner, as beverage accompaniments, and for snacks anytime. They also make mighty nice Christmas gifts. Double or triple the recipe and store in containers with tight-fitting covers. They keep well—if hidden!

Lipstick For All

Remember when a woman was considered indecent if she put color on her lips? A recent market study shows 90 per cent of women over 16 now wear lipstick, and 95 per cent of females between 16 and 45 use it.

Man like to cook, and children are always willing helpers in the kitchen. Make the holiday cookie baking a family project. Let one youngster crack the nuts while another chops them. Let your husband do the rolling and cutting of the cookies, while you supervise the baking. They'll enjoy it so much that you'll want to make it an annual tradition.

Fresh-Cooked Beef Vegetable Soup

One of the most delicious soup mixes to appear recently on your grocer's shelf is a beef vegetable soup that really tastes homemade. This newcomer to the envelope-packed soup line not only tastes like the real old-fashioned home-made kind, but wait until the folks at your house smell it cooking! It has that wonderful, rich aroma and cooks in just 10 minutes.

A hearty beef flavored stock, six garden-crisp vegetables, tender enriched egg noodles, all this, preserved in the original state of goodness comes in a handy envelope. You do the cooking of the soup yourself in 3 cups of boiling water. There's no warmed-up taste to this beef vegetable soup.

Beef vegetable soup is your prelude to a fine dinner. It banishes the hunger pangs of youngsters who rush in for lunch, acting for all the world as if they had not eaten in a week. It cuts short the complaints of hungry people of all ages who are likely to "snack" at any hour of the day or night. This is truly an all-family soup with a flavor that tastes like the ladlings from grandmother's soup kettle.

With a steaming bowl of soup, try these suggestions for cheese bread and cracker sandwiches. Children will like the new and different taste of these fillings, while the older crowd will politely smack their lips over the delectable cheese bread.

Cracker Sandwiches

Fillings for Cracker Sandwiches

Pimento Cheese Spread: Combine ½ cup of grated process American or Cheddar Cheese and 2 teaspoons of pimento, mashed into fine pieces with a fork. Add 1 tablespoon mayonnaise or salad dressing and 1 tablespoon of milk. Mix until smooth.

Peanut Butter Bacon Sread: Fry 3 stris of bacon until crisp. Drain well and chop. Combine with ¼ cup peanut butter and mix well.

Egg Salad Spread: Combine 4 chopped hard-cooked eggs, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, ½ teasoon salt, ¼ cu mayonnaise or salad dressing and ¼ teaspoon of prepared mustard. Mix well.

Toasted Cheese Loaf

1 small loaf French bread; ¼ cup soft butter; 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; 6 slices process American cheese.

Slice loaf of French bread 1-inch slices to ¼inch from the bottom. Cream butter and mustard together. Spread mixture generously between slices, and insert ½ slice of American cheese. 1 teaspoon celery salt

Mix the dry cereals (the rice and wheat cereals look like doll-size waffles; the oat cereal like baby doughnuts), the pretzel sticks broken in smaller pieces, and the salted peanuts in a large oblong baking pan or a roasting pan.

Heat the butter or margarine until melted; stir in the Worcestershire sauce and seasonings. Pour over the cereal mixture and mix well. Bake in a slow oven (300°F.) stirring every 10 minutes or so, for about a half hour or until lightly browned. One cup of oven-popped rice cereal may be added to the ingredients, if desired. Cool before serving.

Yield: 2 quarts of mighty good nibbling.

Note: If you're in a hurry and want just a bowlful, use half the recipe and put it together in a large heavy skillet. Cook over surface heat, turned very low. Stir constantly for 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned.

You'll like to keep on hand plenty of these appetizing little cereal nibbles. Everyone likes them and they fit into so many occasions all the year 'round—before or after dinner, as beverage accompaniments, and for snacks anytime. They also make mighty nice Christmas gifts. Double or triple the recipe and store in containers with tight-fitting covers. They keep well—if hidden!

Lipstick For All

Remember when a woman was considered indecent if she put color on her lips? A recent market study shows 90 per cent of women over 16 now wear lipstick, and 95 per cent of females between 16 and 45 use it.

Man like to cook, and children are always willing helpers in the kitchen. Make the holiday cookie baking a family project. Let one youngster crack the nuts while another chops them. Let your husband do the rolling and cutting of the cookies, while you supervise the baking. They'll enjoy it so much that you'll want to make it an annual tradition.

Fresh-Cooked Beef Vegetable Soup

One of the most delicious soup mixes to appear recently on your grocer's shelf is a beef vegetable soup that really tastes homemade. This newcomer to the envelope-packed soup line not only tastes like the real old-fashioned home-made kind, but wait until the folks at your house smell it cooking! It has that wonderful, rich aroma and cooks in just 10 minutes.

A hearty beef flavored stock, six garden-crisp vegetables, tender enriched egg noodles, all this, preserved in the original state of goodness comes in a handy envelope. You do the cooking of the soup yourself in 3 cups of boiling water. There's no warmed-up taste to this beef vegetable soup.

Beef vegetable soup is your prelude to a fine dinner. It banishes the hunger pangs of youngsters who rush in for lunch, acting for all the world as if they had not eaten in a week. It cuts short the complaints of hungry people of all ages who are likely to "snack" at any hour of the day or night. This is truly an all-family soup with a flavor that tastes like the ladlings from grandmother's soup kettle.

With a steaming bowl of soup, try these suggestions for cheese bread and cracker sandwiches. Children will like the new and different taste of these fillings, while the older crowd will politely smack their lips over the delectable cheese bread.

Cracker Sandwiches

Fillings for Cracker Sandwiches

Pimento Cheese Spread: Combine ½ cup of grated process American or Cheddar Cheese and 2 teaspoons of pimento, mashed into fine pieces with a fork. Add 1 tablespoon mayonnaise or salad dressing and 1 tablespoon of milk. Mix until smooth.

Peanut Butter Bacon Sread: Fry 3 stris of bacon until crisp. Drain well and chop. Combine with ¼ cup peanut butter and mix well.

Egg Salad Spread: Combine 4 chopped hard-cooked eggs, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, ½ teasoon salt, ¼ cu mayonnaise or salad dressing and ¼ teaspoon of prepared mustard. Mix well.

Toasted Cheese Loaf

1 small loaf French bread; ¼ cup soft butter; 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; 6 slices process American cheese.

Slice loaf of French bread 1-inch slices to ¼inch from the bottom. Cream butter and mustard together. Spread mixture generously between slices, and insert ½ slice of American cheese. Place bread in hot oven (400°F) for about 10 minutes or under the broiler until bread is heated throughout. Brush butter mustard mix over top of loaf while heating.

Pass Hot Soup As Christmas 'Cup 'O Cheer'

"Merry Christmas". "Come in and sit by the fire." "And join us for a snack."

Over and over, you hear these warm words of hospitality ringing out during this best of all seasons. Guests arrive at any hour and are always welcomed. Carolers gather outside and sing, "Joy to the World;" then all troop in to warm up. Tree trimmers come over to help adorn your tree. School friends stop by...home for the holidays.

For any such time, it's a help to have quick-to-fetch food at hand. Often something warming, though not a heavy meal, will hit the spot. Then how about mugs of soup to sip and spoon? Red tomato soup, in the Christmas color scheme. Golden chicken noodle; drink off the broth, then spoon out the solids. Clam chowder or creamy asparagus soup.

While one helper heats soup, another can grill cheese sandwiches. Someone else fix coffee to go with fruit and popcorn later.

Stock your cupboard to be ready for holiday snack times. Grand and handy are:

Cans of soup; sharp cheese (in refrigerator); popcorn; instant coffee; instant cocoa; paper cups (for hot soup and beverages); paper plates, napkins; cans of cranberries; pickles; deviled ham;

Welcome guests to a Christmas-time party with cheery mugs of steaming tomato soup and toasty cheese-bacon sandwiches. Perfect for sipping and supping round the Christmas tree. Carolers will like this after singing in the cold outdoor air. Equally welcomed by those who've been out playing Santa, or just playing in the snow.

Bake Spaghetti wit' Fish Sticks

Enticing bait for appetites is a casserole of spaghetti, with fish sticks baked on top. Use cans of spaghetti in tomato sauce and a package of frozen fish sticks. Empty 2 cans of the spaghetti into a casserole or 8-inch square baking pan. Arrange fish sticks (unthawed) on top. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 4 generous servings. Just taste it when teamed with tossed green salad, corn muffins.

Try Bread Stuffing for Croutons

Flavorful garnish for bowls of hot creamy soup is a garnish of crisp bread stuffing, the packaged kind. The herb seasoning in the stuffing highlights flavor of several soups — cream of mushroom, cream of celery, or cream of chicken. Try this at a holiday meal.

Cook Hasty Chop Suey

Rich brown chop suey is a cinch to fix with a can of beef gravy and some cooked beef. For seasoning, first cook one chopped onion and a diced green pepper in 1 tablespoon shortening. Add a small can of sliced mushrooms too. Onion and pepper should cook until slightly tender. Then stir in 1 can (1¼ cups) beef gravy and 1 cup cubed cooked beef. Season with ½ teaspoon soy sauce for a taste of the orient. Just heat to blend. Scoop hot meat mixture over chow mein noodles or buttered cooked rice to serve 6.

Stuffed Chicken Breasts

2 quarts coarse dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon celery seeds
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup melted butter or margarine
¼ cup minced onion
⅔ cup chopped celery
1 cup chicken bouillon
4 (1 pound) chicken breasts
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
½ cup Sherry

Combine bread crumbs, celery seeds, salt, poultry seasoning, pepper, butter, onion, celery and chicken bouillon. Place a sheet of aluminum foil on a rack in a shallow pan. Make four mounds of stuffing with one-half cup in each mound. Bone chicken breasts, as follows: Loosen and lift meat from keel bone in one piece. Pull away the rib bones. Place one boned breast, skin side up, over each mound of stuffing. Brush with butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for thirty minutes. Baste chicken breasts with Sherry. Return to oven for an additional thirty minutes, or until chicken is tender.

Yield: 4 Stuffed Chicken Breasts (2 servings).

How Much Turkey Will You Need?

How can you figure on the amount of turkey you'll need for Christmas dinner?

A ½ pound of ready-to-cook large turkey will give one serving of cooked meat, but if you like more than a serving and leftovers, figure on one pound or more per person.

Nutritionist Janet Coblentz, University of Maryland Extension Service points out that if your family is small and your oven space is limited, you will find smaller turkeys a suitable choice. You can broil, barbecue or fry small turkeys (4 to 8 pounds) as well as roast them.

Servings	Pounds of Turkey
4 to 10	4 to 8
10 to 20	8 to 12
20 to 30	12 to 16
30 to 40	16 to 20
40 to 50	20 to 24

The specialist says that big turkeys—those weighing 17 to 18 pounds or more—are plentiful and unusually good buys this year. The price per pound of big birds in many areas is less than that of small sizes. This season the price spread has been unusually wide—as much as or even more than 10 cents a pound difference in some localities.

Therefore, if you have an oven large enough to cook a big bird and refrigerator or freezer space for keeping it, either before cooking or after when partially used, you should actually find a large turkey an inexpensive buy in poultry meat.

Gifts from your own kitchen will be highly treasured by friends and neighbors. Fruit cakes, rich and spicy, make gifts to be remembered the whole year. Pack cookies in decorative tins or gaily wrapped boxes. They will be gratefully enjoyed throughout the yuletide season. Present your very special friends with a festive yeast bread like Stollen or Kris Kringle's Tree done up in bright red cellophane and shiny Christmas balls.

Liver Lends Variety To Many A Meal

Liver has a well-justified reputation for being one of the most nourishing foods you can serve. Beef liver, is as good to eat as it is good for you.

If you are going to grind liver, first brown it lightly on both sides in hot lard or drippings to make it easier to grind. Liver patties, wrapped in bacon and broiled, panbroiled or panfried and baked liver loaf are fine ways of preparing ground liver.

To braise slices of liver, dredge with seasoned flour. Brown in a frying-pan in bacon drippings. Cubed vegetables such as carrots, celery and onion, may be cooked with the liver. Add one-half cup of liquid, cover and cook on top of the range, 20 to 30 minutes. Or you may remove the vegetables to a casserole, top with the liver, cover the casserole tightly and place in a slow oven (300°F). Cook in the oven for about 30 to 45 minutes.

Sliced liver may also be panfried in a small amount of lard or drippings. This method gives excellent results, if done carefully. Too long cooking and too high a temperature harden liver and destroy its flavor.

Liver Spoon Cakes

1 pound sliced beef liver; 3 tablespoons lard or drippings; 1 medium onion; 6 soda crackers; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; 2 tablespoons milk; 2 eggs, beaten; ¼ cup lard or drippings.

Cook liver in hot lard or drippings until lightly browned on each side, about 5 minutes. Put liver through food choper with onion and crackers. Add seasonings, milk and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Drop into hot lard or drippings by tablespoonfuls. Brown thoroughly on one side. Turn and brown second side until crisp. 4 servings.

Liver Lends Variety To Many A Meal

Liver has a well-justified reputation for being one of the most nourishing foods you can serve. Beef liver, is as good to eat as it is good for you.

If you are going to grind liver, first brown it lightly on both sides in hot lard or drippings to make it easier to grind. Liver patties, wrapped in bacon and broiled, panbroiled or panfried and baked liver loaf are fine ways of preparing ground liver.

To braise slices of liver, dredge with seasoned flour. Brown in a frying-pan in bacon drippings. Cubed vegetables such as carrots, celery and onion, may be cooked with the liver. Add one-half cup of liquid, cover and cook on top of the range, 20 to 30 minutes. Or you may remove the vegetables to a casserole, top with the liver, cover the casserole tightly and place in a slow oven (300°F). Cook in the oven for about 30 to 45 minutes.

Sliced liver may also be panfried in a small amount of lard or drippings. This method gives excellent results, if done carefully. Too long cooking and too high a temperature harden liver and destroy its flavor.

Liver Spoon Cakes

1 pound sliced beef liver; 3 tablespoons lard or drippings; 1 medium onion; 6 soda crackers; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; 2 tablespoons milk; 2 eggs, beaten; ¼ cup lard or drippings.

Cook liver in hot lard or drippings until lightly browned on each side, about 5 minutes. Put liver through food choper with onion and crackers. Add seasonings, milk and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Drop into hot lard or drippings by tablespoonfuls. Brown thoroughly on one side. Turn and brown second side until crisp. 4 servings.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 16—(INS)—In Chicago tomorrow, Jesse L. Lasky will announce before a large group of band members that after three years he is finally bringing "The Big Brass Band" to the screen. But the star is a singer, and not another bandleader patterned after John Phillip Sousa.

Jesse will say that the singer is Frank Sinatra, whom he has signed. As "The Big Brass Band" won't be made until July, Frankie will have plenty of time to get all of his fighting done and his picture work finished.

Frankie made his first picture, "Miracle Of The Bells," for Jesse, and even if he does fight occasionally he is a sentimental guy, and that ain't bad.

I cannot say how many years ago I saw Lionel and John Barrymore in "The Jest" on Broadway, but it made an impression that I'll never forget, seeing the two brothers trying to out-act one another.

So I am especially interested to hear that Jack Parlance and Jay Robinson will co-star in a revival of this classic play, which will be produced on Broadway by Jean Dalrymple next season.

Palance will play the Lionel Barrymore role and Robinson the role created by the inimitable John.

Finally Mike Romanoff is telling all in his book "After Me, The Deluge." He bought the stories of his life printed in the New Yorker Magazine from MGM.

"I do five pages a day in long hand," Mike told me, "and Gloria (Mrs. R.) makes five copies of them."

"Are you telling about your customers?" I asked Mike.

"Only charming things—maybe a few of their idiosyncrasies. I'll tell the truth about myself, where I was born, and all the things people have been asking me all these years."

Before Mike became a famous restaurateur he rode to fame as "Prince" Mike Romanoff—and a very charming Prince he is.

Attractive Ann Robinson, Jack Webb's leading lady in "Dragnet" smashed her boyfriend's expensive car in an accident. Did she get a scolding? She did not. He happens to be Ed Sweeney, Florida hotel owner.

He has moved to California and, well, he's going to marry Ann next summer.

He felt he was lucky that she wasn't hurt.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Joan Collins, 20th's new British actress, is on her way to London to file divorce action against her actor husband, Maxwell Reed. She wants to get this domestic situation cleared before she starts her Hollywood career.

Talk is that Leslie Caron will marry Robert Petit when she's free in March in Paris. He'll produce her play "Orvet" there.

Terry Moore will be well chaperoned in Iceland, Scotland and the Azores where she'll entertain the boys during the holidays. Her mother and father are going with her.

Bing Crosby looms up very strongly as an Academy Award contender for "The Country Girl." Never has there been so much discussion over any picture. When it's all been said and done, Bing turns in a great performance.

Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson's eleven-year-old son, Lance, gets here from school in the east tomorrow on his first plane ride to spend Christmas with his parents.

Linda Christian has been too ill to answer telephone calls. One reporter asks if it's true that she has been receiving telephone calls from opera star Cesare Siepi? She wishes they were from Tyrone Power.

The new Catholic Digest book club, numbering 30,000 members, has Jim Bishop at the head. He tells me "Don Camillo, His Little World And His Dilemma," "The Deliverance Of St. Cecilia" and "I'll Cry Tomorrow" are three of the books already selected.

At the Bel Air farm house, Abbe Lane's new Paris gown had many admiring eyes, among them her bridegroom, Xavier Cugat.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Wine, Liquor Debate Waxes Hot In France

By CARL HARTMAN

PARIS, Dec. 16 (AP)—It's not the hard liquor that causes alcoholism in France, a spokesman for French distillers said today. It's those light wines Americans used to hear so much about during prohibition.

"Nonsense," replied the president of the Friends of Wine. "You might as well say it's the makers of playing cards who are responsible for gambling."

The debate emerged from a news conference called by Maurice Fenon, secretary of the National Syndicate of Mobile Distillers. Fenon opposes a decree by Premier Pierre Mendes-France which he says would reduce by 30 per cent the number of Frenchmen entitled to have their surplus fruit distilled into brandies. Over three million Frenchmen now have this privilege.

Fenon's 10,000 mobile distillers do the job for most of them. It's illegal to have a private still in France.

Fenon argued this way:

"You get up early on the farm, 5 or 6 a.m. at the latest, and you work for an hour and a half or two hours and you eat the way a man eats when he's done a hard job. If you put a drop of brandy in your coffee, it's on top of a full stomach, just as full as after lunch. It can't do any harm. It helps the digestion and rejoices the palate.

"But those glasses of white wine or those vermouths people take before meals—those are the things that drop on an empty stomach."

As usual at French news conferences, there was someone to take the opposite tack. Rene Flachon is head of the French wine-lovers' group.

It was impossible, he maintained, to argue seriously that French wine—most of it drunk at meals—could really do as much harm as hard liquor. French wine usually has less than 15 per cent alcohol; fruit brandies may have 50 per cent or more.

He and Fenon agreed it was abuse of both wine and brandy, and moonshining, that the government ought to concentrate its fight against.

Voluntary End To Job Discrimination To Be Stressed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Two high officials said that the Eisenhower administration will stress voluntary rather than compulsory methods of ending job discrimination by government contractors.

One of them, Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, said however that if any deliberate violations of the federal policy persist "the government will then be left with no alternative but to consider other methods of obtaining compliance."

Rogers and Vice President Nixon were the main speakers at a business and industry conference called by President Eisenhower's Committee on Government Contracts. This committee, headed by Nixon, has been set up to seek compliance with the official ban on awarding contracts to employers who discriminate in race, religion or color in employment policies.

Nixon said "we are not contemplating setting up any kind of police force," adding that enforcement will be brought about by the federal agencies which enter into contracts.

"The administration is convinced," Nixon said, "that this is the way to do this job—on a cooperative basis, on the basis of the good faith of both parties to the agreement, on the basis of the conviction that both industry and government have a mutual and equal interest in the welfare of our country."

Rogers, in turn, said there have been questions about the possibility of government "blacklists, cancellations, injunctions or penalties" against employers who fail to comply.

"The committee is not presently concerned about penalties which may attach where non-compliance with the non-discrimination clause is found," said Rogers.

"Compliance efforts," he said, "for some time will be principally concerned with cooperating with industry and pointing out actions which may be taken to break down and eliminate discriminatory employment practices.

"However, if conciliatory efforts fail, and continuing deliberate violations occur after reasonable efforts have been made to obtain compliance by voluntary means, the government will then be left with no alternative but to consider other methods of obtaining compliance." He did not discuss the steps that might be taken.

Attractive Ann Robinson, Jack Webb's leading lady in "Dragnet" smashed her boyfriend's expensive car in an accident. Did she get a scolding? She did not. He happens to be Ed Sweeney, Florida hotel owner.

He felt he was lucky that she wasn't hurt.

Talk is that Leslie Caron will marry Robert Petit when she's free in March in Paris. He'll produce her play "Orvet" there.

Wine, Liquor Debate Waxes Hot In France

By CARL HARTMAN

PARIS, Dec. 16 (AP)—It's not the hard liquor that causes alcoholism in France, a spokesman for French distillers said today. It's those light wines Americans used to hear so much about during prohibition.

"Nonsense," replied the president of the Friends of Wine. "You might as well say it's the makers of playing cards who are responsible for gambling."

The debate emerged from a news conference called by Maurice Fenon, secretary of the National Syndicate of Mobile Distillers. Fenon opposes a decree by Premier Pierre Mendes-France which he says would reduce by 30 per cent the number of Frenchmen entitled to have their surplus fruit distilled into brandies. Over three million Frenchmen now have this privilege.

Fenon's 10,000 mobile distillers do the job for most of them. It's illegal to have a private still in France.

Fenon argued this way:

"You get up early on the farm, 5 or 6 a.m. at the latest, and you work for an hour and a half or two hours and you eat the way a man eats when he's done a hard job. If you put a drop of brandy in your coffee, it's on top of a full stomach, just as full as after lunch. It can't do any harm. It helps the digestion and rejoices the palate.

"But those glasses of white wine or those vermouths people take before meals—those are the things that drop on an empty stomach."

As usual at French news conferences, there was someone to take the opposite tack. Rene Flachon is head of the French winelovers' group.

It was impossible, he maintained, to argue seriously that French wine—most of it drunk at meals—could really do as much harm as hard liquor. French wine usually has less than 15 per cent alcohol; fruit brandies may have 50 per cent or more.

He and Fenon agreed it was abuse of both wine and brandy, and moonshining, that the government ought to concentrate its fight against.

Voluntary End To Job Discrimination To Be Stressed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Two high officials said that the Eisenhower administration will stress voluntary rather than compulsory methods of ending job discrimination by government contractors.

One of them, Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, said however that if any deliberate violations of the federal policy persist "the government will then be left with no alternative but to consider other methods of obtaining compliance."

Rogers and Vice President Nixon were the main speakers at a business and industry conference called by President Eisenhower's Committee on Government Contracts. This committee, headed by Nixon, has been set up to seek compliance with the official ban on awarding contracts to employers who discriminate in race, religion or color in employment policies.

Nixon said "we are not contemplating setting up any kind of police force," adding that enforcement will be brought about by the federal agencies which enter into contracts.

"The administration is convinced," Nixon said, "that this is the way to do this job—on a cooperative basis, on the basis of the good faith of both parties to the agreement, on the basis of the conviction that both industry and government have a mutual and equal interest in the welfare of our country."

Rogers, in turn, said there have been questions about the possibility of government "blacklists, cancellations, injunctions or penalties" against employers who fail to comply.

"The committee is not presently concerned about penalties which may attach where non-compliance with the non-discrimination clause is found," said Rogers.

"Compliance efforts," he said, "for some time will be principally concerned with cooperating with industry and pointing out actions which may be taken to break down and eliminate discriminatory employment practices.

"However, if conciliatory efforts fail, and continuing deliberate violations occur after reasonable efforts have been made to obtain compliance by voluntary means, the government will then be left with no alternative but to consider other methods of obtaining compliance." He did not discuss the steps that might be taken.

Washington Churches Acknowledge Nation's Capital Has Definite Moralistic Problems

By HERMAN R. ALLEN
(For George Cornell)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—At least one book and several magazine articles have been written depicting Washington as a moral hot spot, a "Babylon on the Potomac."

Two top Washington churchmen acknowledge that the capital has its moral problems but contend at the same time that it is one of the churchgoingest cities in the nation.

Says Dr. Seth R. Brooks, minister of National Memorial Universalist Church and president of the Washington Ministerial Union:

"I think that Washington is a cross section of the American people. It is a cosmopolitan city, a world center, with every desire and passion of mankind, but with a very strong religious motivation which demands and needs to be met."

Dr. Brooks and Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, a United Lutheran minister and executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, both point out that the city's churches are overflowing, with most holding two and some even three Sunday services, and Sunday schools are jammed.

Dr. Reissig says:

"The police are under a good man, and the commissioners (a three-man body appointed by the President to run the city) are good men, and this sort of situation is a real help to the civic and moral life of the community."

Both churchmen hasten to add, however, that mere church attendance is not an index to religious conviction.

"Any minister I know," Dr. Brooks said, "would say that much as we may admire outward signs such as new buildings and big attendance there is no religion that is worth anything unless it is in a man's own life and heart."

And Dr. Reissig said: "One of the big efforts of our churches right now is to get people to realize the implications of religion — that there is a church on Monday as well as on Sunday."

Dr. Reissig says that, desirable as it is, Washington's heavy and increasing church attendance has yet to reflect itself in any deep awakening of the community with regard to slums and other civic problems.

"Important people, government leaders and the like, are regular churchgoers," he said. "But few have identified themselves with civic matters of this kind."

Dr. Reissig sees encouraging signs in the other direction, however. He noted that the Church of the Savior here, an ecumenical (one big church) institution of which the Rev. Gordon Crosby is minister, concerns itself with and calls on its members to take an active part in public projects.

LaSalle's Harold Hudson Named Football Player Of Year

Backfield Star First Explorer To Earn Award

Winner Receives K-C Trophy; Times Honors All-City Grid Team

By GEORGE ESKIN

Harold Hudson, LaSalle High School's versatile fullback, received the seventh annual K. C. "Player of the Year" award in ceremonies held last night on the stage of the Maryland Theatre.

Hudson, who set a new record by being named "Back of the Week" on four different occasions during the season, was given an engraved gold wrist watch in honor of his achievement. The yearly program is sponsored by the Cumberland Council, No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

At 9:30 p. m. the curtain parted revealing sixteen city football players, four local coaches, and members of the seven-man K.C. selection committee. Grand Knight John Kreidler opened the program, welcoming all, and introducing Bill Criswell, sports director of radio station WCUM and a member of the selection committee.

Criswell Introduces Boys

Criswell, master of ceremonies, introduced the fourteen players who had been chosen "Players of the week." He presented miniature gold footballs, inscribed with the letter of the respective school, to the following boys: Donald "Ducky" Rice, Richard Johnson, Barry Sterner, Carl Brown, and Rodney Breedlove of Allegany; Fort Hill's Jerry Landis, Bob Andrews, Kenny Poling, and Jack Andrews; Phil Geatz, Joe Conroy, Mike Dougherty, and Hudson, from LaSalle.

Four local high school gridiron coaches, Roy Lester, Allegany, Bill Hahn, Fort Hill, Norman Geatz, LaSalle, and Chet Payne, Ridgeley, proceeded to congratulate the K. C. for encouraging the boys, and expressed the hope that the program would continue.

Chad Riley, sportscaster of radio station WDYK, added his felicitations to the K. C., the "Players of the Week," and to all those players who participated in the games during the season.

Receive Times Trophies

Trophies and a composite picture of the team was given to the members of the 23rd annual Cumberland Times Coaches' All-City team by J. Suter Kegg, sports editor. Honored were Tom McConnell, Bob and Jack Andrews, and Jerry Landis, Fort Hill; Allegany's Rice, Breedlove, and Johnson; and Hudson, Geatz, and Rickey Harris, LaSalle.

Both "Player of the Week" and All-City awards were given to Coach Hahn of Fort Hill's City Champions for Dale Hillegas, Junior guard, who was involved in an automobile accident last week and was unable to attend.

To conclude the exercises, Jim Day, chairman of the K. C. selection committee and scholastic sports editor of the Cumberland Times, announced Hudson's selection. The modest fullback of the Explorers thanked the Knights of Columbus for the award, and said that each boy on the stage was equally deserving.

LaSalle's First Winner

Hudson's selection marks the first time LaSalle High School has had a "Player of the Year" winner in the seven years of the honor. Past winners include Earl Bruce, Allegany, 1948; Lynn Beightol, Fort Hill, 1949 and 1950; Bill Lee, Fort Hill, 1951; John McVicker, Fort Hill, 1952; and Robert Kirtley, Allegany, 1953.

Kiner Doesn't Think He Violated Rules In Taking 40 Pct. Cut

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 16 (INS)—Outfielder Ralph Kiner said today any action baseball Commissioner Ford Frick takes on Kiner's voluntary 40 per cent salary cut with the Cleveland Indians is okay with him.

Kiner told newsmen:

"I don't think I violated any rules. Either way, I don't think I will lose anything. I knew what I wanted to do and I did it."

Kiner, the National League player representative, said he will meet with Frick in New York Saturday while finishing up his duties for the National loop.

The rules say that a player may not be cut more than 25 percent. Kiner, however, was willing to take the slash and said he didn't believe he had been worth the money he received from the Cubs and that he didn't want to cause dissention on the Cleveland club over his high salary.

Although American League president Will Harridge has approved the contract, Commissioner Frick said he wants to study before giving his approval.

Bayard High Cagers Edge Aurora, 48-47

BAYARD, W. Va., Dec. 16—Bayard High School closed with a rush tonight to eke out a 48-47 decision over the basketeers of Aurora High School of Preston county.

Aurora held the upper hand for three periods, the quarter scores being 13-4, 22-15 and 36-34.

LaSalle's Harold Hudson Named Football Player Of Year

Backfield Star First Explorer To Earn Award

Winner Receives K-C Trophy; Times Honors All-City Grid Team

By GEORGE ESKIN

Harold Hudson, LaSalle High School's versatile fullback, received the seventh annual K. C. "Player of the Year" award in ceremonies held last night on the stage of the Maryland Theatre.

Hudson, who set a new record by being named "Back of the Week" on four different occasions during the season, was given an engraved gold wrist watch in honor of his achievement. The yearly program is sponsored by the Cumberland Council, No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

At 9:30 p. m. the curtain parted revealing sixteen city football players, four local coaches, and members of the seven-man K.C. selection committee. Grand Knight John Kreidler opened the program, welcoming all, and introducing Bill Criswell, sports director of radio station WCUM and a member of the selection committee.

Criswell Introduces Boys

Criswell, master of ceremonies, introduced the fourteen players who had been chosen "Players of the week." He presented miniature gold footballs, inscribed with the letter of the respective school, to the following boys: Donald "Ducky" Rice, Richard Johnson, Barry Sterner, Carl Brown, and Rodney Breedlove of Allegany; Fort Hill's Jerry Landis, Bob Andrews, Kenny Poling, and Jack Andrews; Phil Geatz, Joe Conroy, Mike Dougherty, and Hudson, from LaSalle.

Four local high school gridiron coaches, Roy Lester, Allegany, Bill Hahn, Fort Hill, Norman Geatz, LaSalle, and Chet Payne, Ridgeley, proceeded to congratulate the K. C. for encouraging the boys, and expressed the hope that the program would continue.

Chad Riley, sportscaster of radio station WDYK, added his felicitations to the K. C., the "Players of the Week," and to all those players who participated in the games during the season.

Receive Times Trophies

Trophies and a composite picture of the team was given to the members of the 23rd annual Cumberland Times Coaches' All-City team by J. Suter Kegg, sports editor. Honored were Tom McConnell, Bob and Jack Andrews, and Jerry Landis, Fort Hill; Allegany's Rice, Breedlove, and Johnson; and Hudson, Geatz, and Rickey Harris, LaSalle.

Both "Player of the Week" and All-City awards were given to Coach Hahn of Fort Hill's City Champions for Dale Hillegas, Junior guard, who was involved in an automobile accident last week and was unable to attend.

To conclude the exercises, Jim Day, chairman of the K. C. selection committee and scholastic sports editor of the Cumberland Times, announced Hudson's selection. The modest fullback of the Explorers thanked the Knights of Columbus for the award, and said that each boy on the stage was equally deserving.

LaSalle's First Winner

Hudson's selection marks the first time LaSalle High School has had a "Player of the Year" winner in the seven years of the honor. Past winners include Earl Bruce, Allegany, 1948; Lynn Beightol, Fort Hill, 1949 and 1950; Bill Lee, Fort Hill, 1951; John McVicker, Fort Hill, 1952; and Robert Kirtley, Allegany, 1953.

Kiner Doesn't Think He Violated Rules In Taking 40 Pct. Cut

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 16 (INS)—Outfielder Ralph Kiner said today any action baseball Commissioner Ford Frick takes on Kiner's voluntary 40 per cent salary cut with the Cleveland Indians is okay with him.

Kiner told newsmen:

"I don't think I violated any rules. Either way, I don't think I will lose anything. I knew what I wanted to do and I did it."

Kiner, the National League player representative, said he will meet with Frick in New York Saturday while finishing up his duties for the National loop.

The rules say that a player may not be cut more than 25 percent. Kiner, however, was willing to take the slash and said he didn't believe he had been worth the money he received from the Cubs and that he didn't want to cause dissention on the Cleveland club over his high salary.

Although American League president Will Harridge has approved the contract, Commissioner Frick said he wants to study before giving his approval.

HUDSON RECEIVES TROPHY—Harold Hudson, right, LaSalle High School fullback and leading point scorer in the city during the 1954 season, is shown receiving the Knights of Columbus gold engraved wrist watch from James Day, chairman of the K. of C. Selection Committee, and assistant sports editor of the Times, after the Explorers' backfield ace had been named as Cumberland's Football Player of the Year last night at the Maryland Theater. Hudson became LaSalle's first winner in the seven-year history of the award. During the season Hudson was voted lineman-of-the-week four times, thus establishing a new record.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (INS) — From time to time this year, we have heard various squawks, and suggested remedies for the so-called ills the squawks mentioned.

Laws against homicide being what they are, we can't very well adopt the suggestion that all prospective tenors and wrestlers be strangled at birth. But surely something could be done to protect the rest of us.

BASEBALL: Games too long; too much time wasted. Remedies: Forbid any manager from leaving side-lines or dug-out to argue with umpires. Cut out pitcher warm-ups at start of all innings except the first. Forbid anybody to pitchers' mound, including managers. If he wants to make a change, let him notify catcher who will tell umpire.

Limit pitcher's time between pitches. If he wants to argue start calling balls against him. If batter wants to delay game start calling strikes against him.

BASKETBALL: Too much scoring. Let teams averaging 6' 3" and over play among themselves. Colleges should adopt pros' 24-second rule or restore center jump.

HOCKEY: Not enough scoring. One-one ties a bore with teams futilly racing up and down the ice. Widen the goal at least a foot. Tough on the goalies but the good ones still would be better than the dubs.

RACING: (of any kind) Bar all horses who have shown they can't even finish in the money. Let's have more quality even if fewer races. Banish owners who race horses for the exercise waiting for a price to crack down. (Swell, but how are you going to know?) Bar all jumping races.

TENNIS: Give the gate to any panty waist who shows any signs of so-called temperament. Driving ball out of stadium, tossing racquets, and other signs of juvenile petulancy.

FOOTBALL: Cut in half time for huddles allowed between halves. Abolish clipping pehalty, which usually is unjust. Abolish point after touchdown or make it be tried from at least 25-yard line. Or give an extra point for a td made by rushing or passing.

ROWING: Let's have some single and double scull races to take up long slack between eight-oared races. Let's have a few handicap races. This could be done even in the intercollegiate regatta where a handicapped crew which won might get a prize, but the champion would be decided on a time-elapsed basis.

BOXING: Bar all obvious mismatches. Ban all fighters who have been losing or been knocked out too often. Bar all chiseling managers. (That will be the day!!)

Well, these are just a few of the things you fans have been squawking about. If you have more, send them along.

Pesky Will Play With Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Dec. 16 (AP)—Johnny Pesky, failing to get the minor league managing job he wanted, signed on today for another season of playing baseball with the Baltimore Orioles.

It will be the 11th for the 35-year-old utility infielder.

Pesky played only 20 games with Detroit and 49 with Washington last season.

"I told the Nats I wanted to get a manager's job in the minors and they gave me my release," Pesky said from his home in Lynn, Mass.

"But I didn't line up the right job, so I decided to keep playing. I hope I can help the Orioles."

In the nine seasons he played before this year, 8½ with the Boston Red Sox, Pesky hit .309. He can play second, short or third so that his presence might give Manager Paul Richards freedom to trade someone else.

Pesky makes 39 on the Oriole roster, 25 of them never having worn a Baltimore uniform. He is the third "old timer" secured by Richards this week. Monday he bought the 35-year-old Billy Cox, a third baseman, and 37-year-old Preacher Roe, a pitcher, from Brooklyn.

STYMIE SHUTTLES

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — (NEA) — Stymie has left his Kentucky home and will stand for 1955 at Dr. Frank Porter Miller's Sunnyslope Farm, near here.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

The Allegany Beagle Club's fenced running grounds adjacent to Barton's Dairy is posted and will be patroled during hunting season.

All trespassers will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Kanter Rebuked For Popping Off After Title Go

Says Butt Entitled Langlois To Draw

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16 (AP)—The American representative of boxer Pierre Langlois executed a backward flip-flop late today and drew a two-week suspension for popping off about the Frenchman's loss last night to world middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson.

The rebuke (that's what the suspension amounted to) was delivered by Chairman Tony Entenza of the California Athletic Commission to George Kanter of New York, Langlois' spokesman.

The chairman, after a general retreat by the Langlois camp from charges of bad officiating in the nationally televised fight, had a word of praise for the fighter and his official manager, Jean Bretonnel.

Say They Were Misquoted

Profuse apologies came from Kanter and Bretonnel, who claimed that they had been misquoted and that translations from French to English had been faulty.

Olson scored a technical knockout after 58 seconds of round 11 of the scheduled 15-round fight when he ripped a deep gash in Pierre's left eyelid.

Kanter got nowhere with charges aired outside the commission's quarters that Olson had butted his fighter and the bout should have been called a draw.

Former commission inspector Don Shields said that movies showed Olson inflicted the original eye damage with a long right hand blow in the sixth round. There was no butt, he said.

Co-promoter Bennie Ford was still tied up with the accountants but he estimated that Olson's purse from the gate would amount to $37,200 and Langlois $18,600. They are also to get a share of TV money. The amount has not been disclosed.

Charge Olson Butted

Kanter was particularly outspoken about the alleged butt, saying it had been agreed that the "butt rule" would be enforced. The rule says that if a fighter is leading on points and is butted he receives the decision, but if behind, it is a draw.

Olson, 26-year-old king of the 160-pounders, emphatically denies butting the Frenchman. The champion says he opened the gash with a perfectly legitimate punch.

"In view of the fact that our fighter was butted, but not ahead on points, we are demanding a draw," Kanter declared.

Gate Is $107,660

A near capacity crowd of 16,543 paid $107,660 to witness the championship battle in the Cow Palace and a vast audience of television viewers tuned in around the nation.

Later, the referee, defending his decision, countered with:

"If Langlois thinks the doctor made the cut bigger, what do you think Olson would have done with an overhand right?"

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (INS) — From time to time this year, we have heard various squawks, and suggested remedies for the so-called ills the squawks mentioned.

These squawks ranged all the way from blasts against male adagio dancers, falsetto tenors, and TV comedians to marcelled wrestlers.

Laws against homicide being what they are, we can't very well adopt the suggestion that all prospective tenors and wrestlers be strangled at birth. But surely something could be done to protect the rest of us.

BASEBALL: Games too long; too much time wasted. Remedies: Forbid any manager from leaving side-lines or dug-out to argue with umpires. Cut out pitcher warm-ups at start of all innings except the first. Forbid anybody to pitchers' mound, including managers. If he wants to make a change, let him notify catcher who will tell umpire.

HOCKEY: Not enough scoring. One-one ties a bore with teams futilly racing up and down the ice. Widen the goal at least a foot. Tough on the goalies but the good ones still would be better than the dubs.

RACING: (of any kind) Bar all horses who have shown they can't even finish in the money. Let's have more quality even if fewer races. Banish owners who race horses for the exercise waiting for a price to crack down. (Swell, but how are you going to know?) Bar all jumping races.

TENNIS: Give the gate to any panty waist who shows any signs of so-called temperament. Driving ball out of stadium, tossing racquets, and other signs of juvenile petulancy.

FOOTBALL: Cut in half time for huddles allowed between halves. Abolish clipping pehalty, which usually is unjust. Abolish point after touchdown or make it be tried from at least 25-yard line. Or give an extra point for a td made by rushing or passing.

ROWING: Let's have some single and double scull races to take up long slack between eight-oared races. Let's have a few handicap races. This could be done even in the intercollegiate regatta where a handicapped crew which won might get a prize, but the champion would be decided on a time-elapsed basis.

BOXING: Bar all obvious mismatches. Ban all fighters who have been losing or been knocked out too often. Bar all chiseling managers. (That will be the day!!)

Well, these are just a few of the things you fans have been squawking about. If you have more, send them along.

Where Mental Patients Would Worship

A campaign to build an interdenominational chapel at Huntington State Hospital, a mental institution, has been launched in Huntington. The Rev. Griffin C. Callahan, says the $100,000 structure, above, would be financed by contributions. Plans were drawn by Huntington church architect, Albert F. Tucker. There is now no church facility at the hospital, which has 1,300 patients. (AP Photo)

Daily Bridge Lesson

TRUMPS NOT REQUIRED

ADVICE given to readers of good bridge books should usually be followed. But, if the book is thoroughly sound, it will include the word "usually," allowing the student to exercise his judgment when it tells him that the rare exception has arrived. That is true of the statement that you should not double a suit contract for penalties unless you expect to take one or more tricks in the trump suit. Once in a long time, especially in tournament play, you will find a situation in which that should be violated.

	♠ K 6 ♥ None ♦ 7 4 2 ♣ Q 10 9 8 6 5 4 2
♠ A 10 8 7 3 ♥ None ♦ A 10 9 5 3 ♣ K J 7	N W E S	♠ Q J 9 5 2 ♥ J 9 4 3 ♦ J 8 6 ♣ 3
	♠ 4 ♥ A K Q 10 8 7 6 5 2 ♦ K Q ♣ A

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
3 ♣	Pass	5 ♥	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Rdbl.

A kibitzer sitting behind West's hand was inclined to criticize him for having doubled that odd contract when holding not a solitary trump. The holder of that hand was a far better cardsman, however, than his silent critic, and later gave that worthy a neat lesson, though it was not invited.

First, he said in a low voice to his watcher, he felt it was quite likely he could get one trick each with his two aces, despite the type of bidding done. Second, he said that, if South had a finessing situation against a secondary honor in any suit, he probably would finesse against the doubler and thereby possibly build a trick for East. More important, he felt that his own void in trumps made it likely his partner had a possible trick, and the double might make South play mistakenly.

As it turned out, South's extreme confidence in his own hand, causing his redouble, presented East and West with a fine score, as after West's spade A and diamond A, the diamond 10 was led. So the defenders had only to wait until South gave East the setting trick.

At other tables, where the contract got as high as 5-Hearts, there was no double, so those East-West pairs didn't fare well comparatively. Deals like this don't come very often, but squeezing a few available points from most of them can count in the long run.

Tomorrow's Problem

♠ 10 7 3 2 ♥ A 9 6 ♦ A K J 6 ♣ 9 6	N W E S	♠ A K Q ♥ K 2 ♦ Q 5 4 3 2 ♣ A Q 2
	♠ 8 4 ♥ Q J 10 ♦ 8 ♣ K J 10 8 7 5 3

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South doubles East's 6-No Trumps and leads the heart Q, how should the declarer play for it?

Fort Hill Names Citizens Of Month

Ronald Rice and June Dean have received the honor of being elected "Citizen of the Month" in homeroom 105 at Fort Hill High School. They were chosen for the months November and December respectively. Both are junior commercial students.

These students were elected by their homeroom on the basis of courtesy, cooperation, and scholastic ability. Both will now be eligible for the "Citizen of the Year" award which will be presented at the close of the school year.

Calvin F. McMillion, teacher of homeroom 105, sponsors this citizenship award plan. The purpose of this plan is to promote better citizenship throughout the year.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

TRUMPS NOT REQUIRED

ADVICE given to readers of good bridge books should usually be followed. But, if the book is thoroughly sound, it will include the word "usually," allowing the student to exercise his judgment when it tells him that the rare exception has arrived. That is true of the statement that you should not double a suit contract for penalties unless you expect to take one or more tricks in the trump suit. Once in a long time, especially in tournament play, you will find a situation in which that should be violated.

	♠ K 6 ♥ None ♦ 7 4 2 ♣ Q 10 9 8 6 5 4 2
♠ A 10 8 7 3 ♥ None ♦ A 10 9 5 3 ♣ K J 7	N W E S	♠ Q J 9 5 2 ♥ J 9 4 3 ♦ J 8 6 ♣ 3
	♠ 4 ♥ A K Q 10 8 7 6 5 2 ♦ K Q ♣ A

(Dealer: North East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
3 ♣	Pass	5 ♥	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Rdbl.

A kibitzer sitting behind West's hand was inclined to criticize him for having doubled that odd contract when holding not a solitary trump. The holder of that hand was a far better cardsman, however, than his silent critic, and later gave that worthy a neat lesson, though it was not invited.

First, he said in a low voice to his watcher, he felt it was quite likely he could get one trick each with his two aces, despite the type of bidding done. Second, he said that, if South had a finessing situation against a secondary honor in any suit, he probably would finesse against the doubler and thereby possibly build a trick for East. More important, he felt that his own void in trumps made it likely his partner had a possible trick, and the double might make South play mistakenly.

As it turned out, South's extreme confidence in his own hand, causing his redouble, presented East and West with a fine score, as after West's spade A and diamond A, the diamond 10 was led. So the defenders had only to wait until South gave East the setting trick.

At other tables, where the contract got as high as 5-Hearts, there was no double, so those East-West pairs didn't fare well comparatively. Deals like this don't come very often, but squeezing a few available points from most of them can count in the long run.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ J 9 6 5 ♥ 8 7 5 4 3 ♦ 10 9 7 ♣ 4
♠ 10 7 3 2 ♥ A 9 6 ♦ A K J 6 ♣ 9 6	N W E S	♠ A K Q ♥ K 2 ♦ Q 5 4 3 2 ♣ A Q 2
	♠ 8 4 ♥ Q J 10 ♦ 8 ♣ K J 10 8 7 5 3

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South doubles East's 6-No Trumps and leads the heart Q, how should the declarer play for it?

Fort Hill Names Citizens Of Month

Ronald Rice and June Dean have received the honor of being elected "Citizen of the Month" in homeroom 105 at Fort Hill High School. They were chosen for the months November and December respectively. Both are junior commercial students.

These students were elected by their homeroom on the basis of courtesy, cooperation, and scholastic ability. Both will now be eligible for the "Citizen of the Year" award which will be presented at the close of the school year.

Calvin F. McMillion, teacher of homeroom 105, sponsors this citizenship award plan. The purpose of this plan is to promote better citizenship throughout the year.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP) — The stock market surged ahead to new peaks today with leaders displaying exceedingly sharp gains.

The market's action marked a resumption of the bull market boom which was interrupted for about a week with a hesitant retreat.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.80 at $151.20, highest since Sept. 19, 1929, when the average stood at $152.50, a short distance away from the all-time high of $157.70 on Sept. 3 of that year.

Steels, rails, oils, and aircrafts were stars of the advance today, and they were joined by motors, rubbers, distillers, airlines, chemicals, coppers, and utilities as well as a long list of stocks individually strong.

All of the components of the AP average advanced—industrials up $2.20, railroads up $2.40 at a new high of $119.00, and utilities up 20 cents.

The market wasn't especially broad with 1,215 individual issues traded, but there were 760 gainers and only 258 losers. Volume expanded to 3,390,000 shares as compared with 2,740,000 shares traded in yesterday's moderately advancing market.

There were many individual features. Bethlehem Steel, up 4¾ yesterday, gained 3¼ today at 104. Wall Street brokers reported rumors of a split, an increased dividend, a merger, and new government business. A company spokesman in reply to questions about the rumors said: 'No comment.''

Louisville & Nashville was up 2¾ at 86 and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis was up 8 at 119½ when directors approved a merger.

Atlantic Coast Line was up 7½ at 158 on a proposal for a three-for-one split. A week ago the stock sold at 130.

TXL Oil was the day's most active stock as it was yesterday up ¼ at 39⅛. In second place came Texas Pacific Land Trust off ⅜ at 15. It is selling ex-distribution four shares of TXL Oil.

They were followed by Jones & Laughlin Steel up 1 at 32⅞, Pennsylvania Railroad up ¼ at 21⅛, and U.S. Steel up 1 at 70¾.

Stock Market Surges Ahead As Leaders Gain Sharply

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP) — The stock market surged ahead to new peaks today with leaders displaying exceedingly sharp gains.

The market's action marked a resumption of the bull market boom which was interrupted for about a week with a hesitant retreat.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.80 at $151.20, highest since Sept. 19, 1929, when the average stood at $152.50, a short distance away from the all-time high of $157.70 on Sept. 3 of that year.

Steels, rails, oils, and aircrafts were stars of the advance today, and they were joined by motors, rubbers, distillers, airlines, chemicals, coppers, and utilities as well as a long list of stocks individually strong.

All of the components of the AP average advanced—industrials up $2.20, railroads up $2.40 at a new high of $119.00, and utilities up 20 cents.

The market wasn't especially broad with 1,215 individual issues traded, but there were 760 gainers and only 258 losers. Volume expanded to 3,390,000 shares as compared with 2,740,000 shares traded in yesterday's moderately advancing market.

There were many individual features. Bethlehem Steel, up 4¾ yesterday, gained 3¼ today at 104. Wall Street brokers reported rumors of a split, an increased dividend, a merger, and new government business. A company spokesman in reply to questions about the rumors said: 'No comment.''

Louisville & Nashville was up 2¾ at 86 and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis was up 8 at 119½ when directors approved a merger.

Atlantic Coast Line was up 7½ at 158 on a proposal for a three-for-one split. A week ago the stock sold at 130.

TXL Oil was the day's most active stock as it was yesterday up ¼ at 39⅛. In second place came Texas Pacific Land Trust off ⅜ at 15. It is selling ex-distribution four shares of TXL Oil.

They were followed by Jones & Laughlin Steel up 1 at 32⅞, Pennsylvania Railroad up ¼ at 21⅛, and U.S. Steel up 1 at 70¾.

Plans For PPG Water Line Are Being Expedited

Field Work Speeded As Winter Sets In

Operating under adverse conditions, City Engineering Department workers are completing the field survey for the water line the city will build to the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch.

City officials said field work on the project for the pipe line may be completed within a few weeks.

The survey crew has completed running the center line and are now getting levels needed to draw the profile of the 27,000-foot line.

The next step, officials said, will be to determine where construction crews are likely to encounter rock along the right of way.

To Locate Rock

This will be done by driving steel rods about 4½ feet into the ground at spots where rock formations are suspected.

Meanwhile, data secured by the field crews is being used to prepare plans and specifications for the project.

The planning work is being done by William E. Piper, local civil engineer, who was secured by the city to plan and inspect the line.

Present plans call for the construction of an 18-inch line, running 5.1 miles from the 36-inch crosstown line at the Fort Hill Reservoir to the boundary of the glass plant property.

May Cost Half Million

It will provide the glass plant with pure water for sanitary purposes, plus standby capacity to fill storage tanks used for fire protection in case a power failure should prevent the firm pumping river water into the standpipes.

Preliminary estimates indicate the line may cost in the neighborhood of half a million dollars.

The line begins at Fort Hill, leaves the city limits near Oldtown Road and in general follows the highway until it departs in the direction of the North Branch plant.

The company will use Potomac River water for manufacturing purposes and the city, in accordance with its promise, plans soon to let a contract for a sewage treatment plant which will help protect the health of the workers.

Lay Track For Glass Plant

The stretch of track being laid by Albert T. Rockwell, Carl G. Thomas and L. E. Iser is part of the miles of track being built at North Branch for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's most modern plate glass plant. The crews began work several weeks ago on the big track construction project which observers say is ticking like a clock. Other construction crews are busy grading the site for the big plant which is slated to be started next spring. The new plant will cost $34,000,000.

Aid Is Pledged Toward Training Of Handicapped

Meeting Is Planned Here In February

Legislative support for the establishment of special facilities for instructing physically and mentally retarded children of this county was pledged last night by members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

The promise was made at an overflow meeting in the Council Chamber at City Hall with Friends Aware of Handicapped Children, state and county school officials and representatives of the County Commissioners and City Council.

Plans were made for a joint meeting of the Board of Education and Friends Aware of Handicapped Children early in February after results of the school census—which includes a count of the handicapped—are available.

Mrs. John J. Long, president of Friends Aware, described the efforts of that organization, which has been conducting classes for mentally and physically handicapped children at Sunshine Camp.

She said Holy Cross Episcopal Church has offered the group the use of its vicarage and that the urgent need now is to obtain a trained teacher.

Friends Aware, she added, has discussed with State Senator Robert B. Kimble and the Delegation the possibilities of decentralizing training now given at Rosewood, so that Western Maryland might have a center of its own.

An outline of what is being done in other counties of Maryland for handicapped children — both the orthopedic and severely retarded —was presented by Mrs. Geneva Flickinger, supervisor of specialized education for the State Board of Education.

She suggested that a program be organized under the sponsorship of the County Board of Education when facilities are available.

The trouble, it was pointed out, is that the Board of Education has no empty classrooms in the city, and teachers for retarded children are scarce.

Dr. David W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent, said state aid is available for home teaching of the handicapped, by $600 a year grants for children trained in private schools and for specialized classes in the public school system.

He suggested the program planned by Friends Aware can best be speeded up by working with the county's school system.

Ralph R. Webster, county superintendent of schools, outlined the problems and said the recent school census may provide needed data on the subject.

WILLIAM E. BUCHANAN

W. E. Buchanan Succumbs At Local Hospital

Was Treasurer Of Lumber Firm

William E. Buchanan, 63, of Narrows Park, treasurer of the Buchanan Lumber Company, died yesterday at 3 p. m. in Memorial Hospital, where he had been admitted on Monday.

Mr. Buchanan contracted his illness in 1918 while serving in the Armed Forces during World War I. He was a son of Mrs. Elizabeth (Rhodes) Buchanan and the late Howard Buchanan, founder of the local lumber company.

He was born in Cumberland October 15, 1891. Mr. Buchanan was a member of Centre Street Methodist Church.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home, where a service will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. Howard Amoss, pastor.

Entombment will be in Rose Hill Mausoleum. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

Teachers' Pay Hike Request Given To Board

Proposal's Study Planned In January

An urgent request from the Allegany County Teachers' Association for $500 increases for most county teachers beginning in September 1955 was presented to the County Board of Education yesterday.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said that no action was taken on the request. It will be studied carefully at a subsequent meeting in January.

Presenting the request were Miss Gertrude A. C. Williams, association president, and the three members of the group's legislative committee, J. Stanley Hunter, Raymond O. McCullough and Joseph Haugen.

The association, at a meeting last Saturday at Allegany High School, adopted a resolution urging that a salary schedule ranging from $3,300 for beginners to $5,100 be adopted. The present range is from $2,700 to $4,300. The Green Commission recommendations for the state range from a minimum of $2,800 to a maximum of $4,600.

An increase in public liability insurance on school buses was approved by the Board of Education effective immediately. The new limits will be $100,000 to $300,000. State minimum requirements are $10,000 to $20,000.

The Board of Education had been carrying $20,000 to $100,000 on small buses, $20,000 to $150,000 on intermediate size buses, and $20,000 to $200,000 for large buses. The county buses are now covered by Farm Bureau insurance.

The authorized increases are in line with the thinking of county school boards in various parts of Maryland.

Special guests at yesterday's meeting were Dr. D. W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent in charge of finance and research, and Dr. Geneva Faith Ely Flickinger, state supervisor of special education. They explained what report they planned to make at last night's meeting with the County Delegation on the proposals of Friends Aware of Handicapped Children for special school facilities.

The board also approved the awarding of a $9,114 contract to Joseph S. Karp and Brothers, Inc., 125 South Mechanic Street, for supplying and installing kitchen and cafeteria equipment in the new elementary school in LaVale.

Christmas Home Light Contest Deadline Near

21 Prizes Will Be Given Next Week

Cumberland area residents are reminded not to become so engrossed in the Christmas rush that they forget to submit their entries in the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce's annual Christmas Home Lighting Contest.

That reminder came from Gilbert Bohn, contest chairman, who reemphasized that 21 prizes will be awarded for outstanding displays this year.

There will be seven divisions in the contest and three prizes will be given away in each division. The grand champion exhibitor will receive a $25 cash prize and his display will be photographed to compete in the national contest where a $500 top award is offered.

Winners in each of the other six divisions will get $10, all second prize winners will be awarded $5 each and the third place entrants will get merchandise prizes.

Deadline for submitting entries is next Tuesday, December 21. They will be judged Wednesday and Thursday before Christmas. Residents may simply mail a postcard to the Jaycee office, Room 514, Liberty Trust Building. Entry blanks are available at the Potomac Edison store on Liberty Street, at Sterling Electric Company, at Keech's Drug Store, 43 Virginia Avenue, and at the LaVale Drug Store.

Each of the four sections of Cumberland, North End, East Side, South Side and West Side, is in a separate division for the Christmas lighting contest. Another division embraces Locust Grove, Narrows Park, LaVale and Allegany Grove. The others are Bowling Green and Potomac Park.

Bohn said last night that a number of local business houses have made donations for the contest. Merchandise has been offered by Peskin's, Lazarus, Builders Paint and Supply Company, LaVale Drug Store and Clingan Electrical Supply Company. Cash contributions have come from Potomac Edison, Sterling Electric Company, Tri-State Electrical Supply Company, Queen City Electric Company and Cumberland Electric Company.

Fort Hill Music Students Provide Christmas Emphasis

The Christmas emphasis at Fort Hill High School this year is being supplied by the musically-minded students. For the first time in some years the art students at the school are not painting the third-floor windows of the school with traditional religious scenes connected with the Nativity.

Special Christmas music will be sung at the two assemblies next week just before Fort Hill closes for the Yuletide season.

Junior high school music students will present their Christmas program at an assembly starting at 2:20 p. m. Tuesday. The junior high girls glee club of 160 voices, directed by Mrs. Doris Davis Williams, and the boys glee club of 50 voices led by Harold B. Hanson, will present the program. The public is invited.

The girls will start the program with a number of Christmas hymns and carols interspersing the reading of St. Luke's version of the Christmas story by Vera Elaine MacKenzie. Joyce White and Irma Johnson, will sing a duet, "Away in a Manager." Soloists will include Barbara Lippold, "Lullaby on Christmas Eve"; Barbara Alexander, "Jesu Bambino" and Carole Blackburn, "Star Of The East". Julia Hendrick will be the accompanist.

For the boys' portion of the assembly program, a 15-boy ensemble will sing several selections. Soloists for the glee club selections will be Larry Royce, Francis Coffman, James Diggs, Ronnie Growden, Randy Miller, Jeffrey Getz, David Rowley, Robert VanMeter, Floyd Grimm, Otto Littner and Mike Holshey.

Fred Waring's "Song of Christmas" will be the feature presentation of the a capella choir, directed by Miss E. Annetta Yates, at the senior high assembly scheduled for 2:20 p. m. Wednesday, the final day before the school holiday starts.

The Fort Hill Players, directed by Miss Helen S. Smith, will provide the background pantomime scenes for the cantata. Soloists will include Joan Luttrell, Darrell Henry, Calvin Kiffner, Edward Shinholt, Jerry Robinette, Dolores Shank, Evangeline Grim and John Zehrbach. Dolores Rowley will be the accompanist.

The assembly will begin with a candlelight procession. The choir will sing "Break Forth O Beauteous Morn," "Birthday of a King," "Come to The Stable," "Mary's Lullaby," "Jesu Bambino" and "Gloria in Excelsis Deo."

County Has 72 Traffic Deaths In Five Years

Percentage Is Second Lowest In Maryland

Grim statistics prepared by the State Department of Health show that 72 residents of Allegany County met violent deaths in motor vehicle accidents during the past five years.

At that, the Allegany County traffic death toll is the second lowest in the state — based on population.

Figures compiled for 1949 through 1953 show there were 16 motor vehicle deaths a year in Allegany County for each 100,000 population. Only Baltimore County, with an average of 14.6, was lower. Baltimore City, with an average of 16.1, was just a shade higher than Cumberland, but still well below the state average of 19.8.

The greatest traffic toll, based on population, was in Calvert County, which had 56.9 deaths for each 100,000.

Take Greater Toll

Home accidents take a still greater toll both in the state and in Allegany County.

During the five years, there were 97 home accidents in this county, averaging 21.6 deaths a year for each 100,000 population. This is greater than the state average of 17.4, and considerably more than Baltimore County's 11.5.

The major causes of home accidents were falls, fire and suffocation.

Babies Are Victims

The chief victims of falls were those over 65, who accounted for 451 of the 540 Maryland deaths from falls in the past five years.

Fire accounted for 293 more deaths, including 22 babies less than a year old, 56 from one to four and 37 in the 5 to 14 age group. Deaths from fire drop from 15 to 44, and then rise, taking a toll of 43 in the 45 to 64 age group, and 51 of those over 65.

Of the 192 Marylanders who died of suffocation, 145 were under a year of age. Seventy-nine of the babies died of mechanical suffocation, and 86 from the ingestion of foreign matter.

He pointed out that the Police and Fire Departments must operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and that the workers have been exempted from the rule due to the necessity of operating the vital departments.

Plans For PPG Water Line Are Being Expedited

Field Work Speeded As Winter Sets In

Operating under adverse conditions, City Engineering Department workers are completing the field survey for the water line the city will build to the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch.

City officials said field work on the project for the pipe line may be completed within a few weeks.

The survey crew has completed running the center line and are now getting levels needed to draw the profile of the 27,000-foot line.

The next step, officials said, will be to determine where construction crews are likely to encounter rock along the right of way.

To Locate Rock

This will be done by driving steel rods about 4½ feet into the ground at spots where rock formations are suspected.

Meanwhile, data secured by the field crews is being used to prepare plans and specifications for the project.

The planning work is being done by William E. Piper, local civil engineer, who was secured by the city to plan and inspect the line.

Present plans call for the construction of an 18-inch line, running 5.1 miles from the 36-inch cross-town line at the Fort Hill Reservoir to the boundary of the glass plant property.

May Cost Half Million

It will provide the glass plant with pure water for sanitary purposes, plus standby capacity to fill storage tanks used for fire protection in case a power failure should prevent the firm pumping river water into the standpipes.

Preliminary estimates indicate the line may cost in the neighborhood of half a million dollars.

The line begins at Fort Hill, leaves the city limits near Oldtown Road and in general follows the highway until it departs in the direction of the North Branch plant.

The company will use Potomac River water for manufacturing purposes and the city, in accordance with its promise, plans soon to let a contract for a sewage treatment plant which will help protect the health of the workers.

Lay Track For Glass Plant

The stretch of track being laid by Albert T. Rockwell, Carl G. Thomas and L. E. Iser is part of the miles of track being built at North Branch for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's most modern plate glass plant. The crews began work several weeks ago on the big track construction project which observers say is ticking like a clock. Other construction crews are busy grading the site for the big plant which is slated to be started next spring. The new plant will cost $34,000,000.

Aid Is Pledged Toward Training Of Handicapped

Meeting Is Planned Here In February

Legislative support for the establishment of special facilities for instructing physically and mentally retarded children of this county was pledged last night by members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

The promise was made at an overflow meeting in the Council Chamber at City Hall with Friends Aware of Handicapped Children, state and county school officials and representatives of the County Commissioners and City Council.

Plans were made for a joint meeting of the Board of Education and Friends Aware of Handicapped Children early in February after results of the school census—which includes a count of the handicapped—are available.

Mrs. John J. Long, president of Friends Aware, described the efforts of that organization, which has been conducting classes for mentally and physically handicapped children at Sunshine Camp.

She said Holy Cross Episcopal Church has offered the group the use of its vicarage and that the urgent need now is to obtain a trained teacher.

Friends Aware, she added, has discussed with State Senator Robert B. Kimble and the Delegation the possibilities of decentralizing training now given at Rosewood, so that Western Maryland might have a center of its own.

An outline of what is being done in other counties of Maryland for handicapped children — both the orthopedic and severely retarded —was presented by Mrs. Geneva Flickinger, supervisor of specialized education for the State Board of Education.

She suggested that a program be organized under the sponsorship of the County Board of Education when facilities are available.

The trouble, it was pointed out, is that the Board of Education has no empty classrooms in the city, and teachers for retarded children are scarce.

Dr. David W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent, said state aid is available for home teaching of the handicapped, by $600 a year grants for children trained in private schools and for specialized classes in the public school system.

He suggested the program planned by Friends Aware can best be speeded up by working with the county's school system.

Ralph R. Webster, county superintendent of schools, outlined the problems and said the recent school census may provide needed data on the subject.

Mr. Buchanan contracted his illness in 1918 while serving in the Armed Forces during World War I. He was a son of Mrs. Elizabeth (Rhodes) Buchanan and the late Howard Buchanan, founder of the local lumber company.

He was born in Cumberland October 15, 1891. Mr. Buchanan was a member of Centre Street Methodist Church.

Entombment will be in Rose Hill Mausoleum. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

Teachers' Pay Hike Request Given To Board

Proposal's Study Planned In January

An urgent request from the Allegany County Teachers' Association for $500 increases for most county teachers beginning in September 1955 was presented to the County Board of Education yesterday.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said that no action was taken on the request. It will be studied carefully at a subsequent meeting in January.

Presenting the request were Miss Gertrude A. C. Williams, association president, and the three members of the group's legislative committee, J. Stanley Hunter, Raymond O. McCullough and Joseph Haugen.

The association, at a meeting last Saturday at Allegany High School, adopted a resolution urging that a salary schedule ranging from $3,300 for beginners to $5,100 be adopted. The present range is from $2,700 to $4,300. The Green Commission recommendations for the state range from a minimum of $2,800 to a maximum of $4,600.

An increase in public liability insurance on school buses was approved by the Board of Education effective immediately. The new limits will be $100,000 to $300,000. State minimum requirements are $10,000 to $20,000.

The Board of Education had been carrying $20,000 to $100,000 on small buses, $20,000 to $150,000 on intermediate size buses, and $20,000 to $200,000 for large buses. The county buses are now covered by Farm Bureau insurance.

The authorized increases are in line with the thinking of county school boards in various parts of Maryland.

Special guests at yesterday's meeting were Dr. D. W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent in charge of finance and research, and Dr. Geneva Faith Ely Flickinger, state supervisor of special education. They explained what report they planned to make at last night's meeting with the County Delegation on the proposals of Friends Aware of Handicapped Children for special school facilities.

The board also approved the awarding of a $9,114 contract to Joseph S. Karp and Brothers, Inc., 125 South Mechanic Street, for supplying and installing kitchen and cafeteria equipment in the new elementary school in LaVale.

Fort Hill Music Students Provide Christmas Emphasis

The Christmas emphasis at Fort Hill High School this year is being supplied by the musically-minded students. For the first time in some years the art students at the school are not painting the third-floor windows of the school with traditional religious scenes connected with the Nativity.

Special Christmas music will be sung at the two assemblies next week just before Fort Hill closes for the Yuletide season.

Junior high school music students will present their Christmas program at an assembly starting at 2:20 p. m. Tuesday. The junior high girls glee club of 160 voices, directed by Mrs. Doris Davis Williams, and the boys glee club of 50 voices led by Harold B. Hanson, will present the program. The public is invited.

Soloists for the glee club selections will be Larry Royce, Francis Coffman, James Diggs, Ronnie Growden, Randy Miller, Jeffrey Getz, David Rowley, Robert VanMeter, Floyd Grimm, Otto Littner and Mike Holshey.

Fred Waring's "Song of Christmas" will be the feature presentation of the a capella choir, directed by Miss E. Annetta Yates, at the senior high assembly scheduled for 2:20 p. m. Wednesday, the final day before the school holiday starts.

The Fort Hill Players, directed by Miss Helen S. Smith, will provide the background pantomime scenes for the cantata. Soloists will include Joan Luttrell, Darrell Henry, Calvin Kiffner, Edward Shinholt, Jerry Robinette, Dolores Shank, Evangeline Grim and John Zehrbach. Dolores Rowley will be the accompanist.

The choir sang December 5 at Davis Memorial Methodist Church and December 12 at the Living Stone Church of the Brethren. This coming Sunday evening the choir will be at the Grace Methodist Church. Final community appearance of the choir will be next Tuesday night at the South End tree lighting ceremony.

Police And Firemen To Work Five Days In Christmas Week

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan yesterday reported that police and firemen will work their usual five days during Christmas week.

These departments, he said, have been exempted from a recently adopted rule granting paid holidays to city workers when a holiday falls on a day not normally worked.

The commissioner referred to an order passed Monday that in observance of Christmas, which falls on Saturday, "all city employes excepting the Police and Fire departments, shall be given a paid holiday on Friday . . ."

He pointed out that the Police and Fire Departments must operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and that the workers have been exempted from the rule due to the necessity of operating the vital departments.
